

Unique Net Neutrality Comments to the FCC in 2017 from WI District #1

These are the 1,074 unique comments to the FCC in the 2017 net neutrality repeal proceedings from people who identified their addresses as being in Representative Paul Ryan's district.

This does not include those who submitted comments to the FCC via online form letters.

While tens of millions of Americans did express support for keeping the 2015 rules via online campaigns, form letter responses are NOT included in this document. These are only responses that were hand-written, each of which reflects quite bit of effort and passion. The comments are presented in the order that they were submitted to the FCC.

Information on the methodology of this report is at the end of the document, and each comment below can be found by searching the FCC's comment docket at <https://www.fcc.gov/ecfs> under the proceeding 17-108.

1. Jean-Luc Vanderheyden, Dousman, WI, 53118
With this Email I am formally filing a complaint regarding the decision to reverse the protection and the neutrality of the internet. I oppose giving the broadband companies access to my personal information and being in charge of the internet. I wish the internet to remain open. This is a matter of freedom. I do not want to go backwards on this. Thank you for your consideration,
2. Maxwell Rice, Racine, WI, 53405
Net Neutrality is important and must be upheld. Do not allow corporations to restrict fair access to the internet to only those willing to pay an unnecessary premium. This government is supposed to be for the protection of all citizens equally, not a means for a wealthy few to take advantage of the rest. Internet service providers in the US must be reigned in and made to conduct their businesses fairly.
3. Anthony Tomaso Jr, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
The term "Internet Freedom" only applies to the businesses that supply this utility. And it isn't a service, it is a utility. Finding a job often requires it. Positions that allow you to work from home often requires it. By allowing corporations to determine how to provide it, you limit access to the citizens that need it. Passing this act would kill Net Neutrality, which is what citizens actually need.
4. Al Mozie, Burlington, WI, 53105

The broadband market has NOT changed substantially and please leave it as it is now. As a veteran who fought for this country, my vote must be count for the individual rather than the big corporations who don't risk their lives for our freedom. Please, NO CHANGES.

5. C K, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Net Neutrality drives innovation, creativity, expansion, and business. Curtailing the Net, will damage all of those things aside from cutting into people's ability to communicate and get things done.
6. Danielle Bessette, Waterford, WI, 53185
I am in favor of net neutrality. Please do not hand over control of the Internet to ISPs and service providers. This is not what Americans want. Please act in the interest of citizens and consumers instead of corporations.
7. Steven Seyferth, Racine, WI, 53402
I firmly believe that there is no good way to get rid of net neutrality. Simply because net neutrality is a good thing for everyone and helps our country become more advanced and consumer friendly like it should be. Please don't get rid of it. Please don't alter it. Just leave those laws alone. Thank you.
8. nathan pennington, Wales, WI, 53183
Giving ISPs the power to "wall off" parts of the internet and essentially manipulate websites by impacting speed and thus traffic to them is not good for consumers and users of the internet.
9. William Rezel, Waukesha, WI, 53189
The aimed to prevent companies that bring Internet into homes from favoring their own content over others. the head of the Federal Communications Commission, is that they're curbing broadband investment in low-income neighborhoods - However you can't cherry pick information like he is. This was largely due to AT&T. It's blamed the Open Internet rules for decreased broadband investment. Analysts point out, however, that like other large carriers it was engaged in a competitive shift that likely played a role â€” two mammoth acquisitions including the $85.4 billion deal for Time Warner. At the same time, Comcast â€” another big spender of broadband investment â€” increased its outlays by double digits. Please keep Net neutrality in place!
10. Laura Dempsey, Waterford, WI, 53185
Dear Chairman Pai,Â Â Thank you for your efforts to repeal the federal government'sÂ Â Title IIÂ Â internet regulations. I support removing these regulations so that the internet is once again free and open. RepealingÂ Â Title IIÂ Â will increase broadband deployment and competition, and expand consumer choice.
11. Amy Furreness, Kenosha, WI, 53143

I support strong net neutrality backed by title II oversight of Internet Service Providers (ISPs). ISPs should not have the ability to slow down competitors services while making their own services faster. Please do not remove Net Neutrality . Thank you for reading my comment.

12. Andrea, Kenosha, WI, 53142

I specifically support strong Internet Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. Preserve Net Neutrality and Title II!

13. Renee Mouilso, East Troy, WI, 53120

I strongly support the net neutrality ruling of Title II which places stronger regulations on ISP providers. I strongly oppose allowing ISP providers to police themselves.

14. Nicholas Strong, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

Dear FCC, I write to you now about Net Neutrality, but I fear that it will accomplish nothing, because all evidence indicates that you have been bought and paid for by the telecom industry. Net Neutrality is MANDATORY to keep a level playing field on the internet. Eliminating neutrality will disadvantage small businesses in favor of big businesses. In addition, it also takes a platform that has been the embodiment of the 1st Amendment, and turns it into a pay-to-win system. This would be an utter atrocity. The world should not be run by corporations - it should be run by the people. And you can claim that it is run by people all you want, but that is just not the case in the modern world. The world is run by the few, and the elite, and the powerful. And they manipulate the masses for their own gains. And the layers of bureaucracy protect those that are in power from ever being assaulted directly in an election, and even to simply defy or ignore voters completely. Please, do not fall victim to the lure of power and money. Governments are supposed to serve the people, not the other way around. I know it is hard, but you have to resist the legalized bribery, and the influence of corporations. Please, do the right thing. Please keep our net free.

15. Anthony Fay, Burlington, WI, 53105

Net neutrality under Title II needs to be preserved.

16. Nicholas Strong, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

17. Albert L Lord, Big Bend, WI, 53103
I strongly support Net neutrality back by title 2 ISP neutrality. Keep your hands of net neutrality.
18. Erick Vorpahl, Kenosha, WI, 53143
I stand under the internet being under Title II of the Communications Act of 1934, and support an open internet.
19. Darren Leuwerke, Wales, WI, 53183
Net Neutrality is vital for US economic growth. Save Net Neutrality.
20. Alexander Fernan, Milton, WI, 53563
Please do not eliminate current net neutrality rules under Title 2. Why would you? The only legitimate reason would be to make more money for isp's and other large corporations. Come on guys.
21. William Hueston, Waukesha, WI, 53189
I am strongly in favor of Title 2 protections for Internet use. The rest of my household agrees. Please don't alter the rules as they currently stand.
22. Laura Benson, Kenosha, WI, 53140
I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II over site of ISP's. Thank you
23. Paul Marren, East Troy, WI, 53120
Please retain Net Neutrality and keep Title II in place.
24. Julie Serwer, Janesville, WI, 53548
Preserve Net Neutrality and Title II oversight. It is ludicrous to think a former Verizon employee has mental neutrality when it comes to this issue.
25. Christina Slaback, Janesville, WI, 53548
Writing in support of net neutrality.
26. Net Neutrality, Muskego, WI, 53150
I strongly support net neutrality and strong regulation under title 2.
27. Steve Thoms, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
I support Net Neutrality and Title 2, as should our government.

28. William Fleischer, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I find it ludicrous that after 3 years of settled regulation that has had minimal public resistance from ISPs, the FCC seeks to lessen the protections for the free flow of data in the internet. The internet is a critical marketplace for both information and commerce that should not be left to the complete discretion of for profit agents to control its flow. Please ensure that Title II regulation of ISPs remains in place.
29. Dave Strasser, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Support strong net neutrality. Backed by title 2 oversight. Don't mess with it
30. Michael Curtin Sr, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
I strongly believe in internet neutrality and do not want any changes to how the FCC regulates the internet today. Thank you.
31. Theodore Vollman, Racine, WI, 53402
Protection of the free and open internet is what has made the internet the economic powerhouse that it is. With it, we have had the rise of things without which modern life would be impossible, like Google, Amazon, Facebook, and Wikipedia. By removing Title II protections, large, already successful companies would have the ability to shut down all new competitors. Imagine what the world would be like if MySpace had been able to stop Facebook's rise. Therefore, in defense of small internet startups with the possibility of changing the world, I stand in support of retaining Title II protections on Net Neutrality.
32. Benjamin Stewart Sharp, racine, WI, 53405
Dear Mr. Pai,I am writing you today because I hope my voice still actually counts and from someone who has also spent a large time interacting with the internet I have gained respect for and support strong net neutrality backed by heavy title 2 oversight of ISP's, The way I see the internet is comparatively to how I see the real world day to day but a place where we can communicate on most occasions the same level, If the bill passes it will take away consumer choice by taking away the need for companies to compete causing less interest in the consumers to want to use the internet leading to being offline more giving less revenue which becomes a cycle.I know you might already of thought of this but try to see this from all of our perspective if you can and understand how much this means to all of us that use the internet. Thank you for your time, Benjamin Sharp
33. Jeremy Foat, Delavan, WI, 53115
I thoroughly and utterly support strong net neutrality laws and I want net neutrality to stay Title 2!
34. Justin Laur, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
I support strong Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISPs. I actually still can't believe we are doing this. This shouldn't even be up for debate. I believe in a free and open internet and ISPs shouldn't have the ability to control this.

35. Christopher Eckardt, Janesville, WI, 53546
I support net neutrality. Our internet infrastructure is already weaker than other first world countries. We need ISP companies to improve their infrastructure, we the people demand newer technology to provide higher internet speeds for what we pay for. We aren't even in the top 10 for average Mbps speeds!!! FINLAND HAS HIGHER SPEEDS THAN WE DO... FINLAND!!!It is time to keep up with the rest of the world. Make America Great Again!P.S. The new FCC chairman's coffee mug sucks.
36. Brent Lewis, Salem, WI, 53168
Don't give ISPs the power to throttle down competitors, before net neutrality Netflix was constantly throttled by ISPs ever since it's been a non issue. tyese companies will throttle competitors at come point and they will do it so slowly no one will notice. Keep the Internet fair for anyone who wants to put content on it and not just the ones with the biggest wallets.
37. Daniel Hirsch, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Please keep the internet open. Keep Net Neutrality and let it run free. Let it stay as Title II.
38. Camden Mueller, Janesville, WI, 53548
Keeping Net Neutrality in place is vital to the survival of a fair internet. The idea that ISPs will "voluntarily" ensure equal speeds is insane even for your rationale. Please keep net neutrality intact.
39. Frank Kashinski, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
We support strong net neutrality backed by Title 2 over site of ISP's Thank you.
40. Roxanne Norris, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
Save net neutrality under title II. Don't end net neutrality.
41. Sage Holloway, Kenosha, WI, 53142
The net neutrality rules supported by Title II are important. The threat to a fair internet is real, and I urge you to consider the possible poor outcomes of having the internet not be neutral, to favor huge corporations and skew consumers use of the web. Keep title II in place.
42. Jenny Raby, Janesville, WI, 53545
Protect net neutrality by preseving Title II rules put into place in 2015 and to continue to enforce the Open Internet Order as it stands.
43. Ian Fiebig, Muskego, WI, 53150
The internet is too important, and two weak to un-regulate. Where I work we have only one option for internet. If they decide to prioritize traffic we would have no options with a uncaring FCC. When the internet is less dependent on common carriers we can look at un-regulation.

44. Kristopher Graham, Janesville, WI, 53546

Net Neutrality is an important regulation in keeping the "Open Internet" truly open and free and prevents the industry it regulates from acting anti-competitively against internet startups, consumers and the general public. Despite what the astroturfing¹ claims may say about there being no examples of abuse prior to the rules being enacted² ³ or that it has negatively impacted internet service providers', allowing the industry to voluntarily police itself is monumentally stupid at best and downright malicious at worst. You're basically planning to give the keys to the chicken coop to the foxes. If anything, Net Neutrality rules need to be expanded to include zero-rating⁴ as it is the same concept as fast lanes and slow lanes except on data rather than speed. Dominant internet service providers who have gobbled up media content producers have started introducing data caps (with hefty overage fees) while simultaneously zero rating their own content so that it doesn't count against the arbitrary caps they imposed. Sort of like a fast lane. This is against the very basis of the spirit of Net Neutrality in that the industry giants aren't to be allowed to pick winners and losers. Abolishing Net Neutrality will not create an "Open Internet" as the people who profit off of such things try and claim but exactly the very opposite. Net Neutrality is the only thing keeping the Internet open and free from such predatory companies. As the Internet increasingly becomes a bigger part of the daily lives of everyone, we require strict rules to prevent abuse and allow everyone access to the free and open Internet, uncontrolled by gatekeepers. If the FCC needs more comments for why Net Neutrality is an important thing, then the FCC needs only to look at the 3.7 million comments from the first time Net Neutrality was opened up for comment back in 2014 where fewer than 1% were opposed.⁵ Despite people trying to turn this into a partisan issue, it's overwhelmingly bipartisan.⁶ ⁷ Minority groups are being coopted into astroturfing by the cable industry in exchange for donations. <https://www.techdirt.com/blog/netneutrality/articles/20170213/14460536703/comcast-att-are-paying-minority-groups-to-support-killing-net-neutrality.shtml>⁸ Netflix had its content slowed by internet service providers unless it paid an interconnection fee. <https://media.netflix.com/en/company-blog/internet-tolls-and-the-case-for-strong-net-neutrality>⁹ Service providers like Verizon, AT&T and T-Mobile were blocking competing applications on their service. <http://www.tmonews.com/2013/05/t-mobiles-twitter-account-explains-why-carrier-wont-support-google-wallet/>¹⁰ Cable and broadband internet investments are not being harmed by Net Neutrality. It doesn't even make sense why it would be. <https://www.techdirt.com/blog/netneutrality/articles/20160823/09034535313/one-more-time-with-feeling-net-neutrality-didnt-hurt-broadband-investment-slightest.shtml>¹¹ Companies like Comcast are introducing data caps for losing content while making sure their own winning content doesn't count against it.

<https://www.theverge.com/2016/11/29/13774648/fcc-att-zero-rating-directv-net-neutrality-vs-tmobile>¶ You can't ignore that there was overwhelming support for Net Neutrality the first time around. Nothing has changed.

45. Matthew Gnepper, Kenosha, WI, 53143

I am concerned with the proposal to remove ISPs from Title II. More and more the internet is establishing itself as a utility and practices like Net Neutrality keep it open and balanced for everyone. This entire move reeks of partisan politics, and this is clearly a place where political bickering does not belong. Net Neutrality benefits everybody on the internet, and negatively impacts nobody. There has been saber rattling from the ISPs but all of their doom-saying hasn't come to pass and claims of stifling innovation haven't been provable either.

46. Noah Lesko, Muskego, WI, 53150

It is absolutely horrific to consider allowing our nations internet service providers to dictate what content gets to be seen at what speed. And that is why I ask you to reconsider keeping net neutrality and keeping ISPs with title II regulation. If law is passed allowing them to do as the please, the consumer will be hurt and the only gain will come from the internet service providers who already have too much control in our country. They already have what should be consider nearly monopolies, why give them even more?

47. Dave Zaban, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Dear FCC: I urge you to keep strong net neutrality rules backed by Title II. Please stand up for all Internet users and our right to communicate.

48. Anthony Arcoleo, trevor, WI, 53179

I need you to keep the internet governed under the title 2 standard mmk. None of this free and open internet nonsense.

49. Paul Lemke, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Iâ€™m worried that the protections that are in place will be weakened if we change the way theyâ€™re enforced. I would support a new regulation style if it guarantees the same or better protections, but not if we lose any. Allowing ISP's that are required to do the best thing for their shareholders will take the opportunity to make as much money as possible. Maybe not right away, but will in the future.

50. Matthew Paruzynski, Franklin, WI, 53132

I strongly support net neutrality and the enforcement of Title II in regards to internet service providers. In order to avoid an Orwellian future, where the lives of the masses are controlled by the powerful, it is pertinent for the internet to remain a neutral and free grounds of information distribution. I beg all those in a position of influence concerning net neutrality to not let the fleeting high of monetary gain obstruct their greater judgement.

51. James Kuntzelman, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Please maintain net neutrality; what used to be a convenience has become a necessity, and allowing isp's to decide what content and speed is immoral and should be illegal as well!
52. Net Neutrality, Kenosha, WI, 53140
I support strong Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 oversights of ISP's. I believe this is in the best interests of the American people and the future of the internet.
53. Mark Stegner, Big Bend, WI, 53103
Preserve Title II, Protect Net Neutrality. If ISPs are given monopolistic protections for regions then they belong under the same provisions as public utilities and should not be given leeway to filter or prioritize traffic for extra profits.
54. Brian Haynes, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
I support the current FCC regulation of internet service providers under Title II. I oppose rolling back these regulations and returning to the prior Title I regulations. We need strong, enforceable regulations to ensure that internet service providers provide fair and equal access. Arguments that the authority should rest with the FTC are disingenuous since the FTC is specifically barred from regulating in this area by Congress. The idea that a voluntary pledge by ISPs to maintain equal access is sufficient is laughable. Most Americans have very few options for Internet access, in some cases only one provider. Providers have very few incentives to maintain open access, and as media companies continue to merge with access providers, they have ample incentives to restrict access.
55. Jason Bowers, New Berlin, WI, 53151
I strongly support Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISP's. In this country, many people only have one choice for internet service. The flow of information to users, who don't have a choice on how to access that information, will jeopardize the structure and availability of said information. Corporations should have a higher responsibility to further strengthen the American peoples' knowledge and access to information that is unaltered and as correct as the source has written it. Allowing these ISP's to have the ability to change, restrict, or block access or content in the quest for even more money is a reality that will happen if they are not held to that responsibility. An open internet does not mean open to the ISP's to do with what they please. An open internet is an internet open to all humans, free of misinformation caused by the Internet Service Providers.
56. John Schaefer, Fitchburgh, WI, 53177
I support strong net neutrality backed by type 2 oversight. ISP's should not have the power or authority to ramp up or slow down service at their own discretion.

57. Dean Langenfeld, Caledonia, WI, 53108
PLEASE DO NOT KILL NET NEUTRALITY! The internet should be a basic right in today's age, not something that corporations can control. I support strong net neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISPs.
58. Ryan Chase, Janesville, WI, 53546
We support keeping a free and open internet by regulating internet service providers under Title II of the Communications Act of 1934.
59. Eric Nitz, Muskego, WI, 53150
I am in support of Strong Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISP's, as it fundamental to keeping the internet free and open and keeping the USA at the forefront of technology progression.
60. Allison LeMahieu, Franklin, WI, 53132
I support strong Net Neutrality. This is absolutely key to protecting the freedom of American citizens. We have the right to not let companies interfere with how the internet operates. Taking away these rights is a violation of my rights as an American. Thinking that companies will blindly agree to non-enforceable agreements is absolutely delusional; honestly 5th graders know better than this. Are you smarter than a 5th grader? If net neutrality is eliminated then you're clearly not.
61. Andrew Sikora, Franklin, WI, 53221
We strongly support Net Neutrality regulations under Title II oversight on ISP's. A level and fair internet is essential to the continued growth and progress on the internet as we know it. To allow the option of ISP's to favor or bottleneck traffic and throttle or influence speeds at will is unacceptable on any level.
62. John Martz, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
The FCC should protect Net Neutrality and Title II regulation status of ISPs and carriers. This is the best option available in the absence of Congress legislating more appropriate modern standards for ISPs because :
• Individual citizens need protection. Corporations and conglomerates are fully capable of looking out for their own interests.
• If the regulatory landscape is predictable and a level playing field, market forces will continue to drive infrastructure investment just fine.
• Corporations are incapable of policing themselves properly on these issues. No voluntary self-regulation scheme is workable because the profit motivation built in to our capitalism guarantees moves toward exploitation of consumers and monopolies wherever possible.- - - Therefore, former Associate General Counsel at Verizon and current FCC Chairman Pai's past stands on these issues is not in the public interest. "Free and Open Internet" should generally translate to "Individuals can expect Net Neutrality and Transparency, not to corporations are free to treat their customers any way they see fit.

63. Ronald DeBlaey, North Prairie, WI, 53153

I support strong net neutrality as currently provided by Title II. I do not want big business deciding what services I can or cannot use. I want a free and democratic Internet. Therefore I strongly disagree with the notion we need to change the current net neutrality rules as already stated in Title II. Mr. Pai's stated belief that Title II protections are not required because there is no evidence of ISPs making preferences of some services over others, is false. Just one example of this is Mr. Pai's ex-employer (Verizon), who shut out Google Wallet so that their competing product (then called ISIS) would be the only choice for consumers. His other argument that ISPs will voluntarily adhere to neutrality by making them state so in their terms of service is also ridiculous and not credible, since ISPs are free to change their TOS at their discretion at any time.

64. Net Neutrality, Greendale, WI, 53129

Hey yo Ajit Pai I support strong net neutrality

65. Juan Melendez, Racine, WI, 53405

Preserve net-neutrality and Title 2. Ajit Pai is a joke and a corporate puppet. He should not be running the FCC.

66. Colton Bushey, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Please preserve Title II and net neutrality. Specifically, I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II's oversight of ISPs. Thank you for the work you do.

67. Paul Avery, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53405

ISPs should remain under Title II. I do not believe that the ISPs can be trusted to ignore profits and maintain fairness of access. I support what is commonly called Net Neutrality.

68. brandon newhouse, Whitewater, WI, 53190

I strongly urge the FCC to keep Title II net neutrality rules. You exist to serve us, you might want to remember that.

69. Dylan Kugel, Eagle, WI, 53119

I support and strongly encourage the FCC to preserve Net Neutrality and Title 2.

70. andy penkalski, oak creek, WI, 53154

This is awful. Don't hurt net neutrality.

71. Kyle Carson, Kenosha, WI, 53142

I strongly support net neutrality and any opportunity to revoke that freedom does the American people an injustice. The internet should be as open and free to anyone to access it without the chance it could be throttled by the highest bidder.

Do not let your greed ruin the greatest contribution America has offered the world in the 20th and 21st century.

72. Dan Langenohl, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I believe that Net Neutrality is something that must stay intact. It is unfair for my ISP to dictate or prefer what sites I visit. It would be like my electric company charged me more for charging my phone than it would be to turn on lights. Internet is a utility and I should be allowed equal access to all information regardless of what my ISP wants.
73. Robert Larson, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53406
Please preserve Net Neutrality by keeping ISPs under strong Title II regulatory oversight.
74. Kayne Cushman, Milton, WI, 53563
Strong Net Neutrality needs to be in place with strong title II Oversight of ISP, with an emphasis on more ISP competition at a local level.
75. Dustin Cleveland, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Please continue to protect the free and open internet under Title 2 oversight of ISPs.
76. Michael Fulk, Kansasville, WI, 53139
Preserve a fair market for internet traffic, do not gut net neutrality by moving carriers back to Title I.
77. Restoring Internet Freedom, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Please stop trying to overturn net neutrality. Net neutrality is absolutely critical since it is not owned by the US nor by an one company, but is shared by all companies and all countries. Any action to hinder that neutrality against a corporation or a country or even a user violates the rights of everyone who uses the internet.
78. Dan Regalado, Kenosha, WI, 53142
I demand that you preserve net neutrality and title 2.
79. stephen hohensee, janesville, WI, 53546
I support a free and open internet through net neutrality. I also support ISP regulation through chapter 2.
80. Brittney R, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
I support strong and equal net neutrality, with type two oversight of ISP!!!!!!!!!!
Please don't fuck this up!!
81. Sean Backstrand, Bristol, WI, 53104
I strongly support regulations, Title II and other means which protect consumers, maintain a free and open internet, and prevent corporations from having any particular say in how data is trafficked and shared. The internet must remain global and egalitarian, for our collective future and for the sake of all. Thank you.

82. Mark Vissek, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I support Net Neutrality. Please preserve Title II regulations on ISP's.
83. AJ Arshem, Burlington, WI, 53105
I am in support of Strong Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISP's!
Keep the internet open.
84. Adam Nelson, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
I am in support of Strong Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISP. A fair, neutral internet is essential to maintaining liberty and free speech in the 21st century. A fair and neutral internet is also essential for a fair, free marketplace to exist on the internet.
85. Marijka Bosma, Clinton, WI, 53525
I believe in strong net neutrality and tile 2.
86. Matthew Hoffman, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
I strongly support keeping net neutrality backed by title II oversight of ISP's. We need a free and open internet, without ISP's having the ability to throttle traffic based on their own interests.
87. Patric McKanry, New Berlin, WI, 53151
I am here to add my opinion that the current net neutrality rules should not change, and we should not change Title II classification of them. Please reconsider this.
88. Austin Hall, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Equitable access to information is the bedrock of Western society. Do not let greedy corporations profit from throttling the internet. Net neutrality is a human right in the cyber age.
89. Benjamin Schnaare, Racine, WI, 53403
"Restoring Internet Freedom" is a joke. This is not freedom. No one should be allowed to purchase/restrict my access to the internet. Just like 'Right to Work', the naming convention alone is deceiving and goes to show how things need to be named to sneak them by the masses. Please keep the internet free and if anything, this should be adjusted to a PUBLIC utility that everyone is allowed to use.
90. None, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Keep net neutrality!!!! We need this to ensure the flow of uncensored, raw information.

91. Aaron Dutenhoefer, Janesville, WI, 53545
The internet became the success that it was not only because of the technical underpinnings, but because of its philosophy of open access. I fail to see how turning into a kind of multi-class-highway where the largest lanes are reserved for entrenched players with the largest checkbooks will help foster the kind of innovation that the first 40 years of the internet provided. KEEP THE NET NEUTRAL!!
92. Jacob Suggs, Racine, WI, 53404
Net Neutrality should stay the way it is under Title II. No one should have the power to pick and choose what gets faster uploading or downloading speed. A spoken agreement is not enough for ISP to keep Net Neutrality.
93. Nicholas Connor, Greendale, WI, 53129
Net neutrality is not something we can afford to compromise on. It must remain in place and continuously be protected. If ISP's are given any opportunity to harm their own customers or competing services, they will exploit those opportunities as much as they possibly can. Monopolies will form and be unshakable without net neutrality keeping download speeds fair and equal.
94. T, Waterford, WI, 53185
I support strong neutrality backed by title II oversight of ISP.
95. james oconor, burlington, WI, 53105
i support net neutrality and title II protections for it. please dont destroy the internet.
96. joseph, Genoa city, WI, 53128
You would be ashamed if you had any shame left. Keep net neutrality.
97. Alex Majeskie, North Prairie, WI, 53153
Please continue to support strong net neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISP's.
98. Petrit Pula, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
I support strong net neutrality backed by oversight of Title 2. This is what would make us great.
99. Evan Martin, Franklin, WI, 53132
Only title 2 is sufficient to ensure an open and free internet that benefits consumers rather than internet service providers.
100. Rebecca Orchel, Franklin, WI, 53132
Preserve Net neutrality as backed by Title II
101. Ryan Malesevich, Franklin, WI, 53132

I strongly support an open internet. New companies and services must be treated the same as existing services. Please preserve net neutrality and Title II.

102. Jonathan Doenier, Dousman, WI, 53118
I strongly believe that net neutrality should be maintained.
103. lisa schlotz, Oak creek, WI, 53154
I wanted to send my support for strong net neutrality backed by title 2 overdue is isp's
104. Matthew Manke, Racine, WI, 53402
I am in support of Strong Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs! There is no positive aspect or any gained freedoms for the people of our country to be had by encouraging ISPs to act with anything other than neutral intentions.
105. Chris Riedel, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Keep the internet free. Don't remove title 2 classification from ISP's. Proposed changes will not benefit consumers. They will only benefit corporations.
106. Daniel Mattson, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Preserving title II classification, thus preserving Net Neutrality, is essential to maintaining free speech and open markets, both of ideas and commerce, on the internet. Do not end Net Neutrality.
107. Mark Szczewski, Franklin, WI, 53132
Without net neutrality you break the internet. You kill innovation, you kill market growth, and you kill job growth by not supporting net neutrality. Don't put America behind the rest of the world by hobbling our internet by removing net neutrality rules.
108. Anthony Prochaska, Franklin, WI, 53132
Net neutrality is important to the integrity of free information!
109. Aaron Richmond, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53185
You need to fully support strong NET NEUTRALITY backed by Title II over site of all ISPs. Free and open access to the internet is a 21st century human right!!
110. mahdi, Franklin, WI, 53132
Preserve your neutrality and your title II (2)

Save internet freedom/net neutrality.
114. keep, Janesville, WI, 53545
Keep the regulations they are good for our internet.
115. Travis J Ruffolo, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Please avoid this alternate legal framework. In my opinion the best Internet would be a free Internet, support net neutrality.
116. Riley Dickert, Racine, WI, 53402
Our internet freedom is important to us. We will not stand for what you are proposing as law. If you take away our freedom, we the people will make sure you are out of a job.
117. Bradley P. Beaulieu, Mt Pleasant, WI, 53405
I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISP™s and oppose any move to reclassify ISP's under Title I.
118. Dwight Holley, Racine, WI, 53405
I strongly support a open and free internet. There is no reason that any ISP should be permitted to artificially limit my access to any given website on any given day and charge me more money to open a service they should have already been providing in the first place. The internet is not a usable resource, unlike water and power, it cant run dry. So why should you limit access to any part of the network if it is literally just increasing efficiency?!?!?! Honestly WHAT THE FUCK GUYS!
119. Joe Zielinski, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Preserve net neutrality and preserve title 2 For the love of God
120. Benjamin Anderson, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
I support Strong Net Neutrality by Title II oversight of ISPs. Docket No. 17-108 will be a major mistake and will ruin the Internet now as we know it.
121. Zachary Allen, Janesville, WI, 53546
I strongly support net neutrality rules remaining under Title 2 ISP oversight.
122. Sydney Johnson, Racine, WI, 53404
I support total net neutrality and Title II!
123. Christian Burns, Janesville, WI, 53546
I SUPPORT STRONG NET NEUTRALITY SUPPORTED UNDER TITLE 2 OVERSIGHT OF ISP's... Regulation is important to protect me the consumer

124. david asma, salem, WI, 53168
Democracy is built stronger by open internet rules. I support net neutrality.
125. Michael Kendall, Greendale, WI, 53129
Internet access has reached the level that it should be considered a public utility. Just as I'd not expect my power company to alter the performance of my refrigerator or lights, I don't believe my service provider should be able to dictate the performance of websites.
126. Taylor Woelfel, Waukesha, WI, 53189
I strongly support net neutrality, and back title 2
127. David Kroeze, Milton, WI, 53563
I endorse strong Net Neutrality backed by Title II.
128. Cameron B. Spencer, Kenosha, WI, 53143
I am writing to express my full support for Net Neutrality. Thank you for your consideration.
129. Annamarie Horvath, Racine, WI, 53402
Keep the net neutral. Consumers deserve the right to an internet with a level playing field for everyone. I do not approve of my internet provider, or anyone else, manipulating my broadband speed to further their own financial gains. Perhaps I can put this is a way Chairman Pai will understand. I like a neutral net as much as he likes his Reese's Peanut Butter Cup coffee mug. Really, does it get any simpler than that?
130. Lindsay Bailey, Greendale, WI, 53129
Yeah I don't agree with Ajit Pai. Keep title 2 in place.
131. Kyle Ludwig, Racine, WI, 53402
Keep net neutrality rules backed by Title II! ISPs will abuse consumers and slow their competition any chance they get.
132. Charles M. Giglia, New Berlin, WI, 53151
Please preserve net neutrality! I am opposed to rolling back the protections previously put in place. Thank you.
133. Robert Latham, Kenosha, WI, 53142
I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. Information should be equally accessible to all people regardless of income status or corporate influence
134. Ethan Tichelaar, Kenosha, WI, 53143
I support strong regulations on ISPs backed by title 2 oversight.

135. Donna Jaehrling, Janesville, WI, 53546
Dear Ajit Pai, I am writing to say that I support strong Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. Net Neutrality preserves our right to communicate freely online. Net Neutrality means an internet that enables and protects free speech. It means that ISPs should provide us with open networks "and shouldn't block or discriminate against any applications or content that ride over those networks. Just as your phone company shouldn't decide who you call and what you say on that call, your ISP shouldn't interfere with the content you view or post online. Without Net Neutrality, cable and phone companies could carve the internet into fast and slow lanes. An ISP could slow down its competitors' content or block political opinions it disagreed with. ISPs could charge extra fees to the few content companies that could afford to pay for preferential treatment " relegating everyone else to a slower tier of service. This would destroy the open internet. Thank you for your consideration, Donna Jaehrling
136. Steve Wesner, Salem, WI, 53168
Ending Net Neutrality will take us back in a stage in human progression. We cannot allow a few to control communication between people. If "fake news" is the problem, we need to progress towards ending MONEY and investing strongly in Education (technology), sustainability and the environment. This will weed out most social problems.
137. Brandon Kayser, Mt. Pleasant, WI, 53406
I support Title II Net Neutrality. Please do not reverse this.
138. Jeremy, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
Keep Net Neutrality under Title II enforcement!!!
139. Nichole Bernhardt, Kenosha, WI, 53142
I support strong net neutrality and encourage you to preserve Title 2.
140. Danelle Orange, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Net neutrality is central to my life. The ability to get information unfiltered by my internet provider allows me to do my job and my research without having to pay extra to get the services and information that I need to continue working and generating research in my spare time.
141. Sean Kramer, Muskego, WI, 53150
I fully support net neutrality and find it to be a vital component of a free-world. I oppose any and all actions that are being taken / may be taken in the future against it / that may result in the loss of net neutrality. As such I DO NOT SUPPORT Docket No. 17-108.
142. Aaron Gash, Milwaukee, WI, 53115
It's extremely important that we keep the internet fair and balanced. A lack of net neutrality creates a plethora of issues, including an unfair advantage to large corporations and cable companies. People of this country deserve the same speed internet for whatever they are trying to access, and passing any bill that would change this would simply be un-American.

143. Michael Withers, Salem, WI, 53168
Please preserve NET Neutrality and Title II. Dont let the ISP control the internet.
144. sharon schoen, Union grove, WI, 53182
I support strong title 2 net neutrality. Please do not make it easier for anyone to manipulate internet content or access options by rolling back net neutrality rules.
145. Alexander Hinman, Janesville, WI, 53546
3 years ago Americans made these same comments, but apparently the new FCC administration forgot. Please refer to those archived comments, as they are the same then as the comments today. NOTHING HAS CHANGED, WE WANT NET NEUTRALITY! I oppose the proposed changes and hope the FCC continues to enforce strong net neutrality rules to protect this great nation.
146. James McGarity, Racine, WI, 53406
Do NOT change the Net nuetrality RULES, I will make it my life mission to vote your ass's out if you do. Keep the Obama era rules
147. Paul Lendved, Racine, WI, 53403
I support net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. I also oppose the provisions of Docket No. 17-108.
148. vance sucharda, kenosha, WI, 53140
Ajit Pai is a shameless liar and is supported by isps to repeal net neutrality. They use double speak to make it seem like they are pro consumer or even for net neutrality.I am strongly in support of saving net neutrality and kicking Pai out of the damn organization.
149. isp, Racine, WI, 53402
Please leave Internet Service Providers as Title 2.
150. Jacob Granahan, Genoa City, WI, 53128
KEEP NET NEUTRALITY! Keep ISP providers under title II. I want a free and open internet, not one restricted by corporations.
151. Tyler, Janesville, WI, 53545
I am in favor of net neutrality. Do not get rid of it. I support strong net neutrality, backed by Title II oversight of ISPs.
152. Andrew Butts, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Net Neutrality is essential to maintaining a level playing field on the internet.

There is no good cause to uproot it. It is a small bit of regulation that holds back a whole dam of for-profit private regulation, which will be used to extract ill-gotten rents and deny access to a public good. ISPs require regulation. They can't even regulate themselves well now, giving them more power and less responsibility will not help.

153. Gary Krone, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
We have seen in the past that industries have a problem self-regulating themselves. Each company has it's own interest in mind and they will bend and weave their way around any self-regulations to push their own product and restrict any competitors.
154. Dan Barry, Racine, WI, 53402
I believe in net neutrality. Please leave the Obama administration's rules in place.
155. Enrique Qian, Franklin, WI, 53132
Keep the Net Neutral. It's important companies don't get even bigger unfair advantages over smaller companies with smaller budgets
156. Keith Konkle, Kenosha, WI, 53144
In order to preserve true net neutrality, you must preserve the entirety of Title II. We simple cannot trust ISPs to voluntarily maintain fair internet practices without legal obligation and consequences of not abiding by it.
157. Patrick Leick, Franklin, WI, 53132
Fight for net neutrality
158. net neutrality, Kenosha, WI, 53142
It is very important that you preserve net neutrality in Title 2.
159. Alex Hyde, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Net neutrality is a key component of a free and open internet. Dismantling net neutrality rules as proposed would allow for conflicts of interest between ISPs, their users, and online services, and allow ISPs to manipulate their users and online services for greater profit. ISPs simply should not have the power to influence the internet in this way while charging us premiums for internet service that is subpar.
160. CeCe Metzger, Racine, WI, 53406
Maintain Internet Neutrality.!!!
161. Matt Hadley, Franklin, WI, 53132
Fuck you guys, quit trying to ruin the Internet. We already pay for access to the internet, we shouldn't have to pay for website tiers or faster speeds to certain sites. Just quit it. Your parents and grandparents would be ashamed at the type of person you've become.

162. Robert Miller, Racine, WI, 53402
Net neutrality is important to the United States. Without net neutrality ISPs could slow information that conflicts with their own political view to the point where views contrary to an ISP would not be available. Net neutrality is also important to prevent a news source from being effectively blocked. While I understand that this has not happened, if ISPs are given the right to regulate speed a dangerous precedent will be created. Please leave net neutrality in place. I fear that the end of net neutrality will create favorite news sources based on speed, not content. The net is generally available to the public through only one or two providers. It is no less a public utility than AT&T was in the 50's. Net neutrality should be preserved.
163. Justin Shinske, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Please preserve net neutrality and title 2. it is the only thing that keeps the internet a free and open space for people to express themselves and get information and entertainment.
164. jenni, Caledonia, WI, 53404
I stand by strong net neutrality and so should you!
165. Justin Shinske, Kenosha, WI, 53143

Keep strong net neutrality rules backed by Title II! The Internet is not optional anymore, and neutral access to popular and unpopular thoughts, opinions, and facts need to be protected!
174. Brett Britten, Racine, WI, 53403
Why on earth is the FCC so adamant about overturning the existing rules governing net neutrality? This is one of the few things that 90 percent of Americans can agree with. Title II oversight of ISPs is essential to an open internet.
175. Eitan, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Leave net neutrality under title 2 please.
176. Mark Brady, Janesville, WI, 53546
Strong net neutrality is a necessity. Getting rid of strong net neutrality is a large step in the wrong direction.
177. Michael Cayemberg, Union Grove, WI, 53182
Please preserve Net Neutrality and title two
178. Christopher Baker, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Net neutrality needs to be supported and upheld BY THE GOVERNMENT. ISP's NEED to be regulated. They won't do it themselves, you'd have to be an absolute moron to think that. I'm looking at you, Ajit Pai, you piece of shit.
179. Elizabeth Rezel, Waukesha, WI, 53189
We specifically support strong Internet neutrality with Title 2 oversight of ISPs.
180. William Rezel, Waukesha, WI, 53189

I am a strong supporter of Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISP's.
183. Haley Valenta, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Net neutrality is a vital aspect of what makes the internet a beneficial tool to everyone, giving smaller companies the same ability as larger corporations to reach current and potential customers. I believe that should be protected above all else.

184. Mayank Mital, Greendale, WI, 53129
Dearest Ajit - Most Honorable Protector & Defender of the Bits & Bytes, Mr. Esteemed Chairman, Sir !The Mediterranean could not move Gibraltar - nor can I move your resolve to serve Verizon & the gaggle of ISPs.BUT - request I must, most mightily as I can request - Please Keep Our Internet FREE & UNENCUMBERED by ISP P&Ls.YES - ISPs like your friends at Verizon have gold-rushed Internet land grabs & now want to Tithe Us All. BUT WAIT - their investments, Billions though they may be, do not grant them eminent domain over American lives - American homework, TV, work-work, chats, Instagrams, Facebooks, recipes et al. We're all in this Digital EcoMass of competing, collaborating, conflicting demands that change by the millisecond. And all ultimately fall under the protectorate of America.YOU Toll Us - that's the answer. We'll pay YOU/FCC/Uncle Sam. YOU disburse the shekels to whosoever you deem deserving. Bring in the National Information Infrastructure Commercial Exchequer (NIICE). YOU manage the highway - NOT Verizon. Let loose the Digibahn - let us all go crazy & speed our bits around wherever & whenever. FREEDOM! Deal?

Please maintain strong net neutrality with Title II oversight of ISPs. This is in the best interest of individual internet users.
208. Jason Klemp, Janesville, WI, 53546
I support strong net neutrality backed by title II oversight of ISP's. I hold a graduate degree in information and communication technology. As such, I believe that I can speak with some knowledge and understanding of the topic of net neutrality. I am writing today in support of the fcc to maintain classification of Internet Service Providers under Title II. Net neutrality is a necessity to ensure that the internet continues to be free and promotes continued equal footing for all internet traffic. This freedom is what allowed the internet to grow and prosper from its beginning. Allowing corporations to prioritize internet traffic will only benefit corporations and provide ways for them to enhance and control revenue streams. Consumers are not well served by allowing the ISP to prioritize network traffic in any way. Internet service should be treated the same as any utility, such as gas or electric. ISP will have enormous incentive to try and manipulate the data and flow of data, and tricks of technology will allow them many advantages. The freedoms of consumers, and the equal treatment of (digital, internet) information, are in the best interest of our citizens. My comment today, is that the FCC must continue to maintain Title II classification of all Internet Service Providers.
209. Joshua Kreuser, Kenosha, WI, 53143
I support net neutrality and Title 2 as well as support those who vote for maintaining these laws.
210. Andrea Mercadillo, Kenosha, WI, 53143

212. Dan Buvid, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II of the Communications Act of 1934 and Section 706 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996. I believe it is crucial for all Americans to have access to the internet in an open and unbiased manner.

213. Joe Lininger, Union Grove, WI, 53182
Please preserve net neutrality and remain title 2. If not it must be classified as a common carrier per utility. The internet MUST remain free from corporate profit.
214. Mike Pucci, Racine, WI, 53405
I support strong net neutrality laws supported by Title II.
215. Logan Stipe, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
This proposal is a blatant attempt to allow internet service providers the ability to throttle content in order to extort money from content providers and consumers. What's next, my electric company not letting me turn on my TV because Samsung didn't pay them enough money? Maybe having me sit in the dark because my light bulbs aren't from a brand paying them off? Maybe Cadillac will remotely disable my car because my steering wheel cover isn't from a manufacturer paying them lots of money? The FCC needs to protect the 99%, not the 1% and their internet service providers. By the way, unlike what the moron in charge of the FCC says, infrastructure investments are not decreasing due to the internet being classed as a utility, he just used blatant lies to try and get the public to go along with ideas that act directly against their interests. Mindlessly slashing regulations is how we turn a product or service into healthcare: needlessly complicated and expensive for no other reason than "screw you, you'll still pay for it."
216. Cullen Donahoe, Muskego, WI, 53150
Preserve net neutrality, and title II, don't let greed ruin the internet for everyone
217. James smith, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Dismantling net neutrality, is in my eyes, a direct affront to that freedom. I implore that the right decision is made and net neutrality is preserved. Thank you.
220. Eugene B. Loftin, Racine, WI, 53406

225. Christopher A Brown, Burlington, WI, 53105
I support a robust Net Neutrality, and support that Internet Providers be kept under the Title 2 rating that they have currently be under. I believe this will help support a strong, fast and robust internet in this country, and will help make us even stronger in the future.
226. Albert, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
I support Title II and Net Neutrality. Allowing this to pass would be one of the worst things to ever happen to a free and open internet.
227. Kevin MacPhail, Racine, WI, 53404
There is no open society without an open Internet. Please keep the Internet open.
228. Amanda VanSwol, Racine, WI, 53406
I support the strong net neutrality that is back by Title II watching over ISP's. Please listen to us.
229. Jordan Hildebrandt, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Do not cripple net neutrality; preserve Title 2.
230. Marie, Racine, WI, 53403
I support Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 for ISP's
231. Emily Janssen, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Please maintain net neutrality by continuing to classify Internet under Title 2, as a utility. It is appropriate to consider Internet a utility, and net neutrality allows free speech, free markets, and entrepreneurship to flourish in our online world. Internet access is no longer a luxury; it is as essential as telephone lines and electricity. People use the Internet not only to stay in touch with friends and family, but also to apply for jobs, keep in touch with business contacts, stay up-to-date on news and politics, and find local businesses and services - many of the things which you only needed a telephone for a few decades ago. For these reasons, it is appropriate to classify Internet as a utility. It is essential to keep the Internet free of Internet Service Providers' biases. We will either have an Internet regulated by selfish businesses, or an Internet whose providers are regulated by the people, by way of the government. Net neutrality guarantees freedoms of speech and expression online for individual human beings, whose rights are now, as always, more important than the "rights" of corporations. Keeping the net neutral protects our American value of free speech from the whims of ISPs. In addition, net neutrality encourages innovation and competition among online businesses. In other words, it's good for the economy and for entrepreneurship. Net neutrality means that ISPs can't slow down new or less-popular Internet-based companies in favor of more established or popular companies. I figure you're probably sick of examples that involve Netflix, so let's think about a different corner of the Internet. There are at least four companies who deliver ingredients and recipes all over the nation (Plated, Blue Apron, Hello Fresh, and Sun Basket). Under net neutrality, all four companies are equally accessible. If net neutrality is sacrificed to the special interest of the ISPs, Spectrum (or any ISP) could acquire one of the companies - let's say Blue Apron - and speed up that brand's website, making its competitors seem slow by comparison - and thereby advantaging itself at the expense of the free market. New jobs in tech will grow faster, and consumers will have more options, if the Internet remains free of these kinds of heavy-handed bias by ISPs.

232. Steve Cavadeas, Franklin, WI, 53132
As a consumer, I do not believe that reducing regulation on net neutrality is in my nor other consumers best interest. Furthermore, this will significantly reduce competition and hurt small businesses
233. Jessica Kuzma, FRANKLIN, WI, 53132
Please preserve strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs.
234. linda kuzma, Franklin, WI, 53132
PReserve net neutrality and title 2 oversight of ISPs
235. Lydia Kowal, Janesville, WI, 53546
I support strong net neutrality, backed by title 2 oversight of ISP's!
236. Josh Wagner, Franklin, WI, 53132
Keep the internet free. This is a direct invasion of rights.
237. Andrew Krieg, Eagle, WI, 53119
Most of us have no choice who are ISP is. In effect they are all monopolies over large portions of the country. Giving monopolies the power to control net neutrality gives us as consumers no rights at all over our Internet content. Please keep ISPs controlled under Title II.
238. mark cutler, Kenosha, WI, 53140

I strongly urge you to keep the title 2 net neutrality rules.

239. Michele Ianni, Janesville, WI, 53545

I support retaining Title 2 classifications related to Net Neutrality. I firmly believe that it is in the best interest of the American people - those that the government are supposed to represent and protect.

240. Katherine B. Carson, Racine, WI, 53406

I support net neutrality; keep act II

241. Paul Kiely, Kenosha, WI, 53143

Please do not change internet neutrality and title II

242. Caroline, Janesville, WI, 53545

The internet is an incredible resource and must be kept neutral.

243. Nathaniel Bashaw, Salem, WI, 53168

We need strong net neutrality. Title II was a good step for the internet. Soso many people have limited provide choices, ISPs are increasingly becoming content produces or have stakes in streaming services. Dish Network with sling TV, Comcast with NBC, ATT wanting WB and DIRECTV Now. ATT already makes their own services not count against data caps, don't let them slow, block, or degrade competitors services like Netflix YouTube or Hulu

244. akhil, Racine, WI, 53403

I specifically support net neutrality back by title 2 oversight of ISPs.

245. Chris Mitchell, Cudahy, WI, 53119

Preserve net neutrality and title 2, please and thank you.

246. pete, Racine, WI, 53403

247. Gilbert Anderson, Kenosha, WI, 53142

I vehemently demand that the FCC refuse to monetize the rights of all American citizens to the benefit of a few. 17-108 rejects the citizens right to equal access and provides benefit$$ to Verizon and all ISPs who could monetize unrestricted access while denying it to whomever they please. This is graft at it's worst.

248. Natalie Lirette, North Prairie, WI, 53153

I STRONGLY support net neutrality and the importance of Title 2

249. Kristin, Racine, WI, 53405

Net neutrality as defined by Title II is very important for the future of the internet and all internet customers. It prevents corruption and abuse, while having minimal to no effect on the investment of ISPs. It is very important to American principles that Net Neutrality is maintained by the Title II standards.

250. Jeff Curto, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
I believe Net Neutrality is important for our country. Please keep ISPs under Title 2.
251. Joseph Alane, Dousman, WI, 53118
Keep net neutrality, keep title 2, keep regulations.
252. mp larue, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
Keep isps under title 2 and keep net neutrality
253. John Mirsberger, Racine, WI, 53403
I am in favor of Net Neutrality.
254. Vincent Alcala, Franklin, WI, 53132
I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs, please restore internet freedom and keep it that way. Thank you.
255. Eric Burghardt, Janesville, WI, 53545
I support net neutrality and believe that the title II classification for ISPs is important to the future of the internet and should not be changed. Pai is a lying Verizon shill.
256. Suzanne Silberschmidt, Salem, WI, 53168
I support strong net neutrality backed by Title 2 (Title II) oversight of ISPs. I believe it is a necessary and fundamental part of a free modern world.
257. Edd Ghent, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Please, I beg of you, preserve net neutrality and Title III!!!
258. Elizabeth L. Schnaare, Racine, WI, 53403
Please defend net neutrality and keep ISPs under Title II. It is important to all Americans and necessary to keep our internet access equal.
259. Mark Cribb, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Preserving Net Neutrality and Title II is exceptionally important. You must not reclassify as Title I as that would provide the legal footing necessary for ISP's to operate in opposition to the best interest of consumers.
260. Net Neutrality, Silver Lake, WI, 53170
Preserve Net Neutrality. I learned more about economics from a Youtube series by Extra Credits than my high school econ class. I'm learning just as much about programming from Stack Overflow as I am from my Cs241 class. Net Neutrality protects the rights of online content creators, who aren't backed by big corporations, to share wonderful information like brief descriptions of the history and unique styles of over fifty different martial arts which I spent all of last night reading. History is interesting.

261. Timothy P. Reyes, Kenosha, WI, 53140
The Trump administration must NOT be allowed to kill Net Neutrality! Preserve Net Neutrality and Title II. I strongly and specifically support net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of Internet service providers.
262. Robert, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Preserve net neutrality and Title II controls.
263. Samuel Andrekus, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Do the sponsors of this bill actually understand what they are doing to the future of the internet? I know it won't affect most of them because many are sixty years old or more with millions of dollars and no real connection to the common folk, much less young people that use the internet daily. There really needs to be some sort of technological proficiency level requirement for anyone willing to pass this bill. Please reconsider: you're allowing private corporations (that seem to be awfully friendly with each other and fantastic at staying out of each others way, by the way) even more avenues to create online monopolies. I'm not sure about you folks, but I'm really getting sick of getting screwed monthly by my service providers (I can almost hear them drooling over the prospect of imposing data caps on my land line at this very moment) and I'd really appreciate not getting screwed any harder by my good friends at Time Warner (soon to be AT&Time Warner, less soon to be AT&Time Warner SprintRizon).
264. Travis, Burlington, WI, 53105
I believe that Net Neutrality is important to keeping Internet Service Providers from fucking over consumers.
265. Bradley Gorsline, Bristol, WI, 53104
Please preserve net neutrality and strong enforcement under title 2.
266. Nicholas Steeves, Wind Lake, WI, 53185
Please keep net neutrality. I believe it's very, very important for our society.
267. Daniel, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
Preserve Net Neutrality and Title 2. The wealth of human knowledge should not be stigmatized for personal or economic gain.
268. Jeffrey James, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I support net neutrality! Rolling back any regulations will influence the availability and freedom of the internet.
269. Derek Hubbard, Racine, WI, 53404
Please do not kill net neutrality. The Internet is a vital function in today's economy, and letting businesses set their own rules is a monumentally bad decision. We have little to no competition in the broadband market now, and restricting traffic in any way will not help that.

270. Clayton Honaker, Salem, WI, 53168

I strongly believe in protecting the internet from temptations of abuse by ISP's. History tells us abuse will happen in any industry and it's your duty to maintain authority over telecommunications industry. It's naive to think that abuse wouldn't run rampant if ISP's are reclassified. If title II is removed from ISP'S, it's not hard to foresee so many violations that the FCC wouldn't have the resources to prosecute each violation on a case by case basis. The burden would be so great that the FCC wouldn't be able to keep up with every case. The FCC must protect the open Internet by maintaining net neutrality protections under Title II. The FCC should reject Chairman Ajit Pai's plan to hand the ISP monopolies like Verizon, AT&T, and Comcast the legal cover to throttle whatever they please, stripping consumers of the meaningful privacy and access safeguards we worked for and just recently won.

271. Frank Korb, Burlington, WI, 53105

I support and demand Net Neutrality.

272. Teresa Groves, Kenosha, WI, 53143

We need net neutrality. This is not an autocracy.

273. Leah Polack, Racine, WI, 53402

Net neutrality is important to maintain. And furthermore, leaving ISP as Title II is vital. The internet is free for all. I work in the local schools and it's wonderful to see the resources that can be used to educate. Please maintain both net neutrality and Title II for ISP's!

274. Kyle Bastian, Trevor, WI, 53179

The attack on net neutrality may seem tame at first glance, but is a unnecessary and potentially harmful step towards inequality. The internet has become part of our infrastructure and a daily part of life that is a necessity to people across America. These rule changes go against every ideal of American freedom and would likely lead to further inequality of access to infrastructure between the socioeconomic classes. Do not do this just to appear as though you wiped the last administration's policies off the planet, because we will fight you every step of the way.

275. Marc Applebee, Janesville, WI, 53545

Title II needs to remain in place, we cannot allow Verizon or any other ISP to prioritize traffic. The internet belongs to the people.

276. John, racine, WI, 53406

Please continue to make sure that Internet service providers (ISPs) cannot limit, slow down access to, or otherwise manipulate the choices that we consumers make online by slowing down access to less popular sites. Keep the current system and laws in place.

277. jeffrey bennett, Janesville, WI, 53545

I am in support of strong net neutrality laws backed by title 2 oversight of ISP's.

278. Tricia Behling, Franklin, WI, 53132

To whom this may concern, I am an American currently living abroad, and I would like to express my strong support of net neutrality as protected by Title II of the 1934 Communications Act. Reclassification would fail to sufficiently safeguard the existing protections of equal access, ultimately allowing ISPs to prioritize access and content according to their financial best interests. Thank you for your time and consideration.

279. Jonathan Frey, Franklin, WI, 53132

I support Strong Net Neutrality laws under Title 2 oversight! Don't let the American People down!

280. Kyler Shields, Racine, WI, 53404

Net neutrality is a right. The same as freedom of speech, press, and religion. This shouldn't be a debate. It is of up most importance to not silence and slow the voices of the internet. The people have spoken and they will speak every time. Do not infringe the wants and needs of us. This is literally how civil wars begin.

281. Sarah Petrick, Greendale, WI, 53129

I believe full net neutrality is important and the rules should stay under Title 2. Protect the freedoms of the American people and keep net neutrality as is.

282. Mike Senn, Waukesha, WI, 53189

Leave ISP's under title 2. Preserve open internet and net neutrality as they are now! I'm watching you!

283. Curtis Szymczak, Franksville, WI, 53126

Taking away net neutrality will destroy the internet we love. Please keep internet providers under Title II just like any other Telecom company. It is absurd to think that internet companies would not be secretive about who has faster internet and who doesn't. Believe me, they will do that. Without regulation everyone company would be screwing the little people in the USA over. Please, keep internet providers under Title II and strengthen the regulation.

284. Caleb Holte, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

We need Title II Net Neutrality regulation. There is no way we can trust the ISPs to do this on their own, there is too much monetary incentive for them not too. Net Neutrality is absolutely essential to keeping the Internet free and open!

285. Richard Zielinski, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
Please keep the rules protecting net-neutrality or even make them stronger.
286. Jesse Teichmiller, Muskego, WI, 53150
We fully support strong net neutrality backed by title II oversight of ISP's. Net Neutrality preserves undistorted consumers' freedom of choice and sets a level playing field for social and political interaction. The internet would be changed forever by the greed of telecom and cable companies without net neutrality.
287. Evelyn Buchanan, Kenosha, WI, 53143
I support "Net Neutrality". Preserve Net Neutrality backed by strong Title II oversight.
288. Addam Weirich, caledonia, WI, 53108
I am in strong support of Strong net neutrality. Internet service providers should be classified under Title II Communication. All data should remain equal.
289. James C. Carlson, Salem Lakes, WI, 53168
Net Neutrality regs should be left alone to prevent large networks from erecting new barriers to competition.
290. Daniel Gomoll, Muskego, WI, 53150
Net Neutrality NEEDS to be preserved and ISPs should remain under Title II.
291. Sarah Supp, Janesville, WI, 53545
It is critical that we protect strong net neutrality. This is why the protections granted in 2015, shifting ISPs to Title II rules instead of Title I was so important. As a consumer and a scientist who depends on a free and open web for my work, I strongly oppose any changes that would weaken net neutrality, as Ajit Pai's proposal to repeal current net neutrality protections would. It is unacceptable for us to take a step backwards. We need strong net neutrality protections, and should keep and enforce the current rules.
292. Gerald Messick, Burlington, WI, 53104
Where is your sense of decency???? Support Net Neutrality!!!!
293. samuel kaminski, Muskego, WI, 53150
I am submitting this in support of net neutrality as enforced by title II. Thank you.
294. Paul Dugan, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
Trusting ISPs to self regulate is like turning your back on a child with a jar of cookies. If you let them take first pick all that's left for us is the crumbs. Keep Title II regulations to make sure your children have access to how great net neutrality is.
295. Rachael Kobleske, Mukwonago, WI, 53149

I support the title ii framework for ISPs. There is no evidence that investments in networks is falling. You can look at google rolling out fiber and watch at&t competing with them every step of the way. Comcast is also trying to stay ahead of google in the fiber network rollout. There is no basis here for taking away net neutrality.

296. Nicholas, salem, WI, 53168
Net neutrality and Title two need to be maintained to continue the equal opportunity and possibilities the internet represents.
297. Alexander Hamilton, Salem, WI, 53168
I support keeping ISPs under Title 2 of the Telecommunications Act of 1934.
298. Andy Kitzke, New Berlin, WI, 53151
Please do not weaken Net neutrality. ISP's should not have the ability to throttle based on destination.
299. Patrick Allen Morris, Kenosha, WI, 53143
I do not approve of any changes or acts that could end net neutrality for the private citizen. I strongly oppose any changes that would impinge upon net neutrality and would seek to end net neutrality. The internet for private persons should remain neutral, ISP's (Internet Service Providers) should not be allowed to bybass or get rid of net neutrality. Private persons should always remain priority before big businesses like ISP's.
300. Holly Poplawski, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53406
Net Neutrality.Look, haven't we gone through this already? I'm fairly certain you're getting hundreds, if not thousands of these. Maybe even millions. AGAIN. It is like some of you out there are like the kid with your hand in the cookie jar. You know we don't want you to do this, but you keep pushing it and pushing it, hoping that we're not looking the next time you reach.Except this isn't a cookie. We can't just make a new batch when the last one gets spoiled.This is our media. This is our communication. This is our creative outlet and our business model. It is individuals, communities, and companies. It is the infrastructure that helps us reach out to new horizons and reach forward to build our future. As the internet is a product of human need and serves to fulfill human needs, it belongs to all of us equally.I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPsThat being said, let's be realistic: Title II is old. They hardly had any idea what kind of economy or technology we would be facing. While shoe-horning the internet into the Title II classification of "common carrier" might not be the best permanent solution, it at least sets a precedent that the people seem to agree with: the internet shouldn't be split up and doled out by special interest groups (yes, this is an oversimplification, but I believe the point still stands). Any steps to prevent that from happening, even if small, are at least in the right direction.

301. Ricky L Jones, Racine, WI, 53406
You're not fooling anyone, we know this is about money, Trump and everyone working for him, don't give a care about America, it's about making rich people richer. Don't do this against america. Stop trying to use the American people
302. Thomas K Petersen, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Rolling back regulations on net neutrality allows for dangerous precedent to be set by telecom giants, who already enjoy the benefits of operating as an oligopoly. We must protect the consumers and ensure that these regulations remain as a way to force the telecom industry to play fair and not manipulate the consumer because of their particular choices. Please do NOT roll back these regulations, they benefit the consumers!
303. Mary Beth Skelly, Whitewater, WI, 53190
I support NET NEUTRALITY under Title Two. Undermining ANY individual's ability to communicate freely using the internet is NOT in our country's best interest. The person appointed to the FCC is yet another example of the current administration's disdain for our democracy and their main focus on profit for a few on the backs of many!
304. Heather, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
Keep the internet neutral for all! Please do not sacrifice this important issue for the wealthy to gain more wealth.
305. Curtis Schumacher, Muskego, WI, 53150
I support strong Net Neutrality laws under Title II, do not remove these laws. Your job is about protecting the people of the US, not the companies.
306. Peter Sosso, Janesville, WI, 53545
I support strong Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of Internet Service Providers. As a small business owner relying on the Internet for daily business communications and to supply content to my customers, this is very important to me.
307. Stevd Colombus, Kenosha, WI, 53144
The FCC needs to strongly support Net Neutrality and Title II. Do not put corporate interests to maximize profits ahead of consumers' rights and interests!!
308. LeRoyce Pearson, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
I am in support of net neutrality and title 2. It defends businesses ability to be competitive on the world wide web.
309. Amanda Gilszmer, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
I believe internet service providers should continue to be categorized under Title II to preserve net neutrality. I do not believe that ISPs should have the ability to determine (via blocking or slow internet speeds) which websites I can access.

Taking ISPs out of the Title II categorization only opens the possibility for them to place restrictions on customers for profit. It does not benefit consumers in the least.

310. Ashleigh Richmond, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
You've got to be kidding me that we are still fighting for net neutrality!!! You fuckers!!!
311. Patrick King, Janesville, WI, 53546
Please protect net neutrality and Title II for internet service providers. These regulations are absolutely necessary to protect the First Amendment and freedom of speech in this digital era.
312. Brenna Antczak, Racine, WI, 53403
Dear FCC Chairman Ajit Pai, I support the existing Net Neutrality rules, which classify internet service providers under the Title II provision of the Telecommunications Act. Please do not roll back these regulations. The internet is a crucial part of today's society, and removing these regulations would have a devastating impact on almost every part of our daily lives. Thank you for your time.
313. elizabeth steckling, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Support title II regulations. Net neutrality.
314. Daniel Hauenstein, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Net neutrality is essential to maintain our freedom from influence by corporations. Without it, they have the ability to actually force their programming or influential info upon us without our consent. When we pay for a product, we expect the product we pay for and not something that is forced upon us. That is stripping away our freedom.
315. Ryan Dover, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Please retain the current definition of Internet Service Providers (ISP) under Title II of the Communications Act of 1934. This definition will ensure fair consideration and treatment of all data on the Internet, not discriminating or charging differentially by user, content, website, platform, application, type of attached equipment, or mode of communication. This regulation is not only key to our democracy and freedom of speech, but will continue to drive technological innovation and business.
316. Bradley Michael Allen, Janesville, WI, 53546
I believe that the FCC should preserve its regulations on net neutrality, outlined under the Title II document.
317. Colleen Lyman, Muskego, WI, 53150
I'm writing to voice my opinion about net neutrality. Please vote FOR Title #2 and preserve Net Neutrality!!!

318. Dan Cruz, Racine, WI, 53405
This is a country of laws. We don't just count on someone or any corporation to do the "right thing". We have to protect ourselves from the companies because they won't protect us. They are there to make money at all costs. Leave Net Neutrality alone. Do the right thing for us!
319. ann kaminski, Franklin, WI, 53132
I support net neutrality and i support the title ii framework for isps
320. Brandon, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
321. Matthew Tyler, Janesville, WI, 53548
We shouldn't have to constantly keep fighting for the same rights. DO NOT take away our net neutrality.
322. Jason Dirden, Kenosha, WI, 53140
I support stronger regulations in regard to net neutrality rules. Regulations under Title II must be preserved!
323. Dan Herzig, Janesville, WI, 53548
I support strong net neutrality rules, keeping ISPs under Title II. The idea that an unregulated industry will not take every opportunity to maximize their profit while adversely impacting their customer base has repeatedly been proven false. Furthermore, hiding the ability to comment on the issues facing the FCC behind numerous menus and links clearly designed to discourage public input is a flagrant insult to the very process.
324. Kathy Brickman, Janesville, WI, 53545
Stop this attempt at destroying net neutrality. Everyone should have equal access to the internet, without being charged more.
325. Anthony DeRose, Union grove, WI, 53182
Please reserve net neutrality and title 2. Thank you
326. Keeth Furan, janesville, WI, 53548
Please preserve net neutrality, Ajit Pai is a former Verizon lawyer who is lying to the public in a blatant attempt to remove restrictions that benefit Americans by allowing free access to the internet. Removal of Net Neutrality rules would allow corporations like COX and Verizon to restrict their users access to the internet, and not all Americans (like myself) have the ability to choose alternate providers.
327. Jason Buster, Janesville, WI, 53545
It's bad enough capitalism has taken over health care, keep it out the basic functions of the internet. Information shared freely via the web should be made easier to access by all, not hindered by greedy corporations.

328. Rachel Stiles, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Please keep the protections in place that were set under President Obama. We deserve a free and open internet and net neutrality is the way to preserve that. The FCC should not reclassify ISPs under Title I-- they should be kept within Title II.
329. David Heine, Franklin, WI, 53132
I wish to state my disapproval to the proposed net neutrality repeal. I strongly favor keeping the internet neutrality rule enacted by the Obama administration. I do not want internet service providers having the ability to "throttle" the speed of internet connections. Thank you, David Heine
330. Paul Heberlein, Milton, WI, 53563
Keep the internet free and open. By allowing ISP's to regulate the flow of information, (according to their whim or paid scale,) is an infringement of free speech. We as the people have a right to this information. Corporations are not people.
331. Michael M., Waterford, WI, 53185
It is imperative that the internet remain a free domain to express ideas, speech, and hope without the influence of corporations or those entities wishing to limit the freedom of expression of American Citizens (as well as citizens of every country). To continue this freedom, the FCC must continue to keep strong net neutrality rules backed by Title II.
332. Sharon Croft., Mukwonago, WI, 53149
Net neutrality across the board!
333. Ryan Kirk Dover, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Please retain the current definition of Internet Service Providers (ISP) under Title II of the Communications Act of 1934. This definition will ensure fair consideration and treatment of all data on the Internet, not discriminating or charging differentially by user, content, website, platform, application, type of attached equipment, or mode of communication. This regulation is not only key to our democracy and freedom of speech, but will continue to drive technological innovation and business.
334. Samantha, Racine, WI, 53405
Dear FCC, Free and open internet is important for our democracy and education. Please don't kill internet neutrality. Samantha
335. Robert Champeny, Burlington, WI, 53105
I support The current iteration of Net Neutrality due to living in a 1 ISP area.

336. Kristopher, Kenosha, WI, 53143
It's vital to keep the internet free, especially in a world where tyrants like Trump are trying to destroy free speech. If you think health care will bring people out to protest, try messing with the internet...Do not touch our internet and our freedoms!
337. Peter Braun, Union Grove, WI, 53182
I want a Free Open Internet with a Strong Statement from the FCC that is Pro Net Neutrality. This should be accomplished by keeping Title 2 regulations in effect.
338. Nate Sawyer, Janesville, WI, 53548
Please continue to keep net neutrality strong.
339. Ann K Lininger, Union Grove, WI, 53182
It is important to me as a user of Internet that net neutrality remain as is. ISPs must remain in title 2 to keep the internet open and free.
340. David Geisler, Kenosha, WI, 53142
last week tonight
341. Jenna Krapp, Janesville, WI, 53545
Net Neutrality is an important priority to me & my household. As consumers, we deserve the freedom to choose media based on content, not the highest bidder.
342. Matthew Brothen, KENOSHA, WI, 53142
I support strong title 2 net neutrality protections. Net neutrality protects the freedom of all Americans to access the internet.
343. Alex Leffelman, New Berlin, WI, 53151
I 100% support the FCC continuing to regulate ISPs under Title II (2) as utility providers. Net neutrality is too important and we should continue protecting it from ISPs trying to make even more money while not satisfying their existing customers. Please say NO to reverting back to Title I regulation.
344. James ODwyer, Greendale, WI, 53129
I support internet neutrality. Any prioritizing by internet providers or other methods, prevents people from drawing their own conclusions
345. Mike ANdes, Waukesha, WI, 53189
DO NOT change the status of internet neutrality. Keep it at Title 2.
346. Elizabeth Clayton, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
I strongly support strong net-neutrality backed by title two oversight of ISPs.
347. Chelsea Beiler, Franklin, WI, 53132
As a freelance illustrator net neutrality is vitally important to marketing and selling my work. Strong net neutrality protection will help American small businesses continue to thrive in the digital era.

348. Elissa Hult, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
Please protect Net Neutrality! Net Neutrality is vital to our economy and must be protected.
349. Eric Krampitz, oak creek, WI, 53154
Please do not be fooled by bots that repeat the same lies. (In fact, if anything, get angry at them and their side.) Keep the Internet as a Public Utility and keep Net Neutrality.
350. Daniel Drezdson, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
I would like the current net neutrality rules to stay the same. The internet should be considered essential to American living.
351. Seth Grabow, Delavan, WI, 53115
Please, preserve net neutrality and title two!
352. mark racinowski, greendale, WI, 53129
Don't destroy net neutrality. keep title II to spur competition and innovation. Go a step further and make the "pipes" common carrier to end the monopoly/duopoly most consumers are stuck with thanks to the incumbent players fearing having to actually compete for your business.
353. Robert Kline, Mt Pleasant, WI, 53406
We need strong net neutrality and ISP regulation via title 2
354. Justin Eltoft, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Please keep isp's under title 2.
355. Ryan Brooks, Kenosha, WI, 53140
I support Title II Net Neutrality and the protection of consumers under Title II.
356. Emilie Villarreal, Racine, WI, 53405
I strongly recommend that you keep and protect the net neutrality and title II. It is ethical and fair for everyone that uses the internet. Thank you for your time. Best regards, Emilie
357. Paul McCreary, Franklin, WI, 53132
We support robust net neutrality rules as provided by the previous administration.
358. Steve Sullivan, Kansasville, WI, 53139
I specifically support strong Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISPs -- in other words, maintaining the Strong Net Neutrality put in place by the Obama Administration.

359. Mark Ludeking, Milton, WI, 53563
I support strong net neutrality rules justified under Title II.
360. FCCYourself Shaff, Delavan, WI, 53115
I am PRO Net Neutrality you filthy dog. Stop trying to dismantle the protections I voiced to protect the last time.
361. Heidi Summers, Franklin, WI, 53132
Don't be stupid, net neutrality is a must.
362. Randy Summers, Franklin, WI, 53132
I fully support net neutrality. It is imperative.
363. Steven M Pfaff, Racine, WI, 53404
I believe strong net neutrality rules are important because internet service providers have proven time and time again that they cannot be trusted to do the right thing without regulations forcing them to do so.
364. Chris schlieger, Janesville, WI, 53545
I support stronger net neutrality. Backed by title II oversight of isps.
365. Wesley Beusse, Franklin, WI, 53132
The continued attack on net neutrality, however it gets dressed up as, is beyond toleration. It seems that no matter how much public outcry there is, we keep coming back to it. The arguments for this change are weak, misleading, and give the feeble promise that the cable providers won't abuse a deregulation the exact way they already have. We already pay more in the United States for Internet access than most of the 1st world, and receive less service and speed for the cost. This change will create an unfair environment where an abuse can readily occur with zero legal consequence. The Internet is essential for applying to jobs in our modern age. It's how I have my livelihood. Making a change at the behest of companies looking to drive additional profit from an already wildly profitable industry where they don't have true competition will create long run problems for our nation's competitiveness in the marketplace. I implore you all to keep the best interest of the end user as the priority. Thank you for considering my comment,
Wesley Beusse
366. nader omar, salem, WI, 53168
Hello, I see no reason why regulations should be loosened. Keeping service providers under Title II makes perfect sense. Do not deregulate the FCC.
367. Louis DeFranco, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Please preserve Net Neutrality and Title II. ISPs should not be the ones determining what information gets to be accessed quicker. All information on the internet needs to be available at the same speed / time for everyone. That is the heart of what the internet is. ISPs should not be allowed to "promise" to not throttle competing websites or products, that needs to be officially regulated under title II. If Net Neutrality is not preserved, corporations will be in control of what we see and how quickly we see it on the internet, and that is entirely unacceptable.

368. Aaron Virnig, Franklin, WI, 53132

Please preserve net neutrality and Title II. The ISPs have not proven they can be trusted to keep a free and open Internet (AT&T blocking FaceTime, for instance). Small companies deserve just as much a chance to have their content viewed as large companies do and shouldn't have to pay for the privilege.

369. Matthew Fong, Kenosha, WI, 53142

I strongly support net neutrality back by title 2 oversight of ISPs. I believe all internet content should be treated equally. No content should take priority over the other. If it's just a promise or just being written on their agreement, ISPs are going to follow it. It needs to be reclassified so that ISPs know where is the HARD line that they shall not be crossed.

370. elena dominguez, Franklin, WI, 53132

I want internet net neutrality under title 2. We need to maintain fairness in access of internet data.

371. Carrie Elder, Kenoshsa, WI, 53143

Right to privacy is an essential right for all Americans. Don't take net neutrality away.

372. larry dawson, Eagle, WI, 53119

Please end net neutrality. Less regulation = more liberty. We need an unfettered marketplace. Imagine if we had food service neutrality where the server at Applebee's and at most posh NYC restaurant had to make the same wage & tip. Or gasoline neutrality where everyone paid the same per hour of driving, be they in a Mack truck or a Prius.

373. john kirchen, New Berlin, WI, 53151

I very strongly support Net Neutrality with Title 2 enforcement. I implore The FCC to leave the internet as a level playing field and not allow those with the most money to throttle speed to suit their interests.

374. Scott Paul, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Title 2 is the best way to protect net neutrality. Without it ISPs will undoubtedly immediately start slowing down traffic and ransoming companies to pay them more money. That is a best case scenario. Worst case scenario, they will put up competing companies and outright stop the competition from working at all. Stop the nonsense before it starts. Free and open internet for all under title 2.

375. Joseph Sellenheim, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Dear Ajit Varadaraj Pai or To Whom It May Concern, I am writing to express my concern about the rolling back of net neutrality regulations. I strongly believe that Internet Service Providers should be governed under Title II of the 1934 Communications Act. I wish to be able to access and download any content on the world wide web without being concerned that my ISP is going to "slow down" the speed of that access or download because it may conflict with their business interests and/or profits. As a tax paying member of the United States, I strongly support Net Neutrality and ask that you protect my right to an open, free internet. Thank you for your time. Joseph M. Sellenheim

376. Paul Sakach III, Racine, WI, 53405

I wish to reverse what I had originally stated, and I had incorrectly pasted the comment I wished to share and am sharing in the following: Net neutrality must be maintained at all costs to protect the varied users and businesses to keep a fair and competitive market, not doing so would result in unfair practices by providers to earn more money from websites to get more speed for their users. Several providers have been caught doing so already, and would only increase in frequency and strength without net neutrality being kept and enforced.

377. Kenna, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

Net neutrality is crucial to education and small businesses, because it ensures that ALL data is publicly available and has the same level of accessibility. I work at a local business that depends on its website to attract new customers, and used to be a student who did extensive research online.

378. Cheryl Kenth, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

I am in favor of net neutrality and ask that you uphold Title II.

379. Steve Bartz, Janesville, WI, 53545

Please protect the little guy and not succumb to large internet corporations.
MAINTAIN NET NEUTRALITY.

380. Paul Louis Sakach III, Racine, WI, 53405

Net neutrality must be supported, protected and continued in order to protect the free and unrestricted use of the internet by providers who will and have taken advantage of offering better speeds to sites paying for it while throttling down speeds for everyone else, these actions must stop and not be allowed to continue or happen again. Again, keep net neutrality intact.

381. Lance Moyse, Janesville, WI, 53546

Net neutrality must be preserved under the protection of title two.

382. christian d boyd, Waukesha, WI, 53189

Please keep Net Neutrality under Title II

383. Kasey Christensen, Waterford, WI, 53185

We need to protect net neutrality by keeping it under title II. Reversing the previous decision under the idea that ISPs could promise their customers to keep the Internet free and open or write it into their user agreements is just stupid. A promise and user agreements can be broken and changed respectively. However, laws are not to be broken and if they are they carry consequences. Ajit Pai, use the brain that you are supposed to have considering you are the leader of a branch of our federal government. Greed is a powerful motivator and if you think that companies won't break a promise out of greed, you clearly don't have a very effective brain.

384. Dr Karen C Selbert, Waukesha, WI, 53189
Please preserve net neutrality under Title 2. Changing regulations is not appropriate for fair use of internet.
385. Tim Lynch, Sharon, WI, 53585
The current net neutrality rules have served as the foundation for our current society and will for our future society. Rolling them back may serve to damage our way of life and our economy.
386. Emily Saners, Williams Bay, WI, 53191
I specifically support strong net-neutrality backed by title two over site of ISP's .
387. Renee Foy, Racine, WI, 53405
It is important that title II and net neutrality be maintained as an ongoing effort of the FCC to regulate how ISP companies offer content to people who spend a lot of money to have access to the internet. Net neutrality is an important mechanism to keep ISP companies honest and fair. Save net neutrality and title II.
388. jasper j kane, kenosha, WI, 53143
information is power... to limit information provided to other's is a sin. do not harness the power of good people for your own sinful want's, we will rebel. take away more from us and see what you get for it. anything you can do we can do better!, tor will just replace open...
389. Shelly Nienow, Janesville, WI, 53546
I urge you to please preserve Net Neutrality and title 2.
390. Tom Libelt, kenosha, WI, 53140
Preserve net neutrality and keep all the internet providers in Title 2!
391. christina warden, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Commission:I support the continued Title II regulation of ISPs. There is no evidence to support the ideologically motivated claim that the current rules kill innovation or strangle business. Quite the opposite; a free flow of information is vital to business, including ecommerce and new media startups. Restricting ISPs from killing their competitors through anti-competitive data flow manipulation fosters competition and innovation. The current rule has not seen any mass ISP exit from the market. Further, the assertion that ISPs will self regulate is empirically false. Based on all evidence, Title II seems the fairest and most logical way to regulate ISPs to ensure an open, free, and competitive marketplace. Please preserve net neutrality.

392. Peter Vorpapel, Janesville, WI, 53546
We need to keep the net neutral.
393. Stephen Kubala, Janesville, WI, 53546
I strongly support net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. I'm concerned that our current leaders have strong ties to ISPs and are trying to change the rules which favor big corporations.
394. Rita Hawk, Dousman, WI, 53118
I strongly support Net Neutrality with its current oversight by Title 2. Do not change this.
395. Benjamin Quartemont, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
I support net neutrality and title 2. Freedom of the internet is a new right in the modern age. People should not be subject to lower speeds or extorted at high prices to receive the internet they currently have. It is un-American to not give every website a fair speed to access their site and products.
396. Justin Watson, Janesville, WI, 53546
I am in favor of strong net neutrality and the fact that we have to continue to fight for it time and time again is an outrage. Clearly, this is NOT wanted by the citizens of this country, but the ISPs continue to try to ram it through Congress. This is not how democracy should work. Stop selling us out to corporations. Think of the long term, instead of selling it out for short term profit.
397. Leah Watson, Greendale, WI, 53129
I specifically support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs, and do not want any change made to ISP oversight. This will enable corporate stifling of free speech online and is a step to a fascist dictatorship. Also I think Chairman Pai's giant Reese's up mug is stupid.
398. Pat & Monte, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Strongly support Net neutrality under Title 2.
399. Jake Adelman, Franklin, WI, 53132
I specifically support strong net neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISPs. The current amount of oversight, put in place by the Obama Administration, is an appropriate measure to prevent ISPs from taking advantage of their role as internet gateways, and regulating data flow in their favor. These regulations were put into place to protect the choices of individuals and have succeeded up to this point. Please do not allow ISPs undue power. Sincerely, Jake Adelman

400. Liz Nass, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53406
You need to preserve net neutrality and Title II. Don't let money control access. We have to have a level playing field. The Republicans claim to be pro-business when in fact they are only pro-big business with deep pockets. Without net neutrality smaller companies do not stand a chance to compete and the people whom the government claims to represent are prevented from getting equal access. PRESERVE NET NEUTRALITY!!!
401. stamuel, Genoa City, WI, 53128
Competition within the internet, not for the internet!!!
402. Ken Leung, oak creek, WI, 53154
Please leave isp under title 2 and leave the regulation as it is. Preserve net neutrality and title 2
403. I DON'T TRUST YOU WITH MY NAME, Burlington, WI, 53105
Net Neutrality must be left AS IS! Stop trying to hand more and more over to corporations so they can continue to exploit and drain the pockets of the average US citizen. If you want to ensure internet freedom so bad, maybe stop ISPs from having regional monopolies and force them to compete like any other business. P.S. ENOUGH WITH THE ASTROTURFING BOTS SUBMITTING ANT-NET NEUTRALITY COMMENTS. WHO DO YOU THINK IS ACTUALLY BUYING THAT?
404. net neutrality, Franklin, WI, 53132
Please do not allow us to lose our net neutrality. The title 2 protection is necessary so bigger companies cannot affect access for new and developing technologies and enterprises. We need a free and fair competition on the internet. Net neutrality gives us that.
405. Jordan Smith, Fontana, WI, 53125
I strongly oppose the removal of Net Neutrality regulations.
406. Ben Ryan, Janesville, WI, 53545
I am strongly opposed to any rollback of Net Neutrality regulation. This is not bureaucratic regulation, but important protection of freedom for individual Americans. Giving internet providers the freedom to manipulate access to preferred sites would put the freedom of the American people at great risk. It would also put the fair playing field that allows startup tech companies to grow in grave danger. One of the things that makes America great is that it is such an attractive environment for entrepreneurs. Giving big established internet companies the means to choke out small businesses and startups that present market disruption risk to them would ruin the environment that has drawn so many legendary tech entrepreneurs, created thousands of high paying US jobs, and has allowed our country to remain a dominant global leader in innovation. Please protect the freedom of the American people and our access to a free and open internet by maintaining strict net neutrality protection!

407. Terry Kaprelian, Racine, WI, 53402

I am writing to urge the FCC to continue to uphold strong net neutrality regulations and continue classifying the internet as a title II utility. Do not sell out the consumers to special interests. Just as I don't want the power company penalizing me for not using specific brands of appliances, so do I not want my ISP to be able to control any aspect of my content consumption on the internet beyond acting as a portal. Thank you for your time and consideration.

408. William Nichols, Greendale, WI, 53129

Net neutrality should and must remain under Title 2. This is the least the government can do to protect the users of the internet and stop internet providing companies from taking advantage of their customers.

409. Jamie Washtock, Janesville, WI, 53546

Do not change the current rules/laws regarding Net Neutrality. The current process ensures a fair transmission model that will be corrupted if things are changed.

410. Scot Passler, Waukesha, WI, 53188

I urge the FCC to protect Net Neutrality and Title 2 protections.

411. Jeremy Wyrowski, Muskego, WI, 53150

I support strong Net Neutrality back by Title II oversight of ISPs. This proposal to destroy Net Neutrality - and the manner in which it is presented - by FCC Chairman Ajit Pai is dishonest and shameful. Completely unbecoming of what should be a respected position.

412. Elizabeth Ehrke, Franklin, WI, 53132

The FCC should continue to uphold strong net neutrality regulations for all internet providers including those that provide internet access for mobile devices. It is not acceptable to allow these companies to police themselves.

413. Scot Farley, Trevor, WI, 53179

Making any changes to the current status of Net Neutrality would be a grave mistake and a danger to the Republic. A free, open, and unmolested internet positively affects all aspects of modern life. Both businesses and citizens would be harmed by relaxing these protective regulations, to allow the flow of information to be altered by profit motives would give too much power to a select few at the cost of whole. This country was founded on the freedom of information among other tenets, we should keep it that way.

414. Bradley Baas, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

I support net neutrality appearing under Title 2. It is important that all data to internet users flows unimpeded and at the same rate as all other data.

415. Jeff Lawton, Eagle, WI, 53119
We need to maintain net neutrality. Internet service providers need to stay under Title II as they are now. Reducing net neutrality regulations will hurt consumers and many businesses.
416. Jeremy, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Preserve Net Neutrality and Title II oversight for ISP's. Do not change this.
417. Nicole Kriedeman, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Our internet should not be for sale to the highest bidder. Preserve Net Neutrality and Title II oversight for ISPs.
418. Paul Nass, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53406
Pai has consistently made inaccurate statements re the efficacy of network neutrality. No surprise to me since he used to work for Verizon. He is not the person to be making these decisions. He is not impartial. Network neutrality is necessary for maintaining a fair and balanced internet for all - big and small.
419. Mark W. Bennett, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Please preserve current net neutrality regulations and Title II classifications of ISPs and related network service providers.
420. Andrew Boerner, New Berlin, WI, 53151
Please save net neutrality and not let the FCC change the title 2 back to a title 1.
421. Nicole Schwartz, Janesville, WI, 53545
I support strong net neutrality regulations including Title II. Thank you for your consideration. N. Schwartz
422. Donald Beaulieu, Delavan, WI, 53115
Tell Ajit Pai and Donald Trump to keep their filthy hands off of Net Neutrality.
423. Nicholas Turk Sr, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
Please keep ISP's covered under Article II and keep net neutrality alive. The last thing we need is for ISP's to arbitrarily decide to limit sites and limit information.
424. Debbie Hass, Eagle, WI, 53119
Net Neutrality NEEDS TO REMAIN IN PLACE. I support strong net neutrality rules, and protection under Title II that classifies the internet as a utility.
425. Skyler Albaugh, Racine, WI, 53403
Net Neutrality is a necessity that must be protected

426. CRIS BISOG, MUSKEGO, WI, 53150
WE SUPPORT STRONG NET NEUTRALITY UNDER TITLE 2
427. Wireline Competition Bureau, Racine, WI, 53406
The title of this filing is bullshit. It restores no freedoms, it only allows internet providers to slow access to websites and content who's owners had not paid bribes to be in the "fast lane". Do NOT do this.
428. Bryan Adams, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
I strongly support Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. Without Net Neutrality, ISPs would be free to conduct discriminatory practices that would control what users are able to view online. In addition, I have been trying multiple days to post my opinion on the FCC website, but have consistently faced problems on the website that hindered me from doing this. I would recommend extending the time period that the US citizenry can post comments, because I have a hunch that others with the same opinion as myself are experiencing similar difficulties.
429. kirk Kaefer, Genoa City, WI, 53128
"Dear Express Restoring Internet Freedom, I was all for the Patriot Act until I saw how our Government was targeting it's own citizens. Regards, kirk Kaefer 9142 390th Ave Genoa City, WI 53128"
430. Jennifer Passler, Waukesha, WI, 53188
Dear FCC, we need real net neutrality. Protect internet users from monopolistic ISPs and don't let companies censor, slow down, or block websites while requiring other sites to pay for faster service. Please stand up for all Internet users and our right to communicate. Keep the regulations as they are right now. PS - Ajit, your mug is dorky. Your attempt to be "folksy" is transparent. There's no need to try so hard to be an average Joe if you are one, which you clearly are not, so stop trying to deceive the American public.
431. Scott Schaefer, Franklin, WI, 53132
I want the FCC to enforce strong Net Neutrality as described by the Title II definition. Anything less will allow corporate entities to smother smaller competition. I am an educated consumer who fully recognizes that in today's U.S., large corporate groups have found legal means to undermine former anti-monopoly legislation to do whatever they want. It is wholly un-American and despicable.
432. Mike Sam, MUKWONAGO, WI, 53149
The people paid the bill for the creation of the internet. It needs to remain free and open for the people. All people
433. Karen Ackroff, EAGLE, WI, 53119
Protect people

434. Annetta Winkle, KENOSHA, WI, 53142
Why are you so willing to sell this democracy out for a dime?// Is the GOP so busy still behaving like a bunch of 2 yr. olds having a temper tantrum and being amoral in all things except in support of turning this into a Mussolini ruled country.
435. Helle Berry, RACINE, WI, 53405
Net neutrality is important for all people
436. Anna Peterson, DELAVAN, WI, 53115
A free and open internet helps our citizens to be better informed and have ready access to the issues we have concerns.
437. Cynthia Betts, KENOSHA, WI, 53142
Trying to control what millions see and do on the internet will not work. These corporate misdeeds will foster resentment among their customers and corporations will lose business.

We have to pay for internet
439. Dennis Petersen, FRANKLIN, WI, 53132

442. kathleen corriveau, BIG BEND, WI, 53103

443. Dean von Germeten, RACINE, WI, 53403
Keep the internet neutral! I know you investor types want to morph every situation into a profitunity but the needs of the many outweigh the greed of a few.
444. Gregory Brown, DELAVAN, WI, 53115
Net Neutrality is the founding Internet principle that keeps the web open
445. John Bollwark, BRISTOL, WI, 53104
Net neutrality is important to open democracy. Keep it intact!
446. g toslek, RACINE, WI, 53402
The net should be free & open without business (monopolies) interfering/

447. Robert Klinkhammer, RACINE, WI, 53406
Freedom of speech should include freedom of knowledge. This is not China.
448. Paula Touhey, KENOSHA, WI, 53142

449. Mariette Nowak, EAST TROY, WI, 53120
A free and open internet is essential for the economic & educational interests of all citizens.
450. Phillip Smith, DELAVAN, WI, 53115

451. Jason Murray, ELKHORN, WI, 53121

457. Jerry Baccetti, LAKE GENEVA, WI, 53147
Please do not allow providers to tilt the playing field; retain net neutrality!
458. Ferne Cerqua, KENOSHA, WI, 53144
Dear Chairman Pai and FCC members:
Please maintain net neutrality.
Without it
459. Joseph Teumer, Trevor, WI, 53179
I support strong net neutrality rules and keeping ISPs under Title II. These rules will ensure that ISPs do not interfere with or prioritize internet traffic. Ajit Pai's clouded views stem from his employment history in big cable companies; the worst of which relies on promises made by these conglomerates to take a blind eye to competitor's traffic. Please support a free and open internet.

460. Ryan MacDougall, Racine, WI, 53406
I support Internet neutrality under to title II guidelines.
461. Paul Ryan, Janesville, WI, 53545
Net neutrality good. Keep it.
462. Paras, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
please keep net neutrality, and do not support legislation that does otherwise. we are already at the whim of our ISPs which are monopolized in our areas.
463. Colleen Voves, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I support TITLE 2 and its oversight over ISP and think it is extremely important to keep STRONG net neutrality now and for the future. Big business will not Regulate itself!!! Please listen to the people who want this.
464. Net Neutrality, Williams Bay, WI, 53191
Net Neutrality must remain for the sake of the common good.
465. Wayne Brieske, Union Grove, WI, 53182
I strongly urge you to keep intact the title 2 net neutrality laws and to continue to strengthen these rules. You have not shown any scientific evidence that backs up your claim that the removal of this protection will benefit the greater population, and to the contrary the only possible reason (logically speaking) would be to allow SIP providers to begin access censorship, either in speed or content or continuity. If these rules are in fact rolled back and eliminated, you will be forcing me to turn my back on the industry which will actually save me personally around $6,000.00 give or take a little per year. I believe many more people that intelligently and objectively will be doing the same. Again please do not eliminate the title 2 net neutrality rules currently in use, but rather look at ways to strengthen these rules to further protect the American people from possible predatory practices. I am currently a customer of Spectrum and Verizon. I currently enjoy their products but will immediately cease using and therefore paying for their products/services if your rulings remove my protections.
466. Rebecca Eisel, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53406
Net Neutrality is important so everyone has a level field on the Internet. Keep ISPs under Title 2.
467. Sonette Tippens, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Because it keeps the powerful from controlling the information that I can access!
468. C K, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
In an open internet every one gets a fair chance to be heard and informed.

469. Mariette Nowak, East Troy, WI, 53120
Free communication world wide. No censor ship. We are living in the free world.
Not china!!
470. Pamela deRoy, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Left to their own devices, communications corporations will do everything in their power to limit choice and block competition. It's already happened and the only thing holding it back now is net neutrality. The internet doesn't belong to any company. Ending net neutrality will only serve to stifle innovation and line the pockets of some companies at the expense of us all. Remember, you exist to serve the people of this country, not corporate special interests. Please keep this in mind when weighing the many decisions you'll be faced with.
471. Christopher, Janesville, WI, 53546
I strongly support title 2, we need to keep Net Neutrality. Under no circumstances should big companies be in a position where they can decide who gets to see what, or how long it takes for a site to load
472. David Borden, OAK CREEK, WI, 53154
Do not do anything to harm net neutrality. Keep ISPs as TITLE II. Do not agree with your viewpoints at all and I work all over the industry.
473. Gary Person, Delavan, WI, 53115
"Dear Express Restoring Internet Freedom, Rollback Obama's Internet Takeover Regards, Gary Person 554 Park Ave Delavan, WI 53115"
474. Lee Richardson, union grove, WI, 53182
Net neutrality is a core and crucial aspect of continued internet innovation and development, as opposed to carriers finding ways to monetize other people's popular content flowing through their pipes. MAINTAIN NET NEUTRALITY!
475. Kathryn Malaney, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
The internet should be a neutral space, information should flow freely!
476. Judith Blair, Racine, WI, 53406
The massive outpouring of support for preserving net neutrality that resulted in the overwhelmingly popular vote to protect net neutrality was not a fluke. Internet users throughout the world continue to demand net neutrality, and this is an issue that could cost Republicans their majorities since this is a matter that affects almost every voter every day.
477. Daniel Mimier, New Berlin, WI, 53151
Net neutrality is extremely important. Please keep the ISP's regulated under Title 2. We cannot allow money to dictate what is presented on the Internet
478. ISP, Janesville, WI, 53545

I support the effort to maintain title 2, to keep net neutrality.

479. Susan Amber Johnson, Janesville, WI, 53545
I firmly support net neutrality! Please keep the Title II protections for all ISPs.
480. Jana VanArsdale, Racine, WI, 53406
I'm writing to state that I specifically support strong Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs.
481. Andrew Propsom, Racine, WI, 53405
Ensure the internet stays free and open. Keep ISPs classified as title two.
482. clara propsom, Racine, WI, 53405
Net neutrality is vital to keeping ISP companies in check. If you feel having your hand in someone else's wallet is more important than the American people then you deserve to go to hell. And that's what Americans will feel like if you do away with it! Preserve Title 2 and stop supporting those self interest groups!
483. Roger Fish, Kansasville, WI, 53139
Please do not allow changes to weaken net neutrality.
484. C K, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
It is critical to find and use information, business, education, and communication.
485. C K, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
To have it otherwise, is censorship. Censorship is the bastion of Fascist states or Dictatorships. I live in a democracy and I want to keep it that way.
486. John Wilson, Racine, WI, 53402
Because all people should have equal opportunity for access... not just the people with $$$!
487. Liz Nass, Racine, WI, 53406
YOU NEED TO PRESERVE NET NEUTRALITY AND TITLE II! KEEP THE PLAYING FIELD LEVEL.
488. Daniel Mattson, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Eliminating net neutrality means the rich & the owners can effectively suppress ideas they don't like. That's Orwellian. Don't do it.
489. Paul Heberlein, Milton, WI, 53563
The internet should be available to everyone equally and all content should be available at the same speeds. Leave it the way it is. Government is supposed to protect it's citizens from corrupt influences, not leave us prey to corruption.
490. Jeremy Wyrowski, Muskego, WI, 53150

The internet needs to be kept neutral. Information on the internet needs to flow to all people just as all people need clean drinking water.

491. Shawn Mulkvihill, Racine, WI, 53402
Secretary Pai is a corporate lawyer who has no intention in representing American citizens, and their right to a free, open, and non-corporate internet. If services providers are allowed to voluntarily regulate the same internet that they see as an opportunity to rip off the American people, we will all be at their mercy of greedy corporations. We cannot let this stand!!!!
492. Brenda Fritsch, Franklin, WI, 53132
Please keep the strict, enforceable regulations of Title II and preserve net neutrality. Consumers depend on an open, equal internet for commercial and personal use. An open and equal internet also allows for innovation and economic growth for entrepreneurs and small businesses.
493. Austin Eckerstorfer, Franklin, WI, 53132
I support strong net neutrality under Title II of the Communications Act.
494. Lawrence Smith, Racine, WI, 53406
Please let Net Neutrality be, as a society, I want my information that I receive to be uncontrolled and unbiased. I also want to make sure that the small businesses that make up America get their fair chance against big businesses.
495. Sean Moriva, Janesville, WI, 53545
Net Neutrality is critical to a free and open internet!
496. Peter, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
NET NEUTRALITY MUST BE MAINTAINED!
497. Beverly Deakin, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
please keep title II protection to ensure net neutrality
498. Donna Boelter, Union Grove, WI, 53182
I support net neutrality AND Title II. Turning internet bills into something similar to Cable TV bills would be disastrous. Cable TV is dying, let it go. You're supposed to defend us, the consumer, not help line the pockets of Spectrum and Verizon. Internet freedom is what we already have, well intact and working just fine. What you, Pai, want is internet freedom limited to a select few (like Verizon), to strangle, restrict, and charge even more on a monthly basis.
499. Patrick Niyork, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Title 2 gives us, the customers, protection from people with way bigger pockets than us. Please keep us safe. Also coffee isn't that good for you by the gallon.
500. Chris Bush, Kenosha, WI, 53142

The FCC should regulate ISPs under Title II. As a teacher, the internet is key for many of my disadvantaged students, and the proposed regulation will not help them, merely raise already burdensome costs and restrict access to sites. Net Neutrality should be preserved.

501. Dan w., oak creek, WI, 53154

Strong Net Neutrality rules, under Title II of the Communications Act of 1934, are essential to preserving the Free Speech clause of the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States of America. The Internet is not only the means by which Americans preserve their democratic franchise: it is the means by which speech is truly freed—unrestrained by borders, linguistic differences, or social customs. The Internet is not simply a means of commerce which bolsters a consumer culture: it is the conduit by which every one of its users can exercise freedoms which their particular jurisdictions may deny them. No commercial entity, including those which provide Internet services, should be allowed to interfere in any way with the single greatest aid to human progress in the history of mankind. one also has to look at other country's where internet is regulated. Yes they may not have as much free speech but when you can go to japan and get a 1gb connection for $56 a month something is truly wrong with the way the current providers are providing services to american's. if you would like to compare this to a current residential provider for 56 bucks a month your only getting a 67 mb link??? we need competition and regulations to the isp's, much like the old bell systems were. please keep ISP's with their current Titel II standings.

502. Bob Jones, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Leave Net Neutrality alone and enforce strict standards with Title 2 for the ISPs.

503. Peter Van Kampen, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Are you going to set up EVERY government agency in favor of Business and the Wealthy? Shame.I strongly support Net Neutrality, and so does everyone except the Greedy!

504. Michael Lough, Franklin, WI, 53132

Dear FCC,Please protect net neutrality, particularly through title II enforcement authority. Thank you.

505. Laura Popelier, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

I support net neutrality under title 2 oversight of ISP.

506. Jeremy Koleske, racine, WI, 53402

Please Retain Net Neutrality. The internet should be treated like a common carrier. You should maintain this open status on the internet. it is the fair thing to do so that America can continue the free exchange of information that we currently enjoy. I implore you to do the moral thing and guarantee this country a neutral internet.

507. Jennie Tunkieicz, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Protect and Restore Net Neutrality and Title 2!
508. Irving Feldsp[ar, Jablib, WI, 53142
I wholly support the Commission's actions. My company hates competition, and we plan to use this rule to destroy anyone who may have the temerity to compete with us in the future. Also...we'd like to make a large donation -- sorry, we would like to commit lobbying funds -- to whoever can put more money in our pockets...just like AT&T and Verizon did.
509. robert cuba, bristol, WI, 53104
The entire internet should be accessible with no "slowing down" allowed, PERIOD! Net neutrality must continue.
510. Net Neutrality, Caledonia, WI, 53108
Please leave well enough alone. Repealing all work that was accomplished over the past 8 years is senseless except to help the rich get richer and poor get poorer. Net Neutrality was designed to prohibit Verizon and their competitors from being able to throttle content based on who could and would pay more for the faster content. This was an egregious effort on the part of the ISPs, and the FCC was right in labeling them a utility. With the Utility designation, poorer regions are able to get the internet at reasonable rates with the competition available. It has also benefited schools and colleges in helping students advance their direction in the 21st century. If the rules are repealed then the educational system and poorer and rural populace are going to be greatly disadvantaged. Please leave Title II in place and the internet regulated as a utility, as it should be.
511. Sharon Vanderbloemen, Delavan, WI, 53115
Please support Net Neutrality. The internet should be free and open to everyone.
512. Robert McAllister, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Do not put up internet roadblocks. It would limit free speech and small businesses.
513. Ric Shaff, Delavan, WI, 53115
Don't you dare try to say people aren't responding enough. You have mail being delivered to your doorstep in opposition to your idiotic stance on Net Neutrality.
514. Anthony Varey, Sturtevant, WI, 53177
I believe that net neutrality needs to be preserved for fairness to any business or entity that exists. These freedoms need to stay in place for a new business to be able to compete fairly against any other business, no matter the size of the company. People also need to be able to fairly access the internet at speeds without charging based on premium services added on through usage. This disproportionately affects countries and people on the lower income spectrum, and benefits only the people and companies that can afford to pay for the premiums. Please do not end net neutrality.

515. Melissa & David Tritten, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Please vote to protect current net neutrality standards and laws per our 1st amendment rights. Thank you!

516. Randy Shaw, Janesville, WI, 53548

What you are doing to the free internet is self-destructive. Many people rely on unrestricted internet access in order to maintain a living and it helps small businesses progress and grow. However, by eliminating net neutrality, you are not only ruining the livelihood of many small business owners, but also causing damage to our economy and infrastructure. Please reconsider your decision and let net neutrality continue.

517. Ron Faiola, Greendale, WI, 53129

The Open Internet Order, aka "Net Neutrality" should be kept in place. Period. There is no logical reason to allow ISPs to charge more to reach websites or hinder service in any way for their consumers. It will only harm businesses, consumers and internet commerce. Again, keep Net Neutrality as is.

518. Sara Stasila, Franklin, WI, 53132

As a robust and neutral data and telecommunications infrastructure is critical to the social and economic health of the US and its citizens, I believe it is of utmost importance to retain the current neutrality protections that were put in place in 2015.

519. anthony sorensen, janesville, WI, 53545

I'm very concerned about the possibility of my favorite websites being slowed to the point of being unusable. I'm also not excited about the idea of having to pay extra to telecoms for "packages" to access my favorite websites. Much of the media I consume is produced on a small budget and wouldn't be able to continue to produce content if they were made to pay fees to service providers. I'm very much in favor of net neutrality and wish the vote to repeal the 2015 policy, be overturned.

520. Neal Cragg, Madison, WI, 53105

I am expressing my desire for the FCC not to weaken net neutrality rules, thus corporatizing a Free Internet.

521. Anita O'Brien, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

As a librarian, I am very concerned that our citizens' access to quality, unbiased information will be negatively affected by removing net neutrality. Agencies like libraries and other non-profits don't have funds to pay for their sites to appear first in results lists. Allowing information to be brokered like other commodities does a huge disservice to those seeking to be impartially informed.

522. Net Neutrality, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Do not destroy Net Neutrality, the only thing that will do is harm the people who need a free and open internet, and will only line the pockets of corporate elites. The Republican Party will be remembered only for destroying this country if you continue down this path.
523. Scott Egbert, Janesville, WI, 53545
Please preserve current Net Neutrality Rules and Title 2.
524. David Jakoby, Janesville, WI, 53545
I support net neutrality and preservation of Title II status
525. Clayton Honaker, Salem, WI, 53168
Net Neutrality must be protected. I believe mobile data should also be included in net neutrality rules. Time and time again, corporations in our country have shown they will sell out consumers and our country because they know that the smart business decision is to break the rules and just pay the fine imposed by Congress. When was the last time you indicted the people that make these decisions that blatantly break the law. Recent history also shows the bureaucrats make policy based on their next career. The revolving door needs to be slammed shut by slamming those corrupted behind bars. GM LET FAMILIES BURN TO DEATH BECAUSE IT WAS MORE PROFITABLE THAN ISSUING A RECALL, NO ARRESTS. HSBC LAUNDERED MONEY FOR DRUG CARTELS AND TERRORISTS, NO ARRESTS. WALL STREET FRAUD NEARLY CRIPPLED OUR COUNTRY, NO ARRESTS. WELLS FARGO, NO ARRESTS. IT LEAVES ONE TO BELIEVE THE BURECRATS ARE IN ON IT. LEAVE NET NEUTRALITY ALONE UNLESS YOU make plans to STRENGTHEN ITS POWER TO REGULATE the telecommunications industry from the inevitable abuses that will happen by ISPs if FCC chairman's purposed changes are allowed to go through. This is more then just an issue of burdensome regulations, this is an issue of free speech, communication and access to that free speech. This isn't Russia
526. James Jester, Racine, WI, 53406
Given the fact that there is no real competition for internet service at the local level, market forces will not encourage ISPs to make consumer-friendly decisions. Instead we will continue to see implementations of data caps and bandwidth limits on connections and further price-gouging for what should be the standard internet connection speed (60 Mbps or higher). And in spite of government funding to expand their network coverage, reliability, and speeds, ISPs still refuse to improve and would rather continue to abuse their customers. Additionally, many larger ISPs are also trying to compete in the entertainment market, causing a major conflict of interest against providing competing services such as Youtube and Netflix equal bandwidth on their networks and also encouraging the use of their own services either by making them free or not count against their data caps, further stifling competition. Therefore, I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs, as it is the only way to ensure a level playing field for anyone using the internet for commercial means and also protect consumers in the current non-competitive environment.

527. Heather Isley-Salazar, Kenosha, WI, 53142

To who this may concern, I pay for my internet use. And I believe this is appalling that our government is being so flippant as to want to take a weed wacker to current regulations to the FCC. It should not matter who pays who more and why my speed all of a sudden has slowed down. You really must think we are stupid to think that this is a hypothetical situation. Seeing our current administration and seeing that money talks, it is pretty obvious that regardless of all of these complaints asking you not to take that weed wacker to Title One and Title Two with fall on deaf ears. I wonder what kicks back Verizon is getting out of this hedge trimming. Please leave as is and maybe go after those have already started to pay to get faster load times. The customer in the end is the ones who are the victims. Thank you.

528. Amanda berry, Trevor, WI, 53179

Keep net neutrality rules intact.

529. Anthony Varey, Sturtevant, WI, 53177

Please keep net neutrality, as it keeps large corporations from being able to strong-arm the rest of the businesses and people. The internet was meant to be free, and this proceeding does the opposite.

530. Steven Seyferth, Racine, WI, 53402

If NN gets repealed I will not vote for anybody who wanted said repeal. I will also convince my family and friends to do the same.

531. Tom Bottoms, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

Please keep the internet free and open. This has become a necessity of modern life and should be regulated as if it were utility.

532. James Brown, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Leave net Neutrality in place.... it is good regulation

533. Caleb Kleinhans, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Keep the internet free and open, like it has always been. Keep net neutrality. We do not need any changes. My internet company should not be able to limit speeds based on what websites I want to visit. KEEP NET NEUTRALITY!

534. Michael Vogds, New Berlin, WI, 53151

I support Net Neutrality and specific regulation of ISPs This is a none partisan issue. You are attempting to solve a problem that doesn't exist for your own selfish reasons

535. Nancy Somdahl, Kenosha, WI, 53142
We support strong net neutrality backed by title two oversight of Internet Service Providers.
536. Justin Kurtz, Greendale, WI, 53129
Companies providing internet access MUST be forced by law to treat all network traffic equally. The open sharing of information is what the internet was founded and created for. Allowing ISPs to give selective preference of traffic to certain sites opens a can of worms that would ruin communications as we know it. Imagine allowing an ISP to charge fees to view certain types of websites, or play certain types of online games. Imagine if an ISP is pressured to favor one streaming service over another. Or one online game over another. Or one website over another. What if a company like Verizon decided it's users should not be able to view any AT&T website? They would be allowed to block it under this bill. Imagine if Fox News paid Time Warner Cable to make any traffic to CNN move slower? Or McDonald's paying an ISP to block traffic to competing restaurant sites?The possibilities are endless. And terrifying. It cannot be allowed. Net Neutrality needs to be enforced by law.
537. Vickie Larson, Janesville, WI, 53546
Net neutrality must continue. Please do not relinquish my right for free speech and equal access to information via the internet.
538. Andrew Thompson, Kenosha, WI, 53142
The idea that any group, corporation, etc. should be allowed control over our internet searches goes against freedom of speech itself. This nation is a republic and as such it means that the representatives that we, the people, place in power should in return listen to the cries of those very same people. One of the great things about the United States of America is that we place freedom of speech as one of the highest and most important liberties a person can have. Please help us in our effort to keep free speech and information free by denying corporations their request to control those very same things.
539. Michelle Eul, Greendale, WI, 53129
I support net neutrality. Please preserve net neutrality as it stands with title 2. This is important for equity among groups providing content over the Internet. Thank you, Michelle
540. Paul Werner, Greendale, WI, 53129
Keep the internet free by not taking away Title II. ISPs should just be dumb pipes and not the one to choose who gets prioritized data streams. Ajit Pai should be fired, he obviously doesn't represent the people. Government employees should represent the people, not corporations.
541. Bill Rezel, Waukesha, WI, 53189

The FCC has been studying the issue off and on since 2005, and in 2010, it issued a draft order that required broadband providers (such as Comcast and AT&T) to let subscribers see all legal online content at the same speed, even if that content competes with their own. (The rules were seen as a triumph by some neutrality advocates but insufficient by others because they applied to wired networks only — think cable companies — as opposed to wireless networks.) In any case, a Court of Appeals challenge by opponents shot down the FCC rules early last year. That meant that service providers such as Verizon, Comcast and AT&T would indeed have the ability to block or slow competing content, or charge content creators more to move it through their networks. So, for example, a gatekeeper could charge Netflix more, and Netflix could charge you more. This is why Net Neutrality is so important and has to be the law of the land.

542. Michael Wenzel, Racine, WI, 53403

I support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. Net neutrality is vital to ensure every American has access to important and valuable information. Net neutrality is also vital for a fair and competitive market, allowing new and innovative businesses and services to compete with established companies.

543. Katherine Bjorkman, Genoa City, WI, 53128

Net neutrality is vital to all Americans. By allowing corporations to be gatekeepers, you would be limiting the best access to those who can afford to pay for it. This diminishes the freedom of information that helps to create a society of diverse ideas.

544. Rich Cawley, Kansasville, WI, 53139

No Net Neutrality Keep Title II.

545. Ben Fischer, Muskego, WI, 53150

I support regulation of ISPs under Title II. Please keep the internet open and available for everyone, not controlled by the monopolistic company with the deepest pockets.

546. Joseph Marek, New Berlin, WI, 53146

I, Joseph Marek, support strong Net Neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of Internet Service Provider

547. Hilary Edwards, Kenosha, WI, 53140

I support net neutrality and strong legal backing. I disagree with reclassifying it from Title II. Please preserve it under the legal protection of Title II.

548. Tyler Crawford, Hales Corners, WI, 53130

If comcast used my info to fill out a petition against this, ignore them. I am for net neutrality.

549. Lacey Chapman Peace, Delavan, WI, 53115
We need to Preserve neutrality and keep title 2!!!
550. Brandon Dexter, Racine, WI, 53402
I am writing this comment because I feel very concerned about the upcoming plans for the FCC to repeal Title 2 and reclassify ISPs. I want net neutrality to remain as is and not take away from my experience of the internet.
551. Jeremy Estness, Oak creek, WI, 53154
Net neutrality is important for consumers. Don't put business interests ahead of everyday Americans. You can't trust telecoms to do the right thing. Allowing ISPs to favor any particular service will kill startups.
552. Sara Jensen, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Please do not remove internet service providers from Title II classification. We must continue to support net neutrality.
553. Sam Stebnitz, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
You can't possibly reverse Title 2. Thank John Oliver for this review.
554. Chris Stebnitz, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
John Oliver may be completely irritating, but, he's right on this issue. Net neutrality must remain in place.
555. N, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Preserve strict controls on net neutrality, and maintain ISP in Title 2.
556. scott wilson, kenosha, WI, 53140
i am in favor of net neutrality. leave it as it stands.
557. Pam Wolff, Franklin, WI, 53132
Preserve net neutrality and title 2! The only reason to get rid of it is to cause trouble. Don't be evil or stupid!
558. ron walsh, racine, WI, 53406 how much money do i have to legally bribe you in order for you to do the right thing and keep your fucking hands off the internet?
559. Seth D. Meyers, Janesville, WI, 53548
One of the most important issues to me is Net Neutrality. The Open Internet rules of the FCC are under attack. I unfortunately don't have the power to stop this, aside from writing to my representatives, which frankly feels futile. I'm not a lobbyist padding your pockets with thousands of dollars in donations. I'm just a constituent who my representatives we're elected to represent. And I'm asking you to protect the open internet. Reject Ajit Pai's absurd agenda. Keep net neutrality in place. Thanks. Seth D. Meyers Seth D. Meyers

560. torranoler, delavan, WI, 53115
I believe that I prefer the existing strong net neutrality under title 2 and on a more personal note chairman Ajit Pai, your coffee mug sucks john oliver's is bigger
561. Jason Von Ruden, Dousman, WI, 53118
As a Website and Web Service Software Developer my livelihood depends on a free and open internet where I have the opportunity to Innovate the next big thing. A internet where the entity who has the most money can drown out my voice is not acceptable because:1. The bandwidth has already paid for by the consumer to their ISP.2. The Content Provider has already paid for their bandwidth to their ISP.This mean Everyone has already paid their fair share... No need to give special treatment to the entities who just want to EXTORT more money from than they are DUE.Please Keep the existing Net Neutrality Rules with NO CHANGES
562. Steven Prodoehl, Greendale, WI, 53129
Please keep Title II oversight on ISPs in place - and keep Net Neutrality as it is. The company I work for just sent my IT job to India. I am out of work. We need innovation from small companies and startups to help create the tech jobs of the future. Net Neutrality will help them compete. Thanks. Steve
563. robbie suhr, pleasant prairies, WI, 53158
I think it is wrong to change back to an unregulated internet. We need net neutrality to keep the playing field fair for small businesses like mine and many others. You must put aside personal dealings and think for the people. We need an internet that is fair for everyone, not who pays the most.
564. Mike Wolf, Kenosha, WI, 53144
I strongly support net neutrality and Title II as they are. Please do not transition to open Internet principles. Net neutrality is beneficial to consumers and to US businesses that do not want their Internet communications dictated by telecom and cable companies.
565. Paul Gleason, Kenosha, WI, 53403
There is no possible justification to give a power monopoly even more power over one of the only tools of relative freedom available to modern civilization.
566. Bert Christensen, SILVER LAKE, WI, 53170
Keep internet service providers under title 2 to ensure strong net neutrality.
567. 17-108, Franklin, WI, 53132
The internet is currently the most important creation humans have put forth. Anything that would infringe on net neutrality would be an unrivalled betrayal to humanity. The fact that the FCC would consider changes that would end net neutrality is deeply disturbing to me. Please keep the internet free and open. Thank you.

568. Eric, Racine, WI, 53402
Please keep Internet Service Providers as Title 2
569. Ray Sanchez, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Net Neutrality needs to remain intact. Fair access for all, everyone on the same tier.
570. Linda Arzola , Kenosha, WI, 53144
Dear FCC,Linda ArzolaLinda Arzola
571. Barbara Brattin, Racine, WI, 53402
As a public librarian, net neutrality is of utmost importance. The library offers free Wi-Fi to people without internet access, and rich educational and cultural resources such as ebooks, streaming media, interactive homework assistance, online language learning, and digital special collections. These educational sources might be relegated to "slow lanes" or might bring higher costs to the library if our vendors are forced to pay for prioritized delivery. In addition, patrons use the internet at their public library to access online government programs and services. Deprioritized access would hurt them. Our citizens use internet at the library to upload and share their own digital media, develop and support small businesses, use video conferencing, or collaborate online for school or research projects. It is imperative that these services are not relegated to the slow lane. People who come to the library because they cannot afford broadband access at home should not have their choices in information shaped by who can pay the most. Library sites"key portals for those looking for unbiased knowledge"and library users could be among the first victims of slowdowns. Please protect net neutrality!
572. Mark Kidd, Racine, WI, 53402
Please save REAL net neutrality!!! Internet service providers are COMMON CARRIERS and need to be treated as such. They should NOT be in the entertainment industry if they are a provider - Obviously conflict of interest. The moves that the current FCC are making are for nothing but the Big Companies that have everybody on their payroll. They are NOT moves to help the consumer and try to paint it as such. Please stop insulting us. The FCC should be over all Internet Providers forever, period. Anybody that says anything else, either doesn't understand, or has other self interest motives...!
573. scott hill, janesville, WI, 53545
net neutrality is vital for growth in the internet technology sector it keeps companies fighting and growing which has placed america back up near the top for internet speeds. we need to keep the internet neutral it is the only thing protecting consumers from getting ripped off
574. Kate, racine, WI, 53403

Do you think we're a bunch of idiots?! Net neutrality should be preserved and kept under title II. I'm 16 and I know that! What is wrong with you people?!

575. Thomas Roberts, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
The ability of everyone (not just large businesses) to have equal access to the internet at equal speeds is essential to the health of small business in the US. Also, it allows for a more educated populace. PLEASE KEEP THE INTERNET OPEN.
576. Nick wesela, Greendale, WI, 53129
Net neutrality must be protected. It scares me to live in a world where my view would be manipulated by corporations (more than it already is). Listen to your citizens, do the right thing
577. Samuel McCumber, Janesville, WI, 53545
Quit messing with our freedoms and leave net neutrality alone. Please.
578. Edward G. Renner, Fontana, WI, 53125
"Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press[.]" Net neutrality is free speech and provides a key source for individuals to access the press. Interfering with net neutrality is simply outsourcing abridging the freedom of speech and the press to private companies. But is no less an infringement of every citizen's First Amendment rights.
579. Timothy Alan Beushausen, Salem, WI, 53168
Do you stupid whores think you can fool anyone by naming your efforts to monopolize the Internet "Restoring Internet Freedom?" Leave the Net Neutrality Regulation alone. Hands off! We know you plan to follow your Pied Piper Ajit Pai, but be forewarned that the pitchforks are coming for him, too, along with Mr. Trump. Because this dictator thinks he can take our free and open access to the Internet away from us for now does not mean we are going to tolerate this abuse of power.
580. Peter Wierzba, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
I am in support of net neutrality and title 2 being upheld and maintained so that the internet is a place truly free of any possible discrimination by ISPs
581. michael vogds, New berlin, WI, 53151
I support strong net neutrality back by title II regulations of ISPs
582. Jeremy Matus, Muskego, WI, 53150
I support strong net neutrality backed by Title 2 oversight of ISPs. I do not want my internet carrier to be able to slow down competitors services to promote their own service. This removes my freedom of choice.
583. CT Scan, MILWAUKEE, WI, 53130

I'm walking up a Street and I see United Postal Service truck come by; what are those programmers doing to FedEx?

584. Dillon Neuzil, Janesville, WI, 53545

I urge the FCC to keep strong net neutrality rules backed by Title II. This is a vital consumer protection that is responsible for a more united and safer America.

585. keith petersen, Williams Bay, WI, 53191

Net neutrality is very important for all citizens none tainted information and access to the Internet is a way to keep people moving forward in todays society. Keep Tittle II your obligation is to the American public not to massively wealthy corporations that do not have the peoples best intentions as their priority. It is the suppose it purpose of the FCC to help the American people do not betray us.

586. Casey Paulson, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Internet neutrality is essential, to fair and equal access to the internet, while also promoting balanced competition between differing companies or web services, which is finely attuned to this country's capitalist system and to our beliefs in personal liberties and freedoms. If net neutrality is removed then larger corporations, Comcast, Verizon, will choke smaller internet domains or companies, and will leave the internet a limited access portal, where the rich and powerful ISP can charge their competitors higher fees and effectively block access to their websites. Thus if net neutrality is removed, you will have spit in the face of this country's ideals and values and in essence are un-American.
Maintain Net Neutrality

587. Benajmin Thorson, Kenosha, WI, 53142

The internet has been an open hub of communication for years and years now. And to allow ISPs to do whatever they want with it and take away access in order to just make more money is completely sickening. Something has to stop.

588. Ryan Schneider, kenosha, WI, 53144

Don't allow peopel to block sites

589. Joseph Batko, Salem, WI, 53168

World Wide Web = Access everything World Wide, not just things a company wants us to see, that's plain stupidity. Companies can force thoughts into your brain ex. voting for president, ect. by sending you to certain websites.

590. Gabe Waller, Janesville, WI, 53545

I believe net neutrality is crucial to keeping the internet what it is and functioning at its highest potential. Without having the power to use the internet freely the purpose of using it would go away completely. Being bottle-necked and told what you can and can't do is not something internet providers should be able to control.

591. Calvin Throsen, Kenosha, WI, 53143

The internet needs to be free and open. Keep the internet in the hands of consumer's, not the ISP's.

592. Samuel Aten, Waterford, WI, 53185

Communication is expression, and the internet is the foremost tool for that expression. It allows us to bring ideas and perspectives together, to share content and promote innovation, to protect creativity and individuality. It would be wise to allow such an environment--as any environment--to remain open, free, and unadulterated.

593. Grant Testa, Fontana, WI, 53125

Nobody should have to pay more for what is already widely accessible. It'd be literally a widespread panic

594. David Newlun, Racine, WI, 53404

Repealing net neutrality is completely anti consumer. All it really does is benefit cable companies. This will lead to ridiculous internet costs with no benefit for the consumer. Cable companies are already essentially monopolies they don't need more help.

595. matthew korte, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Net neutrality is an important regulation that needs to be in place to counter the abomination of corporate greed the telecom companies have and the price gouging they can inflict on us already

596. Zachary Olson, Kenosha, WI, 53142

DON'T CENSOR MY INTERNET

597. John Paluszynski, Franklin, WI, 53132

ISP's should not prioritize websites/apps that they own, block certain websites and slow or throttle internet connection on sites they don't like. Save the internet!

598. Cole Danielson, Janesville, WI, 53546

Net neutrality is fair and equal. If you get rid of it that would only be a sign of corruption and greed. Please look past your donations and lobbyists and remember the core principles of this nation: freedom and equality for all. If you do end up repealing the laws concerning net neutrality, you will only anger the nation and stir the discontent lying dormant in every American's heart. We all use the internet, please keep it fair and open.

599. Travis Sylvester, Sturtevant, WI, 53177

I both support and reject net neutrality, I feel it needs to be kept, but at the same time it needs work. In the mean time, I'd rather not give my ISP the ability to control what I watch and at what speed I watch it at for an outrageous price.

600. Olivia, Greendale, WI, 53129

Your reasons behind wanting net neutrality go against everything America stands for. Freedom means FREEDOM for the PEOPLE. The government is supposed to be FOR the people! Protecting your personal interests above the people who vote for you is the OPPOSITE of your job. Its almost if our government should be putting us first.... Oh wait, they only care about keeping their pockets fat.

601. Blais Hurst, Burlington, WI, 53105

I'm just commenting to voice my thoughts on the matter. I honestly have to say that if you care at all about the people in the United States you will stop the ISPs (Internet Service Providers) from screwing with our access to the internet. The internet at the moment, is what it is because everyone has equal access to it. Please, I beg you preserve Net Neutrality and Title 2 to keep the internet as the free and wonderful place that it is.

602. Chris Maldonado, Racine, WI, 53402

I would love to keep net neutrality. I don't believe it's fair to limit the net.

603. Naomi Harrison, Kenosha, WI, 53142

It is very important that you maintain net neutrality. There is no reason to give companies the power to prevent a free and open internet.

604. dan bice, williams bay, WI, 80503

Please, we need to stop trump from ruining america. keep net neutrality

605. Brian Hawkins, Wales, WI, 53183

I want the Internet to stay the way it is. Please keep net neutrality. Thank you.

606. Kyle Hoepfner, Burlington, WI, 53105

I feel like it's against so many things the U.S.A. stands for. I believe in this country, but if we start monitoring and censoring what people are allowed to view after paying for it, then that amounts to little more than theft. A grown adult should be allowed to do whatever they want in the privacy of their own home, so long as they aren't harming anyone.

607. Net Neutrality, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

Net Neutrality is an important component of free speech on the internet. It helps protect individuals ability to share their opinions, create prosperous online businesses, and spread their art. I know none of that matters to you people at the FCC or anyone else in Washington for that matter but hopefully the volume of messages you receive will force you to do the right thing. Thanks for your time, dicks.

608. joan bojarski, kenosha, WI, 53143

Net neutrality must be strongly protected. Think what negative effect it could have on our democracy. Short term it may be about money (which is sickening enough) but this could easily be more about control. Please let's not start inching our way towards a dictatorship. Net neutrality is one of the last hopes we have left. How will you decide who should have access to and control over information? By their right to it as an American or by how much money and power they hold? You were entrusted to serve the public interest. I urge you to take that seriously. This is THE test of your integrity as you have been given power. Don't sell us out.

609. Kameron King, Williams Bay, WI, 53191
the net should remain neutral. I don't want to see blocking or throttling in the future.
610. Jacob Horn, Milton, WI, 53563
DO not Repeal the rules that have been put in play for many years everyone uses the internet on a daily basis, there is no need to repeal the rules and charge more money on top of what we pay for already..... Please don't do it
611. Bailey, Franklin, WI, 53132
These Rules put in place should not be lifted. The internet should be a free place for everyone
612. Jason Taylor, Delavan, WI, 53115
The intern needs to stay open and accessible to everyone. if we block or limit content are we any better then the communist countries that treat there people this way? As Americans we strive for freedom why would we want that freedom taken away? Please stop this and keep our internet open.
613. Spencer Easton, Janesville, WI, 53546
I find the fact that you were chosen to lead the FCC abhorrent. You should be protecting citizens, not profits.Spencer Easton
614. Sam Strait, Franklin, WI, 53132
My main priority is that this not only effects the United States, but the entire world. If this is to proceed the entire world will look to America as an example on how the internet should be used. If this were to happen the entire globe could have an internet service similarly to that of China's internet, where everything is limited or censored.
615. Cory, Racine, WI, 53402
Internet needs to remain free and open the most of many reasons, education.
616. Kali Splan, Burlington, WI, 53105
Net Neutrality is of utmost importance going into the future of our society as a whole. We need to stay free in mind to continue inventing and prospering. For goodness sake we are PAYING for the internet as a service and if this is taken and replaced with Paid Prioritization then it is no longer a service to us. It's a complete obstruction of our rights as Americans to take this away as a whole, whether at home or on mobile. Blocking and throttling sites we frequent because our ISP's haven't bought them out is completely a violation of everything that is freedom. Especially when we are paying ISP's specifically to have access to the internet. The entire internet. Not an edited internet to see only what we are meant to. A free an open internet as we have enjoyed seeing whatever we happen to wander into through our google searches. If you want a closed off internet then you better damn well make it a free connection, because that is not what we are paying for.

617. Cory Oliver, Racine, WI, 53402
Internet should remain free and open.
618. David Niles, racine, WI, 53403
net neutrality must be kept. the control of the internet should not become a source of income to private companies.
619. Christopher Roubique, New Berlin, WI, 53151
We must have strong Net Neutrality. The Internet is a vital service and necessity of life for all Americans. Do not remove Net Neutrality. Do not weaken net neutrality. It is the basis for free trade, speech, and use of the Internet and should be strengthened. Do not give in to the lobbying of companies that stand to gain immensely if Net Neutrality is destroyed or weakened...all at the expense of the American people.
620. Robert Merritt, Racine, WI, 53402
WITHOUT net neutrality rules, prioritation of internet traffic by telecom and cable companies would skew the competition for content, as well as tilt the scales in the dissemination of all political and social views in favor of websites and companies that are able to pay internet access providers. Without net neutrality, consumers would be forced to access a distorted internet, where information is prioritized according to the financial interests of telecom and cable companies. The FCC should be looking out for the consumers not harming them for the sake of big business profits.
621. Barbara Leable, Kenosha, WI, 53144
I am retired and supplement my pension and Social Security by running a small transcription company. Last year I grossed $5,000 -- not much but it helps pay my bills. My internet service is already slow. I don't want to compete with people can afford a lot of money to upgrade speed and service so they get the best of the Internet. I feel that the Internet should be a tool that equalizes people, not letting ISPs and rich people continue to plunder the less wealthy. And I don't want my ISP to gather more info on me and sell it for profit to other companies. Help keep American citizens free and equal!
622. Raymond Firnges, Racine, WI, 53405

I'm an adult I don't need you to decide what I can and cannot look at on the internet.

623. James Esposito, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Net neutrality is extremely important to me and to the freedoms I and all Americans enjoy. Censorship and corporate favoritism damage our ability to learn, grow, and communicate. The internet is one of the greatest inventions in the history of mankind, and we've only seen a fraction of its potential effects. We need to let it evolve naturally and openly, not in the hands of those that will shape it to benefit themselves and only themselves.
624. Don Nichols, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Net neutrality is essential for equality in our freedom of speech and sharing of information.
625. Victor Barger, Whitewater, WI, 53190
Net neutrality is crucial to the continued success of the Internet. Without a level playing field, startups and small businesses will be unable to compete with the telcos. Please do not change the net neutrality rules that protect the open Internet!
626. Derrick Krakau, Franklin, WI, 53132
Dear FCC,I have worked in the information technology sector for the last 17 years. It's crucial for the advancement of technology, the spread of knowledge in society, and the expansion of business for the internet to remain a neutral playing ground. No company should be able to decide who's traffic is more important. This would create an opportunity for large players to quash small players (who could some day become large players).It's important that we are not forced to continue using outdated technology from ISPs (standard cable television) because they it's the model they are most comfortable with. We need the freedom to buy the services (Netflix, Hulu, Amazon, Gaming, Etc..) from the provider of our choice.In my market I have a very limited selection option for high speed internet. I am effectively forced to choose a provider which does not leave me recourse as a consumer to select a reasonable alternative if I am unhappy with the choice the provider makes. We must have an open and free internet.Thanks,Mr. Derrick KrakauNetwork Administrator
627. Matt Maurer, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Please keep net neutrality in place. These telecommunications companies seem to be doing fine financially, if they are not, that's their problem. Destroying the internet for their profits is not the right thing to do.
628. Alexander C Vincer, Racine, WI, 53405
Please save net neutrality and Title II rules. I am a network administrator for a small business in Wisconsin and I know that the proposed reversal of existing regulations to the requirement that all Internet traffic should be treated equally would be disastrous to our nation's, and by extension entire world's, internet infrastructure. The implications of the reversal of this policy would be far-reaching and would affect equal access to resources that should be easy to access. There should not be "pay walls" that separate users from important content, and there should not be "throttling" that serves content to different users at different rates, affecting the accessibility of the same resource to people that cannot afford to pay for fair use of the resource. Both of these things are very real things that could (and most likely would) happen if these changes went into place. Chairman Pai and Commissioner O'Rielly are wrong: their position is not pro-business, it's anti-business, and the proposed changes would hurt the people that need open access to the resources they need the most: low- to middle-class Americans. Please save net neutrality and Title II rules.

629. Dean Del Ponte, New Berlin, WI, 53151

keep the internet neutral. It's better for the citizens of this country

630. Sean Ryan, Franklin, WI, 53132

I strongly support net neutrality backed by Title II oversight. The fact that this is again under consideration despite overwhelming national support for net neutrality shows the utter disregard for the citizens of the United States in favor of maximizing profits for Internet Service Providers.

631. David Platt, Kenosha, WI, 53144

My name is David, and I make a living by entertaining thousands of people online through Live-streaming myself playing video-games. If the FCC changes the current laws, I may no longer be able to do what I love to do for my job.

632. Alexandra Volz, Kenosha, WI, 53143

Preserve net neutrality for the sake of the free market and open information. Why on earth would our government want do create a web experience similar to that of communist nations like NORTH KOREA and CHINA when it comes to controlling the internet and flow of information?! This proposal is outrageous, to say the least.

633. Vince Janovicz, Kenosha, WI, 53142

I would like to comment that the internet should remain neutral. ISP's should not have the ability to pick winners and losers on the internet. Neutrality is what makes the internet great and made it what it is today. Do not ruin it for this and future generations.

634. Andrew Van Rens, Janesville, WI, 53545

I support open internet, keep net neutrality.

635. Andrew Palmer, Franklin, WI, 53132

Net Neutrality is a basic right to using the Internet, allowing ISP's to control what can be said and seen is basically taking us to China level censorship. Please do not let companies take us to China level censorship.

636. Marcus, Muskego, WI, 53150
please do not let these internet companies control our lives
637. Justice Antonio Aranda, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Why would we really allow ISPs to throttle the internet we pay for? it's bad enough they can already sell our information.
638. Jesse Ostrander, Delavan, WI, 53115
i want my voice heard
639. Leigh Schneider, Waukesha, WI, 53188
Don't let this happen guys. It'll kill the opportunity to put new things on the internet which drives the internet
640. Daniel Henby, kenosha, WI, 53143
I don't want you to choose what apps and programs i should use. it's my choice and not yours.
641. Fiona Lochtefeld, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Dear FCC Chairman Ajit Pai,I support the existing Net Neutrality rules, which classify internet service providers under the Title II provision of the Telecommunications Act. Please DO NOT roll back these regulations. To classify access to the Internet as a luxury, rather than a basic utility, is to deny the reality of the modern world. The Internet is critical to finding and maintaining employment, to accessing bank details, and to enhancing education. Without strong Net Neutrality rules, thousands of citizens risk losing a basic utility that is as important to their well-being as electricity and clean water.Thank you for supporting strong Net Neutrality regulations.
642. Kimberly Turtenwald, Racine, WI, 53402
I would like to keep net neutrality. I am a writer who works in digital marketing and I am a gaming streamer. This means I make my living through the Internet. Net neutrality would harm my ability to support myself and my family as a single mother of 3.
643. KEVIN ROMANO, JANESVILLE, WI, 53546
I am including my name as one of many thousands who want no changes to Net Neutrality made!
644. Brad Teck, Racine, WI, 53405
Net neutrality is important to me because I spend most of my time on the internet. I use it to find places and tools for me to express myself and meet new people. I use it to learn things. I use it to shop. I could not fathom the level of restriction my life would have if ISPs or the Government had any control over what I was able to view. Our country is founded on, and always proud of, Freedom. Please do not remove our Freedom to browse.

645. Spencer Siegel, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
I believe in a fair and open internet. If you have a shred of decency and respect for the public good/interest, do not allow net neutrality to be rolled back. Giant ISPs do not need even more profit and control at the direct expense of the American people.
646. Steven Taylor, New Berlin, WI, 53151
Save the net stop paying the big companies. we already pay them enough and get nothing. dont let them take more away than they already do.Look at the rest of the world...our internet is already one of the slowest, why make it worse
647. Ben McClure, Racine, WI, 53402
Net neutrality is incredibly important for the entire collective Internet's future. Please do the only logical thing for the good of all!
648. Scott, Kenosha, WI, 53142
I strongly do not support this action. Do you not have enough already? There is always something you come up with that effects consumers in a negative way. Leave my internet access alone!!!!
649. Colin Riehle, Franksville, WI, 53126
The internet is a very useful utility for nearly everybody in the United States, and to most developed countries in the world as well. The fact that these corporations are trying to slow their speeds behind paywalls and make it more difficult to use the internet for things that we enjoy is a blasphemous proceeding. The internet should be free and not artificially slowed to line the pockets of the large corporations that it would be benefiting while simultaneously undercutting the majority of people. Blocking access to sites that people love like Netflix, Amazon, YouTube, and more is just a very scummy and degenerate thing to do. Keep our net free from the meddling hands of the corporations!
650. Greg Hyland, Janesville, WI, 53545
Please maintain net neutrality. Individual companies cannot be trusted to do what's right, so the government must intercede. Do not permit throttling of the internet, fast lanes, or preferential treatment of some companies over others.
651. David Mikulski, Bristol, WI, 53104
A free and open Internet is critical to the success of this country, both economically and socially. The isp's will not behave if deregulated, this has been proven. Do something to actually help keep this country great for once, uphold net neutrality.
652. Aurelien Le Denmat, racine, WI, 53406

Do NOT repeal this it is stupid to do so

653. Kris Lyth, Delavan, WI, 53115

Net Neutrality is how the internet should be run. Every major technology company and corporation, except the ISP's and their partners, is for Net Neutrality. This country is based on the principle of "By the People and For the People". It is not built for the companies who can make the most money from the people. It is certainly not built for who can kickback the most to "the hairdo" or the regulators. If net neutrality is stopped it will be one more piece of proof of a rich man in an overly powerful position illegally controlling the government process. Stop letting this "man" scare you. Serve the people you are supposed to be representing. If he threatens you or your political future, do what you are there to do as long as you are there. Don't let your ambitions lead you, follow the people you represent.

654. Leigh Weidner, Racine, WI, 53403

Net neutrality is good for competition across the net. I do not want a handful of companies such as Internet Service Providers deciding what content I can and cannot see. They should not be allowed to throttle my internet speeds in such a way as to make certain sites or services unusable. If I have a service for a certain speed rating, I should get that rating across all sites. If Spectrum doesn't like Netflix because they are a competitor in the TV programming space, Spectrum shouldn't be allowed to throttle Netflix through Spectrum's internet service. In some areas, there are few choices for internet so it may not be possible to go to a competitor if one ISP's policies are not in favor of net neutrality. Additionally, often there is an installation fee of hundreds of dollars and the hassle of being available for ridiculous installation windows that adds to the pain a consumer feels when they have to switch to get better service.

655. Scheirer, Jack, East Troy, WI, 53120

The proposed plan to remove the standards on fair and open internet usage especially in regards to the announced plans on the behalf of large IP's is disgusting and appalling for the needed neutral and open internet. I humbly request the organization fully comprehend the situation and make sure to keep the internet free and open for all future.

656. Colin Kielp, Kenosha, WI, 53140

My name is Colin Kielp, currently a 20 year old college student studying at Carthage College. IF net neutrality is repealed, it opens up the doorways to certain ISPs favoring many sites. This would be incredibly detrimental to my education and my ability to seek information, and not only could one site - say, an incredibly biased research site - give more money to an ISP in order to have their site be faster, they could do it so that they are the ONLY acceptable site that I could reach. Now, given this assumption, it is incredibly easy to link together a repealed net neutrality and a world in which not all of the information is available

- something that would be incredibly destructive to the scientific degree that I am pursuing. Allowing the FCC to have any influence in what website I have access to, or allowing the FCC to give ISPs permission to throttle websites that haven't paid them enough, or anything like that, is not only extraordinarily harmful to the population using the web as a whole, but especially harmful to those currently getting an education, as the possibility of many of our greatest resources in school could potentially be completely blocked or throttled to the point where they become unusable. Do NOT repeal net neutrality. It would be nothing but a disaster for anybody who is cannot pay exorbitant prices to ISPs.

657. joshua snow, kenosha, WI, 53140

please do not allow companies to ruin the internet. you have to right to restrict the freedom of speech as well as the freedom to knowledge for the agenda of the rich

658. Alyssa Curty, Racine, WI, 53402

The internet is the public square of the 21st century. It has to remain accessible and fair for all. A free and open internet is essential in order to guarantee a democratic society.

659. Trevor Riehle-Ludtke, Franksville, WI, 53126

The internet is something that should NOT be controlled. It is the current and future forms of communication and access to information for most of the world. I can speak to friends and family who live across the country and all over the world via skype, email, facetime, etc. If the goal of repealing net neutrality is achieved, they will literally have a stranglehold over the public. They will have total power to do as they please with pricing, setting speeds, and blocking sites. This means I will not be able to utilize the internet the way I currently do. We might as well go back to the pre-internet ways of doing things because nobody will have the means to afford or deal with the headaches this repeal will cause. I pay for internet access so I can perform research when I need to find out more information on a variety of subjects, stream videos and music, and communicate to family and friends among other things. If this passes the ISPs will not have to listen to the FCC in terms of pricing, invading our privacy, and fraudulent billing. We need an expert agency to oversee these companies specifically so they CANNOT do this. I don't want to pay $30 a month one day and wake up the next morning and see I'm now paying $130 a month along with a bill saying I used a website I am not allowed to on their contract and slapped with another $75 fee. Yes I can always change providers, however, if one provider runs their business this way, I am certain the others will follow suit. There will be no rules for them to adhere to. It will be a chaotic and tumultuous day if this passes. Net neutrality needs to stay.

660. Lucas Lenar, Hales Corners, WI, 53130

Net neutrality must be upheld in order to maintain a free and open internet where users can freely express their interests and opinions without the interference of corporations who want to control users' experience.

661. Sean Sonnen, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Net Neutrality is a vital part to maintaining a free and open democracy where it doesn't cost any more or less to freely transmit ideas from amongst each other. Given the greed of many companies the cost of internet access would greatly increase or could even slow traffic to competing companies. This goes against the Anti-Trust laws. Open access to the internet should be a guaranteed basic human right in this modern day and age.
662. Theodore Vollman, Racine, WI, 53402
Please keep Title II in place. Title II protections are extremely important to not only myself, but to every single person in this country who is not an Internet Service Provider. These protections have allowed for businesses to arise which are indispensable to modern living, and allow for free and open competition between companies, which allow for better services to be provided at a better price. Please keep Title II in place so that this environment can remain healthy.
663. femn smith, kenosha, WI, 53143 the internet must remain open and competition must remain in place.
664. Jacob Crowell, Racine, WI, 53402
This is basically censorship. And nearly unconstitutional. Don't do it don't help big businesses
665. Matthew J Hoffman, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
I am against repealing net neutrality. We need this in place to make sure we aren't throttled by ISP's in the future. Because we have so few options of internet, capitalism cannot protect against throttling. Please consider keeping an open internet with title 2 and net neutrality
666. John H Kristiansen, Racine, WI, 53406
Keep net neutrality as it is, stop with the conflict of interests. Stop exploiting laws for lining your own wallets, or other corporate wallets that pay your campaign funds. It is ridiculous to think that you might actually revoke it. The internet is the free flow of information, and with revoking it would be a censorship that should not happen. Please don't go through with this idiotic law. Don't do this to the American citizens who pay for your well being. Sincerely, J Kristiansen.
667. Brandon J Grant, Janesville, WI, 53548
I am a consumer, and I believe repealing the net neutrality rules will not benefit my use of the internet nor the usage of my peers. I use a variety of services in order to get what I need done on a daily basis. Of the ISPs in my area only two provide true broadband internet access that is widely available, even though we have many small internet companies competing for market. The career path I wish to go on will depend on strong net neutrality rules in order for me to be able to communicate and do my work with as many companies and consumers as possible. I think that we need to keep our internet as free and open and consumer controlled as possible. I dread the idea of an internet limited by companies because they want to make some extra cash, I feel that leads into greater issues with our government as a whole.

668. Joshua Haberman, Greendale, WI, 53129

The current state of the American broadband internet is very poor and seems to get only worse. At my job where I work as a network engineer, I am responsible for finding and ordering internet service for our locations. The company I work for is charged with managing utility plants for cities and municipalities and the locations are most often in the outer fringes of urban areas by design. The services available for these locations are often not suitable for a modern single-family household let alone a utility plant managed by an international corporation. By policing ISPs based on Title 2 and continuing to enforce "Network Neutrality", there is a hope that in the future the United States will become competitive in the availability of good quality broadband services.

669. Jeremy Carpenter Stetina, New Berlin, WI, 53146

The internet is called the open web for a reason; don't revoke the people's right to have a fair internet. Keep net neutrality.

670. Michael Paul, Wind Lake, WI, 53185

It is important to preserve net neutrality. The only entity that benefits from the repeal would be the ISP companies and their shareholders. Everything that people have come to love about the internet could cease to exist if the protections in place are repealed. Do not repeal net neutrality.

671. Net Neutrality, Racine, WI, 53402

Keep Net Neutrality. Do not let ISPS control the internet. ISPS should not be able to charge you for what you use the internet for.

672. David Jacobs, Racine, WI, 53404

Dear FCC, Please don't throw our free Internet down the toilet by selling out to the ISPs. Keep them as a common carrier as they obviously should be. The Internet is, and should be, a wild and wonderful place where a site can grow solely on its merits, not on whether they've paid off the right people. This Free Internet that's been proposed is only open to those with the resources to pay. Thank you for your time and your service, David Jacobs

673. Matthew Gnepper, Kenosha, WI, 53143

Please preserve Title II/Net Neutrality. The internet is becoming an ever increasing tool in our society. Keeping all information treated equally throughout allows it to be a useful means of information and expression. Removing such things threatens the ability to do just that in order to allow companies to filter what information they don't like and to line their pockets with money. There is nothing in Title II that prevents innovation and allows oversight were it is definitely needed.

674. James R. Koenig, Racine, WI, 53403

I shouldn't even have to be writing a comment for this. People are sick of big business running their lives. This is another example of big business and the government controlling what people get to see and what they get to read. I thought the FCC was created to help people, not control them. Please do what is right. James R. Koenig

675. Kelly Gratz, Janesville, WI, 53545

People of every age, race, and socioeconomic position NEED net neutrality. Internet access is NOT a luxury! In an increasingly digital age where so many facets of our lives are touched in significant ways by the internet, it is ever-more important for our citizens, our country, and our WORLD, that EVERYONE have equal opportunity and access.

676. Jeremy Nitz, Racine, WI, 53404

Net neutrality is important for internet users and content creators alike, and keeping it means being able to connect people across the world in ways unimaginable otherwise. I am the owner and run a small Pokémon website which averages around 100 active users a month. We rely on net neutrality to keep users happy and keep my website open. I rely heavily on net neutrality to allow users across the globe to access my website and stay connected. Don't allow rich companies and greedy organization control what small businesses and websites are able to do online.

677. Cameron Kielma, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

The Internet was made to be free and should stay free

678. William Flanders, Janesville, WI, 53548

Net Neutrality is critical to the free dissemination of information. Allowing paid lanes will stifle both small business and creativity. The internet belongs to the content creators and consumers, not to the ISPs.

679. Rick Rubenzer, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Keep Net Neutrality.....Put consumers first

680. Tony Schinkowitch, Racine, WI, 53406

We must fight for this. Why wouldn't we want this?

681. Warren Litza II, Racine, WI, 53402

The internet is an integral part of the majority of peoples lives. Many peoples lives are entirely on the internet and large ISP's are already doing a very poor job of keeping their speed promises, causing people to pay more to get the minimum speed.

682. Daniel J Guenther, Waukesha, WI, 53188
Keep the Internet neutral! I do not have a single acquaintance that would tell me that they trust their ISP to protect their interests as consumers of internet data, and destroying net neutrality rules will only give ISPs more power to dominate a vital service of the American economy and culture. I do not support giving ISPs this power or responsibility.
683. Elliott Grow, Racine, WI, 53402
Please save net neutrality and Title II rules. I am a auto mechanic for a small business in Wisconsin and I know that the proposed reversal of existing regulations to the requirement that all Internet traffic should be treated equally would be disastrous to our world's internet infrastructure. The implications of the reversal of this policy would be far-reaching and would affect equal access to resources that should be easy to access. There should not be "pay walls" that separate users from important content, and there should not be "throttling" that serves content to different users at different rates, affecting the accessibility of the same resource to people that cannot afford to pay for fair use of the resource. Both of these things are very real things that could (and most likely would) happen if these changes went into place. Chairman Pai and Commissioner O'Rielly are wrong: their position is not pro-business, it's anti-business, and the proposed changes would hurt the people that need open access to the resources they need the most: low- to middle-class Americans. Please save net neutrality and Title II rules.
684. Derek Beck, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
Do not repeal the net neutrality regulations currently in place. The internet needs net neutrality.
685. James Tracy, Genoa City, WI, 53128
The repealing of net neutrality and the allowed throttling and blocking of content is/ should be highly illegal. This does not foster competition and fair use. It represents the corruption of everything that a nation and a world should stand for. Both the government and your organization should be ashamed of your unabashed selling out.
686. Jarid S, Janesville, WI, 53548
I'm really tired of this same net neutrality battle coming up every couple years. Please leave the internet as it is. The internet is an international thing anyway, it's pretty unfortunate when we try to pass laws on stuff that will effect the whole world, considering the rest of the world didn't get any kind of representation on the matter. Lots of people don't even have a choice of ISP anyway, so if it becomes some kind of "well some ISPs do it and some don't" situation people will still be forced into a non-choice. I'll say it again, please leave the internet as it is. It has been great for decades. Also maybe throw something in there this time to prevent this same crap from just coming up again in two years or whatever because it's wasting a lot of people's time.

687. Susan, Greendale, WI, 53129

Please spare us of the "Freedom" to be exploited by the ISP's!!! On July 12 is the Protect Net Neutrality Day of Action! This is the day to protect our freedom of internet and Fight to escape the control of our life by the ISPs - the corporations we all despise. Do not let them get away with this, fight For Our Future as if our life depend on it!

688. Patricia Pendleton, Hales Corners, WI, 53130

I, a registered voter, want net neutrality preserved and enforced. Do not change or remove existing rules that regulate and protect net neutrality. Net neutrality is an important component of a free society. Removing or changing the current regulations that protect net neutrality will stifle technological competition and innovation, as well as hurt free speech. I do not want a handful of mega-corporations controlling my internet activity. I want a free and open internet.

689. Frostrangermon, Burlington, WI, 53105

Net neutrality is crucial for maintaining a more competitive internet service market, and should be kept in place to protect the freedom the internet provides people. The internet is not only a vast library of knowledge, but an entertainment venue and a forum to develop relationships and the content that one absorbs should not be controlled by internet service providers, but by the individual themselves.

690. Niles Long, Whitewater, WI, 53190

Net neutrality should be kept to give consumers the best possible experience while using the services they are paying for. ISP's without net neutrality would be driving costs up for consumers and companies trying to access or distribute a service. Net neutrality needs to be protected to prevent ISP's from preventing consumers from accessing information. The web should be an open source of communication and no company should be able to censor the web much like phone companies cannot prevent you from calling. These ISPs should have no right to determine how consumers receive services from online providers. Please protect the consumer's rights by protecting net neutrality.

691. Wesley Beusse, Franklin, WI, 53132

This action is universally bad for innovation, consumers, and the country. This only serves to help the major ISPs open up more revenue streams when they're already ridiculously profitable while simultaneously providing inferior Internet service. The United States lags behind most other countries in Internet access yet we're going to reward that with a sweetheart deregulation scheme? If the FCC rams this thru, it'll be a continued embarrassment to our country. The FCC is supposed to serve us, not the ISPs.

692. Kristin Krokowski, Eagle, WI, 53119
I am opposed to changes in the current net neutrality standard for several reasons. First is the lack of internet access in my area. I have one option for decent quality internet service in my area. I am forced to pay high fees already because I have only one choice. I don't have the option of changing providers if I don't like the service that I receive. We are also small business owners. We have a family farm. The internet is one of the primary ways local people can find us to buy or pick their own produce. If grocery stores or Amazon/whole foods can pay to have their listings above ours we might not appear until page 4 of the search results. Few people ever make it to page 4. It will hurt our business just because we aren't the big guys.
693. Robert Gallegos, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
We should keep Net Neutrality available. If we don't have it, I am not going to be using the Internet at all and corporations will be out a customer because of their greed. I have no interest in corporations' interest. We will fight Donald Trump's agenda of lining the pockets of corporations and their desired control of the internet. I use the internet for email, playing games, doing research, watching videos, and occasional shopping. If I go away, other businesses will not get money from me because the ISPs won't get their money and services from me, and they end up screwing over others. It would be on ISPs and not on me.
694. Aleta.Bowers, Janesville, WI, 53546
Don't Corporations have ENOUGH power?? We need a Congress that works for regular people and NOT Corporations. The Internet needs to be free and open
695. Robert Tyson, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Without Net Neutrality, this democratic Internet could fall prey to the companies that deliver Internet services. For them our new found media freedom is a threat that needs to be controlled for commercial gain. Network operators are considering charging extra money depending on where you want to go and what you want to do online. Some are deploying technology that would sift through and filter the content that you share with others online. Such discrimination endangers the open and level playing field that has made the Internet so democratic. Here are just a few reasons I think net neutrality should be kept.
Economic Recovery and Prosperity The Internet has thrived and revolutionized business and the economy precisely because it started as an open technology
Free Speech Freedom of the press extends only to those who own one -- or so the saying goes. It once rang true in a world ruled by newspaper chains, radio and television broadcasters, and cable networks. But the Internet has changed all that, delivering the press -- and in theory its freedoms -- to any person with a good idea and a connection to the Web.
Civic Participation New media are more participatory and personal than ever before and have opened up new avenues for people to become involved with local, state and national politics.
Network operators are considering charging extra money depending on where you want to go and what you want to do online. Some are deploying technology that would sift through and filter the content that you share with others online. Such discrimination endangers the open and level playing field that has made the Internet so democratic.

696. Alex Hyde, Kenosha, WI, 53142

If you give ISPs the power to throttle internet traffic they will abuse it, and we'll all have a censored internet that we have to pay more for and nobody who frequents the internet wants that. Please stop this now. Alex Hyde

697. Dustin Kyle Schneider, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

The fair, unbiased, unrestricted access to the internet is paramount in this age of information. It is a driving force in the economy, education, and entertainment of this country. Allowing corporations to dictate at what rate you consume content will be disastrous and against the core belief of this country.

698. Isaac Decker, Janesville, WI, 53546

Its hard to believe that the government would like to control one of the last places on earth for american's. can we leave money and politics out of the internet? as a whole this is the most messed up thing i can think off.

699. Timothy Allen, Kenosha, WI, 53143

How many times has someone tried to get rid of net neutrality? Just adding yet another voice to say we gotta keep it.

700. Bethany Glish, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

I strongly support the FCC's existing Open internet rules (net neutrality) based on Title II. The internet was designed to promote communication by being freely, and equally, open to all. Deregulation paves the way for corporate censorship on national scale, this goes against a founding principal of this nation, the principal of free speech. I urge the FCC to continue to supporting our nation's principals, including that of free speech, by keeping Title II in place. Please support net neutrality.

701. Net Neutrality, racine, WI, 53402

Equal access to the internet is necessary to America's continued progress and prosperity. I urge you NOT TO roll back rules and protections that give ALL AMERICANS equal access to the Internet - which provides opportunities for work, commerce, education, political involvement and is integral to our rights as Americans.

702. Kyle Loofboro, Milton, WI, 53563

Keep the net open!!!! Anything other then access to the ENTIRE internet is Chinese style "freedom"

703. Harley, Janesville, WI, 53545

I support Net Neutrality. Anything else would be wrong, unfair, and near criminal.

704. Kathy Brand, Kenosha, WI, 53143

I support net neutrality and freedom of speech.Kathy Brand

705. Bryan Ehrfurth, Franklin, WI, 53132

I specifically support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISP's. Thank you. Have a wonderful day.

706. Timothy Grun, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Net Neutrality is required to keep an even playing field with small business and large corporations. The rules that have already been established are working towards that goal, and the idea of changing that should not be considered.

707. Susan Csikos, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Please keep strong net neutrality laws on the books. I have friends who make their living on sites like Etsy, artists that make beautiful designs and clothes that would never have been seen if Amazon and EBay were the preferred sites. Small businesses and startups would be decimated by preferential treatment. The net is one of the last remotely even playing fields, where individuals can be directly compensated for putting out quality, consistent work. Rewarding people for skill, hard work and diligence makes this one of the last bastions of the American Dream, a place where you can make your own life without selling out to a big company that owns all your thoughts. There has to be a place for this. It has to be online.

708. Kevin Edward Mich, Kenosha, WI, 53143

As more of the country takes their business online, we need to ensure that they can survive and thrive. In order for this to happen, net neutrality must remain. With an open internet people and businesses will be able to more easily contribute to the US economy. Please think of the needs of the American people.

709. Shannon Mulroy, Kenosha, WI, 53142

The internet is a vital part of our society's infrastructure and needs to be safeguarded against potential corporate abuses. Far too many people rely on it for to make their living for it to be subject to the whims of those making money off the process.Title II was a hard-won victory. I do not support taking away the classification.

710. Craig McIntire, Greendale, WI, 53129

Net neutrality is a good thing and should not be repealed or any other thing which can be interpreted as such.Net neutrality is important because the competition for ISP providers does not exist in enough markets yet and the people will suffer for the gain of a few.

711. Nicholas Santi, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
Please keep Net Neutrality, I'm strongly against repealing it, in that it gives ISP's too much control over the user.
712. Ann L Parris, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
Internet needs to remain neutral and unmonitored or controlled by the government or the Internet Service Providers. It is bad enough they load cookies so that they can already infiltrate our browsing experiences with unwanted advertisements. We already pay them for their service and it is already an inflated cost for their extreme profiteering.
713. brandon brown, Janesville, WI, 53546
Save the internet. Keep net neutrality. PLEASE. Don't let the big companies take over.
714. R, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
The internet needs to stay free and open; big business's should stay away from something that has been running on its own for a long time. Keep your grubby paws off of the fast acting internet!
715. Harjot Bains, Franklin, WI, 53132
Net neutrality is important for the advancement of all of us as individuals. Access to information on this infinite source of information should not at all be affected by corporations and the interests of corporations. While the idea of staying local in government and laws is ideal in some scenarios, this is not one of them. Harjot Bains
716. Ismael Torrez, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Many, and I mean MANY, content creators such as myself rely on the Internet being as free as it is currently is; music to help us work or destress, contacting loved ones from ANYWHERE on the planet no matter the distance, and providing news and support for those same people to not only survive dangerous scenarios, but to also help each other grow and improve overtime. With this new set of rules that you people are planning to implement, any form of creativity that I have seen and cherished from the internet would be stomped out of existence. On top of that, so many content creators among other people who rely on the internet for income could very well become jobless, and even homeless due to not having the means to pay bills.
717. Ryan George, Burlington, WI, 53105
Stop trying to fuck everything up.
718. Jordy Barrera, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Keep Internet neutrality! It is vital to the US's state of democracy, without it, we lose our core principles. Don't lose what makes our country unique! Keep it free and don't submit to large companies; we were founded on a mixed economy, not a limited one!

719. Joel Meissner, Waukesha, WI, 53189
Let's keep the "free market" an actual free market.
720. Tony Schulz, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Please seriously consider not removing Net Neutrality. How many more things do rich corporations need to own?!! Millionaires trying to be billionaires, while the rest of us suffer in poverty. Please, I implore you to leave Net Neutrality alone. Thank You for your time, Tony Schulz
721. Elizabeth, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
Etsy Shop <http://www.woodendeckle.com/> please keep things fair! Elizabeth
722. Harjot Bains, Franklin, WI, 53132
I urge you to listen to the people, and uphold the values of our country. Freedom
723. Dave Tradewell, Racine, WI, 53402
please do what the PEOPLE want - keep the internet free
724. Logan Oberhauser, Franklin, WI, 53132
The battle on net neutrality is a cash grab that is completely unnecessary.
725. Isaiah Chen, Racine, WI, 53402
Net Neutrality is essential to the way that the internet operates; without it we will be vulnerable to the whims of any internet service provider that wishes to restrict how we choose to use the internet. As an US Citizen I see this as an avenue for corporations to strip me of the right to free speech on the internet and to grow a monopoly as they see fit. It is imperative that the FCC take actions to prevent these corporations from interfering with the freedoms of myself and other Citizens of these United States.
726. Joel Foster, Burlington, WI, 53105
Really? Do I need to explain this to you? Stop being a professional dick for money and do what's right for the people you're supposed to represent.
727. Derek Thorpe, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
The FCC should preserve net neutrality. If you put the power into the hands of the ISPs, it allows them to control what we view.
728. Cody Knabenbauer, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
The net needs to remain a free enterprise. Despite the fact that it could still remain an open market for internet speed, the power companies could wield over other companies that rely on websites for everything from distribution to customer support. Nothing could stop these companies from controlling the internet markets. As someone who worries greatly on a daily basis on simple things like food and bills, I can also see how the prices could go up on all my expenses on the account of cable companies.

729. Jessica Erbe, Mukwonago, WI, 53149

As a someone who hopes to make a living off of the internet someday in some capacity, I am in full support of net neutrality. The internet has shaped so many lives and careers that it is insane to think that a company would have to pay more just so their site loads faster. The internet isn't just a place for people to research information anymore. It is a place for people to connect with each other, and that impact would be greatly diminished if all sites were treated differently. The internet has evolved into a place where people can start a company and make a living, that possibility basically goes away if they can't afford to pay to get the bandwidth they need to get their site noticed. The internet is now a utility used by the majority of people and Net neutrality ensures that everyone on the internet has a chance to be seen, not just the rich, white men of the world and I'd like to keep it that way.

730. Alaina Sorensen, Kenosha, WI, 53142

ISPs already have their customers in shackles, asking us to pay high values to even access the internet at barely functioning speeds. It's not about customer satisfaction anymore, it is about the money. It is about the censorship and controlling what we see just to make a pretty penny. This attacks and violates our first amendment right of free speech and the right of the people to peaceably assemble: cessation of websites and social media that allow those to express their thoughts and feelings, and creation of communities online where anyone can gain support, friendship, and so much more.

731. Bryan, Muskego, WI, 53150

I support net neutrality. I don't know the lingo and everything, nor do I have the ability to write a great letter, but I can't operate in a corporate-controlled, pay-to-win internet in a world of technology. Tech is my livelihood, and I can't accept action that hurts the availability of the internet to the public. I pay my water company for the quantity of water that I use. They don't charge me extra for a "Hot water premium plan" or bullshit like that. I don't get charged extra when I use my electricity to power one company's microwave versus a competing company's product. The internet is supposed to be equal for all websites, and I will not support any change against that freedom. Bryan

732. Patrick Greer, kenosha, WI, 53144

The internet should be kept as a utility and should be open to everyone.

733. Zach Miller, Janesville, WI, 53545

It honestly seems ridiculous that this movement needs to exist. In one corner we have the freedom of sharing information, and in the other we have the wallets of a very small subset of the population. It should not take a lengthy discussion to determine which corner any rational human would be rooting for, and yet here we are. Just take a look at the websites in support of net neutrality. Appreciate what they have done for humanity. We can almost instantaneously share information across the world. We can buy and sell material products across the world. We can find people do have discussions with, we can instantly speak to people almost anywhere, we can share art, share music, share code, share humor, crowd fund new ideas, and hell we can even enjoy some porn. The internet is a beautiful thing. It is a beautiful thing because people were given the freedom to do what they wanted, and what they wanted to do some make some really amazing stuff. Please keep the internet an open and free place. Zach Miller

734. John Chamberlain, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Losing "Internet Freedom" feels like a violation of our rights to privacy. It also makes me feel as though the government cares more about money than it's own citizens.
735. Alyssa Anderson, Janesville, WI, 53546
Americans, myself included, have the right to internet that does not play favorites and is equal for all parties. We are a country built up by the little guys and gals who went out and started their own companies and pursued their dreams. As the internet has become more and more important in how we market and grow our business and lives it is ever more important that there is a level playing field. I know that it is not a guarantee that these companies will use this power to serve them, but I also know that they would have no reason not to. If we've learned anything recently it's that if you give more power to the powerful they will only use it to advance themselves. I urge you to keep net neutrality and Title II in place. It's worked so far so why on earth would we get rid of it?
736. Jonathan Worman, Racine, WI, 53402
The internet is one of the few places left in the world where everyone who has access to it has a voice that can be heard. Getting rid of Net Neutrality would be getting rid of the one thing the human race has been able to create that allows for people across the globe to be able to freely make a living, communicate with each other, and learn.
737. Kami Fortner, Kenosha, WI, 53144
The internet is a wonderful tool that allows the voiceless to be heard. Please support net neutrality so that corporations can't pay to be more accessible than individuals on the internet.
738. Rory, Delavan, WI, 53115
Controlling the content available on the internet is exactly what the Chinese and North Koreans do.
739. Timothy Baltes, Kenosha, WI, 53142

As a small Instagram content creator, social media has become my main source of marketing for my freelance business. If I can't market for free, I will lose out--by the costs forced upon me by an ISP or by the discontinuation of my allowance to publicly use social media platforms. I politely ask that those whom it concern consider the consequences of tearing apart net neutrality. Corporations may boom, but small businesses and people like me will fail.

740. Sean Relihan, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

It is our responsibility as citizens to stand together and protect the health of economic issues and disruption of small business disruption. We must keep Net Neutrality. We can't continue to be compromised by money while everything else withers away. Net Neutrality allows for the growth of small businesses to develop on an even playing field. We can't turn our heads blindly when it's threatening the livelihood of many people. The internet is not broken as it is and has flourished for over 20 years. The ISP's already have established enough of a grip on society with their slightly less than monopoly business tactics. Again I strongly urge, we KEEP NET NEUTRALITY.

741. Andrew Pierson, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

The internet is the greatest resource humankind has ever produced, it should never be privatized.

742. Zoe Meyers, Janesville, WI, 53548

I support net neutrality. The First Amendment states our right to freedom of speech. If you take away net neutrality we lose this right because now our searches and webpages could be censored, slowed down, or blocked entirely. When this line is crossed where do we place the next one, whose to stop them from continuing to censor everything else? Support net neutrality to support freedom of speech.

743. Riley Mahr, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

The internet needs to be about the free exchange of information.

744. Amanda Zenk, Kenosha, WI, 53140

Don't be like this. Seriously.

745. Lucas Oberhauser, Franklin, WI, 53132

As shown not even five years ago, citizens of the United States, including myself, wish for a free and open internet. A free internet allows for the growth and flourishing new wave of small and large businesses. By simply looking at the current developed infrastructure of the internet as we know it today, it can be easily concluded that we are falling behind because of the same that tell us to trust them. Predatory practices like the throttling of data based on the source is not only dangerous to growing business and to the economy, but to the ability of the average citizen to be heard in new and open forums that the future government and internet providers may not appreciate. I implore you to give a great amount of thought into what actions you are taking, and how they will effect the citizens you have sworn to serve.

746. Chris Blue, Burlington, WI, 53105

Eliminating net neutrality would be the most horrible thing done to the internet since its inception. The moment it is repealed companies will line up to set up 'preferred services' and impose additional fees if consumers want other non-supplier affiliated services to stream at the same speeds. This will have negative ramifications for years to come.

747. Blake, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

For the love of God keep Net Neutrality

748. Ledare Schram, Franklin, WI, 53132

I am eighteen, and I have been using the open internet for most of my life. The equal footing of the current internet is one of the greatest things that humanity has ever done. Spectrum is my ISP, and I use the internet for email (not through Spectrum, but through Google), to do research and learn new things (often through smaller companies based overseas), and to read and look at art (many websites take books and art in the public domain and place it online, allowing everyone to access it, and the current open internet allows the writers of the small webcomics I like to share their work). Getting rid of net neutrality would destroy the internet as it currently exists. It would turn the greatest thing ever created by humans into a place controlled exclusively by ISPs. I believe that the current net neutrality rules need to stay in place, to protect the internet as we know it.

749. Mathew Palmen, Milwaukee, WI, 53154

I strongly support keeping Title 2 in place. The internet should remain a free and open place and not become a luxury item in the hands of large corporations as many depend on it for their work and life.

750. net, Burlington, WI, 53105

Save net neutrality. It's important for everyone be it the biggest cooperation or the people like me at home looking to surf the web.

751. David Stauche, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Dear FCC Chairman Ajit Pai,I am a full on supporter of the existing Net Neutrality rules, which classify internet service providers under the Title II provision of the Telecommunications Act. I implore you to NOT roll back these regulations. We as american's deserve the right to have access to the internet and do not want this right trampled on. From one person to another please keep Net Neutrality the way it is

752. Christian Gray Mueller, Hales Corners, WI, 53130

IPs should not be allowed to decide which apps and websites are "good" and which ones take priority. That right should be left to the end user.

753. Robert Schuler, Racine, WI, 53404

As a millennial, I grew up with the rise of the internet. It's always been the fastest and most reliable source of information if one knows where to look, and I wouldn't want to live in a world where that sort of resource is taken away.

754. Matthew Barany, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

There is absolutely no reason for any entity to have this kind of control over what we choose to do with the internet. This is NOT China!!! It is time for people to realize that some things are better left alone. The government, YOU, have had your hands in too many pockets. You have too much power as it is. Why take away more from the people of the United States? Stop throttling, stop telling me what I can do with what I have paid for, stop telling me and others who we are. I'm tired of it. Should you continue? You will find me, and many more starting our own internet services that do not ALLOW Government to intervene in any way. All the internet is is a bunch of wires and computer linked together. Do you really think that we won't find a way to do it.

755. Michael Habrel, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

I demand access to the entire internet free of paid prioritization, blocking and throttling. There is only one internet and all rules must apply to my home and mobile connections equally. I would appreciate it, if you could keep the internet free and open. Come on guys I'm pretty chill on most things you do. I honestly forgot you existed for awhile until...I saw that John Oliver Episode. Can you just go back to flying under my radar? Wu-Tang.

756. Irin Sidoti, Racine, WI, 53405

The internet is a necessity in order to remain informed of our surroundings and political climate. By taking this away or by rendering it inaccessible for people, businesses are taking away peoples' rights to assemble and potentially speak and petition the government. This issue is bipartisan and I implore representatives to examine it closely.

757. Robert Taylor, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

There is no benefit for repealing this at all.

758. Matthew Furman, Waukesha, WI, 53189

I don't want the internet to be monopolized, therefore I support NET NEUTRALITY.

759. Gavin Walters, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

Keep internet Title 2 and keep net neutrality.

760. Mitchell Nelson, Waterford, WI, 53185

In a rapidly evolving world, those that fall behind are left behind. Our world has become so digitalized that those without access to technology often have trouble competing in the real world. In order preserve American values and give everyone a fair and equal opportunity, Net Neutrality is a must. Please fight, and vote, for Net Neutrality. Thank you.

761. Internet, Janesville, WI, 53545

I DO NOT support your anti consumer bill. Leave the internet free and open.

762. John Reiff, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

SAVE THE OPEN INTERNET! thousands of small startup businesses will be killed if this passes the small business is the back bone of our country dont let it be monopolized by crooked ISP!

763. Nicolas Oliden, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

I believe the internet and how its works should not be controlled nor messed with in any shape or form. The web is by far the least concern of the government.

764. Nathanael Shilhavy, Waterford, WI, 53185

If we do not have neutrality it would companies would then get the power forcefully interfere with the online community and once more it is companies with money with the regular person and their freedoms.

765. Justin Wendt, Racine, WI, 53405 out of all the tax paying dollars that the everyday citizen spends, out of all the services provided for entertainment, why would this even be an option. throttle speeds on high traffic sites so that more money could be gained. come one now, when do we get a break?

766. Corey J Brundige, Janesville, WI, 53545

If you are not in support of net neutrality, you are a giant fuckwad and are a corrupt ass person. I don't want ISPs to have the power to block websites, slow them down, give some sites an advantage over others, or split the Internet into "fast lanes" for companies that pay and "slow lanes" for the rest. Now is not the time to let giant ISPs censor what we see and do online. Censorship by ISPs is a serious problem. Comcast has throttled Netflix, AT&T blocked FaceTime, Time Warner Cable throttled the popular game League of Legends, and Verizon admitted it will introduce fast lanes for sites that pay and slow lanes for everyone else-if the FCC lifts the rules. This hurts consumers and businesses large and small. Courts have made clear that if the FCC ends Title II classification, the FCC must let ISPs offer "fast lanes" to websites for a fee. Chairman Pai has made clear that he intends to do exactly this. But if some companies can pay our ISPs to have their content load faster, startups and small businesses that can't pay those fees won't be able to compete. You will kill the open marketplace that has enabled millions of small businesses and created the 5 most valuable companies in America-just to further enrich a few much less valuable cable giants famous for sky-high prices and abysmal customer service. Internet providers will be able to impose a private tax on every sector of the American economy. Moreover, under Chairman Pai's plan, ISPs will be able to make it more difficult to access political speech that they don't like. They'll be able to charge fees for website delivery that would make it harder for blogs, nonprofits, artists, and others who can't pay up to have their voices heard. I'm sending this to the FCC's open proceeding, but I worry that Chairman Pai, a former Verizon lawyer, has made his plans and will ignore me and millions of other Americans. So I'm also sending this to my members of Congress. Please publicly support the FCC's existing net neutrality rules based on Title II, and denounce Chairman Pai's plans. Do whatever you can to dissuade him. Thank you! Corey J Brundige

767. Andrew Liam Fastenau, Kenosha, WI, 53142

A fight for freedom is a fight for a free voice; to prevent such is an act against the mass free will of this country's population, as bequeathed from the constitution. To monetize the vast educational, informational, and vocational outlets of the internet will stagnate and represses what makes this nation great: freedom.

768. Caleb Patrick Drays, Janesville, WI, 53546

Please don't revoke net neutrality, poor people like us won't be able to properly survive without it. Not to mention it would put us behind Europe, and who wants that? Do you people really want to be known as the people who crippled America? Not even Africa would think about doing something as stupid as this! You're going to be putting us BEHIND AFRICA. I mean really, think about this. Please, let the internet be as free as America should be. Doing this is like shooting yourself in the foot, leg, and chest with a shotgun, desert eagle, and AK-47 all at the same time.

769. Ashton, Dousman, WI, 53118

Personally, I think it's kinda fucked up how you think you can control everyone. Seriously. This 'country' is turning into more of a dictatorship than anything else. "Freedom to the people" Bullshit. Here we have a nice commodity for us, and of course, the government wants to ruin it all. How classic. Good job America! Drive yourself into a brick wall. Keep it how it is, in my opinion, I think it's damn near perfect.

770. Kevin Doelling, Madison, WI, 53179

The Internet needs to be open and free for all, regardless of ISPs. It provides an open channel of communication that has become as integral to our lives as breathing. We carry the net in the palm of our hands. Having lines to certain websites removed, or certain content buffered and choked out stifles the free flow of ideas and information that has made work, school, and leisure a thing of beauty. I'm incredibly anti-social in real life. While I have a fun time making friends and going out to places that cater to my interests, such places, like my local gaming stores, rely on Internet advertising and word of mouth sites such as forums and Reddit. Youtube and Pandora, even Google are all at risk. As high demand sites, ISPs could charge premiums for these major websites and restrict access to services, potentially even driving them out of the United States to other countries. While free enterprise is important, the fact is that the Internet has become a part of daily life. Small American start-ups, like AreaTrend, where I worked for two years, rely on equal access to the Internet to receive their revenue. ISPs could charge these start up companies huge fines to allow customers access to purchase these items. Sites like Facebook and services like Skype and Telegram allow millions to contact each other for no cost and allow them to openly express ideas and thoughts. This bill would allow ISPs to restrict any information they want. This could even be used to restrict political ideas and religious ideas, ISPs being run by certain ideologies of people could simply deny access to ideas of a dissenting political party, or a different religion. ISPs could prefer certain products, items, or websites, allowing only access to them and simply destroying smaller start-up companies to earn a quick dollar. I, as an American voter, wants Net Neutrality to remain in place. I want to be able to see what I want. I already pay for access to the Internet, I shouldn't be told that the company that I pay good money what I can and cannot do with my Internet. If a phone company tried to do this, tried to restrict who could call who, there would be even more of an uproar. As a person who uses the Internet every day, I should have an equal say as a Congressman about this bill. If net neutrality is going to go away, it should be a vote given to the people who use it every day, and who pay good money to access that Internet. Thank you for your time reading this and for evaluating these comments. It's public forums like this that make me proud to be an American. Please don't take away those public forums from the Internet by allowing ISPs to restrict content based on their personal preferences. Thank you, Kevin

771. Christopher Noto, Racine, WI, 53405

I urge the FCC to protect net neutrality and keep the internet open and free for everyone. A free and open internet is necessary for democracy.

772. Trevor Foren, New Berlin, WI, 53151

773. Chris Peterson, Burlington, WI, 53105

A free and open Internet benefits us all. The fact that you would do this to the detriment of so many speaks volumes about your character, Mr. Pai. I realize that you'll sleep well on your pile of money from corporate interests. May your reign as Chairman be short and the Internet remain free.

774. william schmitt, delafield, WI, 53018

Title II is good and so is net neutrality but you'll probably ignore this advice anyway because you lust for a cushy job as a lobbyist for Ma Bell 2.0 after you slash and burn any good things

775. Ivish Malik, Franklin, WI, 53132

I vote to defend net neutrality.

776. Kassandra Piotrowski, East Troy, WI, 53120

I, Kassandra Piotrowski, grew up with net neutrality. I started exploring the open internet in my teen years, and the wide variety of information that was readily available with such a simple service astounded me. I utilized websites to find information for school reports. I browsed for information that helped me learn computer programming. Even got around the restrictions my mother put on my internet access with a little help from YouTube while I was at school. I discovered a lot on the open web, being free to wander and explore without worry or restriction. I made new friends around the world, found old friends, had a few long distance relationships, made memories and found happiness when I was depressed. The open internet is a wonderful thing and I sincerely hope that future generations can experience it and the same wonder I felt. When I think of internet service, I imagine a doorway. Whenever I connect to the internet, I am opening that door to a whole world of possible places. I can go anywhere, do anything (within legality of course) and maybe even make something unique that anyone on the internet may see and appreciate. Speed is nice, but it's not the main reason people pay for internet services. People pay to be connected to the web for the websites, the content, and the freedom that is the open internet. After all, what good is any amount of speed if you can't access anything you actually want? It is my firm belief that giving internet service providers the power to block or control access to certain websites would be violating Article 19 of the 1948 Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which states: "Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers." Allowing ISPs to block or even limit access to certain websites would potentially hinder the ability of people to "seek, receive, and impart information and ideas" through the media known as the internet. However, not only would it violate an international declaration, but most importantly it would violate the lives of future generations who would have to live with such paid prioritization of websites, limitation and inaccessible sites. Imagine school children finding all the same information on the same topic and writing essentially the same report, and when they read it in class no one learns anything new. Consider how it may ruin small businesses as the websites for all the more expansive companies are given precedence or even exclusivity to certain ISP customers in this world where shopping online has become commonplace. Then, as said small businesses go bankrupt, can you imagine the effect on unemployment rates? Now, think back to me in my teenage years, and all my experiences on the open internet. Imagine people across the nation being unable to experience the wonders I have, to have free access to information from a wide variety of sources, unlimited and unbounded, as I have, and most of all, to experience to be part of the internet. You may argue that we could change ISPs, but what's to stop all ISPs (which are all business-minded underneath their facades) from taking advantage of the opportunity to make money that the repeal would provide? Therefore, as an American citizen, I strongly oppose the repeal of the 2015 network neutrality rules.

777. KeepNetNeutrality, Sharon, WI, 53585
yall a bunch of brain dead idiots for even trying this
778. Quinn Kroner, Waterford, WI, 53185
Internet shouldn't become a marketing tool.
779. Andre Terrell Lawrence, East Troy, WI, 53120
The internet has been one of the most defining advancements of my generation. It needs to be free to progress as it has been and not restricted.
780. Alec Wilkinson, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Preserve Net Neutrality ISP regulation via Title II Classification of ISP's. Please and thank you :)
781. Douglas Blume, Burlington, WI, 53105
Please don't give corporations the ability to limit our freedoms.
782. Jason Norton, Kenosha, WI, 53142
The internet is the ultimate freedom of expression. This is a right guaranteed in the American Bill Of Rights and to take this away or to allow large conglomerates to control this with a "I will out pay the next guy" mentality takes away our freedom of speech. It is no longer a freedom but a "to the highest bidder" controlled access zone. The internet is a Gov't controlled portal to the world wide web, and as such it should remain protected under the same laws and rights that govern based on our Constitution. Please keep our Net Neutrality!

783. David Steidtman, Kenosha, WI, 53144
People deserve a level playing field and a fair Internet. Please vigorously protect net neutrality.
784. Christian Dawson, Burlington, WI, 53105
I want my access to the Internet to remain free of tampering from those that grant access.
785. Aaron H. White, Kenosha, WI, 53142
We must maintain Net Neutrality, or else the corporations shall dictate who goes where and how much they pay to be accessed or have access to services or content.
786. William Clasen, Janesville, WI, 53546
Please do not reverse the 2015 FCC regulations protecting net neutrality. I support strong net neutrality protections.
787. Vincent, East Troy, WI, 53120
This attack on net neutrality is a greedy capitalistic change to an already working system. This is supposed to be an age of unrestricted scientific advancement and instead we are being faced with greedy corporations taking money from those who don't necessarily have additional money to pay for quality internet.
788. James Viney, Janesville, WI, 53546
Keep the internet free to protect innovation
789. Timothy Cibich, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
The internet is no longer a luxury to any citizen in the United States; it is a requirement. Every year more services become digital for the sake of ease and time for companies and consumer alike. Repealing net neutrality is tantamount to extortion. The (repeated) attempts to repeal net neutrality are nothing but shortsighted cash grabs for ISPs that will detriment every US citizen. It benefits no one except ISPs themselves. Repealing net neutrality will only allow increase ISP market monopolization and cooperation.
790. Paul Ruffedt, Janesville, WI, 53546
Maintaining net neutrality is key to maintaining what makes the internet great. Repealing it is a great step backwards and will undoubtedly generate many angry voters. Please stop the spread of corporate greed at the expense of citizens' freedoms.

791. Trevor Schroeter, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
We need to keep net neutrality alive!
792. Eric Ellsworth, hales corners, WI, 53130
the internet should be like a good public library. Free open to the public, and no censorship whatsoever. Please let it continue to be neutral and open to everyone.
793. Jim Wrobel, Kenosha, WI, 53144
The idea that some or some company could pay to speed up their internet service at the expense of mine is repugnant.
794. SaveNetNeutrality, Caledonia, WI, 53402
Net neutrality in my mind defines the internet and is one of the many freedoms given to an american citizen while living in this country. If that is removed then what would come next? We need to stand firm on net neutrality and stop this idea that corporations can essentially take control of our free internet.
795. Justin Sherman, Kenosha, WI, 53140
I am a handyman so I do a lot of searching for just about anything and everything you can think of. My searches are already much longer than they used to be because of paid ads that take up the first page or two of Google. If this new type of internet becomes a reality I fear I could suffer greatly as a businessman, causing me to lose my house, wife, and child. If I don't want my son to see things on the internet I can put parental controls in place and spend time with him and teach him to use it wisely. Thank you for taking the time to hear my concern.
796. Jonathan J Bradley, Racine, WI, 53403
The US is built on freedom, we need to keep it that way. Leave the internet the way it is.
797. Lee ayers, Racine, WI, 53403
Net neutrality is an absolute must! Education on this topic would show any logical person it's the only way. You have to question the motives of anyone who feels differently.
798. Joyce Riphagen, Kenosha, WI, 53144
I would like to convey to you the extreme importance of Net Neutrality in both my life and the lives of other students. I am currently in school, and I use the web in almost all of my academic endeavors. I use it to look up information, cite my sources, learn languages, get help when I do not understand a topic, write papers, create presentations, gather new ideas, interact with family that resides overseas, contact my teachers, check my spelling and grammar, download and order books, stay informed about current events and issues, and other activities that enable me to be the best student that I can be. Those activities are central to my education and are protected, currently, by Net Neutrality. If you care at all about students and the quality of their education, protect Net Neutrality. If you have a child in school who you want to succeed, protect Net Neutrality. If you care about keeping our country free and equal, protect Net Neutrality. Thank you.

799. Tiffany Baker, Racine, WI, 53404

I want to preserve net neutrality protections under current title 2 regulations.

800. Angela Jones, Kenosha, WI, 53143

I enjoy my freedom! I enjoy internet freedom! I enjoy my freedom to learn and to express my thoughts! Please don't take that from us!

801. Jason Hart, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Net Neutrality is essential to freedom. As a father of 2 small children; a 4 year-old son and a one and half year old daughter, I see how the internet has become a part of their learning and growing. I cannot imagine an internet where Corporations dictate what they learn.

802. pablo pineda, Clinton, WI, 53525

Net neutrality is very important to me and my friends, and family. Please don't take it away and allow big companies influence the choices I make in my internet usage by slowing the internet. Thank you

803. Michael Gong, franklin, WI, 53132

Please save net neutrality. This is a freedom of the American people that should be protected.

804. Hamptony Guridy, Kenosha, WI, 53144

The Internet is the burgeoning central nervous system of the world! It should nourished and developed, so that from it we can give birth to a collective, constructive, creative human consciousness. Via granting equal access to all that is offered; new ways off seeing and understanding the world and each other emerge! New problems may be created but so many others may also be solved! Net neutrality has the potential to transcend many of our current limitations. We understand that the infrastructure on which it exists; cost money to maintain, to innovate, to expand it, etc... and in the end it's in order to serve us! The end consumer... But the beauty of this particular problem is that it could be solved directly through a net neutral internet! In such a place, where opinions, alternatives, new creative mutually beneficial solutions can precipitate from! In the end, I feel it's best to use our energies for love rather than to use it to fight against evil. Adios y buen viaje!

805. LAWRENCE CULLEN, Racine, WI, 53402

I am pro Net Neutrality. Do not want any changes to be made to the current law.

806. Michelle Tomlinson, Racine, WI, 53405

Please keep the net neutral! Small businesses won't be able to compete if you don't. Also, your site is very confusing. Hopefully I'm leaving my comments in the right place.

807. Richard Wax, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

Do not remove net neutrality. It does not help your citizens but rather large companies.

808. Sabastion Halverson, Racine, WI, 53405

Do what's best for the people, not the capital.

809. Net Neutrality, Muskego, WI, 53150

The Internet needs to be free. I support Net Neutrality.

810. Jonathan Phung, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

The FCC's Open Internet Rules (net neutrality rules) are extremely important to me. I urge you to protect them. I don't want ISPs to have the power to block websites, slow them down, give some sites an advantage over others, or split the Internet into "fast lanes" for companies that pay and "slow lanes" for the rest. Censorship by ISPs is a serious problem. Comcast has throttled Netflix, AT&T blocked FaceTime, Time Warner Cable throttled the popular game League of Legends, and Verizon admitted it will introduce fast lanes for sites that pay and slow lanes for everyone else-if the FCC lifts the rules. This hurts consumers and businesses large and small. I value having a free and open access to all of my services, and I fear that with monopolies rampant now, I can only imagine how much worse it will be for me, as well as anyone who uses internet. The idea, when applied to services such as electricity, sounds absurd, and it should be no different for the internet. The Open Internet Rules are extremely important to me, and, if changed, will change the internet forever, and not in a good way. Courts have made clear that if the FCC ends Title II classification, the FCC must let ISPs offer "fast lanes" to websites for a fee, and Chairman Pai himself has made clear that he intends to do exactly this. Moreover, under Chairman Pai's plan, ISPs will be able to make it more difficult to access political speech that they don't like. I fear that Chairman Pai, a former Verizon lawyer, has made his plans and will ignore me and millions of other Americans. I hope that my comment will help ensure the protection of a free and open internet, something key to the millions and millions of Americans that use the internet every day, and will help dissuade something like this from happening again. We, the people, have been incredibly outspoken about past laws such as SOPA and PIPA, and don't want anything like it, let alone something worse, to happen again. Thank you for taking your time to read this comment. I hope that this, among the myriad of other comments, will show the FCC our true support for these rules.

Do not turn the internet into yet another venue for the rich companies to make money while the average person suffers. By allowing the internet to be controlled this way, you would be limiting our American right to freedom of speech. We already pay for access to the internet, therefore, we should not have to pay extra just to use the websites on the internet. Would you like it if you paid for your vehicle but had to pay extra just to get a motor and gas tank? Our access to the world wide web is no different. We already pay a fee to our respective internet service providers, therefore, nobody should have to pay extra to use free websites just so some rich person can make more money. Imagine if this was done to other things in life that would affect any of you who have large amounts of disposable income. Not saying free access to the internet is power, but think about if the power of your position was limited by the amount of money you pay each month. Want to pass a bill that does this or that? Then buy the "Premium Bill Passing package". Want to revoke something a former president passed? Get our ever popular "Presidential Nullification Package". That would be ludicrous. I know it and you know it. The internet is just another free zone that people want to selfishly capitalize on in order to make another dollar. Taking away net neutrality is unfair and unjust for all. Remember the values America was founded on. Freedom right? We were unfairly taxed by England all those years ago. Charging extra to use the internet after already paying to connect is no different than the taxes our ancestors dealt with. I humbly ask you to be my voice, our voice, during the proceeding and protect net neutrality for American citizens. We might not have everything blocked like North Korea, but allowing our access to be restricted unless we pay is just one small step away from being just like them.
815. Simon Mork, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I feel that net neutrality is a hallmark of a free society and that the Internet has become as important as a utility as water and electricity. People cannot efficiently be functional members of society without good and fair internet. Would you dictate water quality to a home, or shunt electricity away from a home because someone else paid more? Then why should website quality be affected? Keeping net neutrality in place is as important as running public utilities.
816. Austin Grissom, Kenosha, WI, 53140
The internet's scary, I wouldn't get it mad

817. Brittney Ellis, Kenosha, WI, 53143

To whom it may concern, I specifically support strong net neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. With that integral part of my message said I'm disappointed in the individuals (such as Ajit Pai) and the conglomerate companies (such as Verizon, Com Cast, AT&T) that are attempting to destroy net neutrality, while playing stupid about why everyone is upset about it. It's because it is about the very heart of the matter: neutrality. Neutrality is what prevents ISPs to not over its consumers by limiting or manipulating the choices that we, the people, make online. Net neutrality ensures we all have a level playing field for everyone—big and small, rich or poor, of every creed and religion and race and sex and gender. I'm disappointed in the individuals and the conglomerate companies, and with you, the FCC, for even entertaining the idea of killing net neutrality. If net neutrality is eliminated, ISPs can end up slowing down or even blocking websites completely, which would stifle innovation, kill creativity, and destroy free expression that the internet allows us to have. Sure, we have a lot of grief, but we have a lot of other things that make up for that; things that would eventually end up on the "banned forever" list of net neutrality is killed off. But the heart of the matter is, the Internet is not cable TV, so stop trying to make it so! I know that my family doesn't want to end up paying exorbitant prices for shoddy services, or to pay even more than those exceedingly high starter rates for faster services. It is, frankly, utter and complete bullshit. So in short—Stop trying to take away my creativity, my livelihood, my heart and soul that connects me to everyone else. Stop pretending you don't know why so many people are upset about this matter. Stop pretending you're for the people, when really, you're for big corporations fucking over the little guy, the small business owners, the independent artists, the veterans of this nation (such as myself), the poor, the POC, and everyone else who escapes your notice on a daily basis except for when we band together. Stay the fuck away from my net neutrality. Go FCC yourself, Ajit Pai. Without love, Sergeant Ellis

818. Rebecca K Skrobis, Muskego, WI, 53150

We need to keep the internet available to everyone. We deserve net neutrality and to not be told what we can and cannot access. The internet is so important to getting peoples voices heard and without it the world will lack knowledge and the opportunity to evolve.

819. Lance, Salem, WI, 53168

As a consumer and individual, the internet has reached a point where it is a necessity in daily life. In order to be able to do my work, communicate with family, and enjoy several internet related hobbies, I pay for my internet service through Time Warner. Since the merger between Time Warner and Charter, I now only have 1 other option for internet in my area via AT&T Uverse. While I haven't had any issues with my internet service, the amount of power they already have over me through the internet service is staggering. If I switched my service, I would incur a financial penalty, have to take time off of work for the new internet to be installed, and not necessarily be able to get the same internet package I currently get. I don't wish for any company to be able to put me in a situation where I have to pay extra for things that I already am paying for. In this case, it is the internet. Being able to pick and choose which websites and services to devote bandwidth to can corrupt absolutely and would present the temptation to incentivize customers to be steered towards ISPs' version of websites/emails/streaming options. The internet is the single greatest tool for our generation and possibly the future. As an American, please do not make changes to net neutrality, but rather keep it. Sincerely, Lance Mielke

820. Michael Weier, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

I think the internet should be a completely open space. No ISP or any power should be allowed to prioritize traffic to certain websites, throttle certain websites, or block certain websites. Even if companies say they won't, they are still fighting for the right to have the option to do these things. I like to relate it to this: "If you make murder legal, I promise I won't murder anyone." Doesn't make any sense. I don't want my internet tampered with, and neither does anyone else. Keep the internet free and open.

821. Zach S, mt pleasant, WI, 53406

Please don't let them do this to us.

822. Tom Mitchell, Hales Corners, WI, 53130

I am a disabled veteran who can barely afford Internet Services because ISP services pricing is already high for basic Internet. I pay $80 a month now with Spectrum. If net neutrality is taken away, then millions of people like me will not be able to afford the Internet services period. If the FCC allows net neutrality to go away then the majority of the citizens of our great country will see their access to freedom of speech, press and religion be disseminated by big business.

823. Paul Schulz, Trevor, WI, 53179

I sincerely hope that this "act" is not allowed to pass. It is absurd that it is even being considered, especially considering its naming is a blatant lie.

824. Jessica Gleason, Franklin, WI, 53132

I am both an internet user and a technology professional. A free and open internet under Title II is vital to the industry I work in. It ensures that innovation is rewarded and that the US remains the best place in the world for internet-based businesses to do their work. I urge the FCC to keep net neutrality in place.

825. Samuel Marshall, Muskego, WI, 53150

Dear sirs and madams, please don't let more throttling of our freedoms occur. The American people are already becoming more angry at the government and choke holding most people's main entertainment will only increase this. Samuel Marshall

826. Joseph Baratta, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

The internet has to stay free

827. Theresa Wood, Janesville, WI, 53545
Net Neutrality IS one of the things that makes America GREAT NOW.
Innovation in technology, programming, the arts, communications, YOU NAME IT, it's there and we the People of this great United States of America MUST have EQUAL access. Either you are for US or against US. Net Neutrality is for US.
828. Justin Kueker, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Why is this still a thing? Stop trying to make things worse for the consumer and keep the internet free and open.
829. Roger Janusiak, Franksville, WI, 53126
I am the founder of an online start up for teachers . The website can be used by them to make their class room much more interactive. Without Net Neutrality I would be unable to create and grow my website because there would be a possibility my website would be caught in a slow lane. Without Net Neutrality I just might have to give up on my dream of having a website to help teachers in their classroom.
830. Dakota Gapko, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Do not sell the internet. It is a PLATFORM for business, not a service or a good.
831. sean ha., reva hall, pleasant prairie, WI, 53158 electricity, internet what's the difference? Can't cut my power for some corporate interest like in Honduras. I've been there. Try that system of government works. I DARE YOU!
832. Michael Demuysere, racine, WI, 53404
I mean really?
833. Patrick Auld, Franklin, WI, 53132
Please do not restrict the internet or allow isps to restrict service based on web content.
834. Nevin Schauer, Racine, WI, 53406
Today, July 12th, is the day we celebrate Net Neutrality. It is critical that we keep the internet an independent tool, as small, developing companies use the internet to find newer, better ways to expand and gain notoriety. If big businesses were to purchase ISPs, then we are taking the greatest tool that they have available to them and letting big corporations control what we see on the internet, and charge us for the things that are blocked. The internet would no longer be independent, it would be commercialized. Thanks!
835. Warren Metzger, Mukwonago, WI, 53149

I am the president of a community band in my hometown. This is a non-profit 501(3)(c) organization. All of our correspondence to the band and the community is delivered via email and social media. Many times we send recordings of the selections we will play to the band members so they can practice at their leisure. We also maintain a website that contains photos and videos of our concerts. I use these photos and videos to show prospective venues what our concerts are like. There is no other way for these prospects to understand our style. Some of the concerts are scripted and with appropriate music to match a particular historical perspective. We are experts for recreating what it was like to attend a small town community band concert in the 40s. Each piece has a meaning historically. Our communications with the band members and prospective venues will not occur unless you can guarantee that the internet remains neutral. Otherwise you can face bandwidth restrictions and slowdowns that would prevent the communications and media from being delivered to the intended recipient. Please DO NOT change the current regulations.

836. Rachel, Kenosha, WI, 53142

We need net neutrality. please stop trying to sellout this country. to destroy net neutrality would be a gross misuse of power in the favor of corporations, at the expense of the american people, and a sickening violation of trust

837. I, racine, WI, 53403

Strong net neutrality is very important.

838. Hunter Huggins, Burlington, WI, 53105

I feel if the FCC were to end Net Neutrality, not only will much of our privacy be violated, but much of what others have worked for will simply cease to exist. There is a reason why many smaller companies, programs, and internet personalities are fighting for Net Neutrality, and that is because the government is no longer sticking up for the little guy. It's sad for me, along with many others to watch this unfold before our eyes as we have been raised to believe the USA is the only place one can act freely without other infringing on our rights. Saying that, the internet is seen in the same light, and we don't appreciate watching our lives and rights vanishing before our eyes.

839. John Weir, Racine, WI, 53402

If you turn over the internet to the interests of monopoly telecom corporations you are at a minimum betraying the future of your country and possibly the well-being of your species.

840. Alex Kastner, Franklin, WI, 53132

In order to not stifle technological progression and repress civilians from their right to do as they wish online we need to keep the internet open and free for everyone!

841. Taylor Barthule, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Taking away internet neutrality hurts all except the top of the food chain companies who are slowly working to monopolize the free market. Its absolutely wrong. As a young student who relies on the internet for a multitude of things, taking away internet freedom would have a devastating effect on me and millions of others my age who utilize such technology and could not afford the rising costs that would come along with such censorship.
842. Ben Silbaugh, waukesha, WI, 53188
I'm worried that the protections provided will be weakened. Our freedom here is at risk, I fully support any change that provides the same or more freedom and protections, but not any less. I support net neutrality.
843. Robert-Alexandru Deleanu, Kenosha, WI, 53142
The Open Internet Rules from the FCC are important to me because they support net neutrality. Net neutrality to me means that the Internet speeds I use should not be restricted by ISP's, and they should not be given the ability to charge extra for faster or privileged bandwidths. There is already a shortage of available ISP companies due to high start-up costs for broadband, so the Title II classification should not be removed because my current provider will most likely charge me more for the same or worse service. If I do not agree with the new prices, then I will not have any other company to switch to. I wish to connect to any website without any restrictions because net neutrality is important for the sake of preventing ISPs from interfering with Internet traffic. I do not agree with Chairman Pai's plans for Title II and I wish to dissuade their decision from happening. Keep Title II and net neutrality intact.
844. Nabeel Ahmad, Franklin, WI, 53132
Hello,If you dissolve the Fed, you can get rid of net neutrality. Deal?Yours Truly,A Concerned CitizenNabeel Ahmad
845. David L Immel, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
keep net neutrality the law. Do not give the corporations the right to control the net, it is for the public to use and should be open and fair to all.
846. Ryan Crutchfield, Clinton, WI, 53525
If the net neutrality rules change, we risk paid prioritization of select online services and businesses, which can allow favored groups to dominate with a greater and more accessible internet presence while leaving smaller and less favored sites to suffer.
847. Kara Lelinski, Waukesha, WI, 53189
I live in the USA where freedom is our main core value. If internet is no longer neutral we take a massive step to being an authoritarian country, where internet access to information is controlled. By government or for profit, it doesn't matter.

It's still restricting our unalienable rights from the declaration of Independence.
Life, liberty & pursuit of happiness.

848. William Brooks, Racine, WI, 53403

Net neutrality is basic freedom. Freedom of speech, freedom of expression and freedom of choice. It's the American way. Not giving over to corporate interests but instead focusing on the People of America's interest is the right thing to do. As registered voters, we will remember public servants who take that freedom away from us.

849. Steven Allen, Kenosha, WI, 53140

Net Neutrality is vital for preventing favoritism from providers, something needs to be in place to protect its users from underhanded tactics like throttling speeds from specific sites.

850. Jacob Lumley, Kenosha, WI, 53143

When I pay for internet access, I am paying for access to the entire internet. Not some filtered version that "Spectrum" or "AT&T" may want me to see. Considering they are essentially my only two options in this area, I'd like for them to be unable to limit my access, since they're already limiting my speeds overall. The internet is meant to be a free place. Politics is already money-driven enough. Don't bring the greedy way of running things to the internet. The ISP's will not have the customer's best interest in mind if net neutrality rules are removed or changed. Please, for the sake of the freedom of this country online, if nothing else, do not change or get rid of net neutrality laws.

851. Josie Quin, Racine, WI, 53405

Without net neutrality, my ability to run an online shop would be significantly impeded, to the point where I would have to shut my digital doors. The Internet is possibly our greatest invention because of the freedom it allows us to change our very realities. Information wants to be free.

852. Isaac Bruley, Genoa City, WI, 53128

Please. Just please. BROADBAND IS A UTILITY. Please protect consumers and small businesses from Monopolies, Duopolies, and Oligopolies harmful societal and ECONOMIC restrictions/choke holds by protecting Net Neutrality.
Please.Isaac Bruley

853. George Knowles, Janesville, WI, 53546

Freedom of Speech; Freedom to Assemble; Freedom of the Press ... All are contingent upon Net Neutrality.Any 'person' who seeks to diminish Net Neutrality explicitly seeks to diminish Democracy.

854. Steven DeNeal, Janesville, WI, 53545

The internet has operated on the policy of freedom and equal time for all for a long time. Ending Net Neutrality would give far too much power into the hands of people who do not have any but their own interests at heart. Steven DeNeal

855. Chris Wood, Janesville, WI, 53546
I oppose the attempt by the FCC to remove net neutrality and give large telecom companies control over my access to the internet. Ajit Pai is not acting in the best interests of the American consumer, but rather is a shill for a handful of corporations. Do NOT repeal the protections set up in 2010!
856. Shawn Mendez, Muskego, WI, 53150
We need the internet to stay free.
857. Jack Wood, Racine, WI, 53402
Net neutrality is essential. I can understand the misguided thinking for the restrictions, but the assumptions are false and profit driven.
858. Paul Hyde Jr, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I count on the FCC to represent "ME" - the average internet consumer not ISP's !Net Neutrality is important to me. DO NOT allow ISP's to limit bandwidth or otherwise restrict the internet for content "they" choose. Internet should be open to allow "everyone" to use it "equally". Do you want "your" point of view restricted ?Thank you. Paul
859. Ethan Tichelaar, Kenosha, WI, 53143
I use the internet everyday of my life and if Title 2 of the communications act of 1934 were to be repealed then my life would fall apart.
860. Joshua Francke, Racine, WI, 53405
Stay away from the web, its free, let it be! You people have no right to come and try to make it something else. It is perfect just the way it is.
861. Martin Neubauer, Delavan, WI, 53115
net neutrality is a key component of equal access to the internet, removing that requirement will be detrimental to many small businesses and websites that wouldn't be able to afford a paid fast-lane as well as search engine results.
862. Chad Buchta, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Internet is a resource and a utility. You know this. We the consumers know this. This bill will only help to line the pockets of cable company CEOs and screw over everyone else. You know this is wrong. Please don't fuck us. Chad Buchta
863. net neutrality, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
The net needs to be free. Stop allowing ISPs to control what I watch or do on the internet.
864. Chelsea M, Salem, WI, 53168
To whom it may concern, This message is about Net Neutrality: We've all had free range over the web for years. Why end that now? What's the point? How will it help to bog everyone down with ridiculous fees and loading times? We need to be focusing on the bigger picture in general for the world, and not get bullied by companies into giving up our freedoms. We have a right to access any and all information on the web, and it needs to stay that way. Taking information, valuable or "not", from the public, and making them pay outlandish fees to get it is just an outrage. Libraries, where we get loads of information and knowledge, are free. People can do to a library and learn, for free, how to do something new, learn about different cultures and places, and hide away in fantasy lands through fiction. We pay a small fee to get a library card, and then the information inside those walls is free for us to browse and explore. No one polices or tells us what part of the library we should only go to, there are no chains or locks on the books. The information is just for us, for anyone who wants it, and no one can tell us what we "should" or "should not" be reading or looking at. But, there isn't a whole lot of fast updating that can be done in libraries, not as instantaneous as the web. The net should continue to follow the lead of the library. To remain free to learn, or explore, or hide away in fantasyland, we don't even have to leave our homes for all of this knowledge. It's right in our capable palms. So, let's not take away net neutrality, folks. You'd just be wasting time. Stripping away small freedoms like this can have a huge impact on the general lives of Americans. What are we telling our people if we charge for certain sites or don't allow our citizens to explore limitlessly? We are saying that we don't trust them with their own minds, which is just silly, who knows our mind better than ourselves? No one should be putting blinders on us and then charging to take them off. We are in the land of the free. Let's keep it all that way. Thanks for your time. Chelsea M

865. Jacob Selensky, Franklin, WI, 53132

Internet service providers do not have the right to limit our access to the internet. By limiting our access to the internet, they are limiting our access to the freedoms of speech and press, which are very basic freedoms that the United States Government should constantly be reinforcing and protecting. In 2015, the FCC ruled in favor of net neutrality on the grounds that getting rid of it would be a violation of Title II of the Communications Act of 1934 and the Telecommunications act of 1996. These are constants in our law system, and so the same rules should apply no matter what year the ISPs try to take away these basic freedoms. The result of the decision taking place in a few days should be the same as the decision from 2 years ago, as any other decision would be hypocritical and self-conflicting.

866. Kaleb Thompson, Racine, WI, 53403

You must refrain from doing such a terrible thing. It's every 4 years with you people.

867. Dawn White, Racine, WI, 53405

Please keep net neutrality in place. As someone has said, it shouldn't matter if you're using your electricity to power a TV or a light bulb; the price should be the same. We shouldn't be charged more for using the internet to access one site than we would to access another. It's common sense. Getting rid of net neutrality will only open another avenue for corporate greed and limit smaller companies from having the same pricing and options. Just don't do it.

868. Maximina Webster, Kansasville, WI, 53139

The internet is the life blood of most first world countries right now, and restricting access to it would only make sharing information almost instantly across the globe a horribly convoluted process.

869. Wireline Competition Bureau, lake geneva, WI, 53147

When it comes to large corporations the consumer needs advocates. When I pay for a service I want the totality of the service without censorship of information or restriction of resources. I don't think fairness, equality, and an open system is unreasonable..

870. Adrian robinson, RAcine, WI, 53406

The idea that someone should have control over the internet is quite disturbing. The whole point of the internet is quick easy access to the world's information. If isp's are given all the power to push sites and block others someone will make a backdoor and everyone will use it that just simply how it will go.

871. Justin Primmer, Kenosha, WI, 53140

Net neutrality is essential. The Internet has become a vital part of human life and should be accessible to everyone equally. It would be condemned if we tried to charge different rates for different sections of the library and it's the same here. The Internet may not be a natural resource but it is a required one to get ahead in today's world.

872. John Jacobson, Mukwonago, WI, 53149

As an internet user, have a free and open internet is important. Free and open means that, because of their uncompetitive and anti-consumer practices, Internet Service Providers need harsher regulation and oversight into their practices. I want to be charged for the internet i use, not what i use the internet for

873. Ory Savchuk, Janesville, WI, 53545

In a free market economy, the definition of a capitalism, net neutrality should not be considered a privilege, but a right. In all matters considering the flow of information, and distribution or marketing of goods and services, preserving FREEDOM and EQUALITY should be the principal objective of the FCC. Quite simply, net neutrality is a simple and effective way to ensure free and equal distribution of information, goods, and services across the digital medium.

874. Cooper Scarmardo, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Keep the Government out of our internet. Save us money we don't need to spend in both our government spending and ISP spending.

875. Tony, Waterford, WI, 53185
NET NEUTRALITY!!Tony
876. Miguel Borrero, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
To take away our rights to use the internet unhindered is unconstitutional. Taking away our rights because service providers want to make more money and to censor what we can see on the internet. Net Neutrality must be maintained.
877. Jack Shales, Salem, WI, 53168
This would be a big step backwards.
878. Jacob Smith, Burlington, WI, 53105
Net neutrality is very important. It allows Americans to access any site they want for free and in a timely manner. Without this, large companies will control what sites Americans can access, taking away some freedom from the people!Jacob Smith
879. Andrew C Anderson, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Do not get rid of Net Neutrality. Do not change things.
880. Mary Stenzel, Delavan, WI, 53115
Please support net neutrality and protect our freedom!
881. Justin Penkalski, Franklin, WI, 53132
First and foremost: I support Net Neutrality. Don't let a former ISP businessman control our future lives. Congress needs to fight for what the people support--and the people support Net Neutrality. Think of your own lives if Net Neutrality gets repealed. It doesn't just affect those who advocate for it, everyone is affected and that includes government representatives. The internet is the future of connectivity and innovation--don't let it be controlled.I don't want ISPs to have the power to block websites, slow them down, give some sites an advantage over others, or split the Internet into "fast lanes" for companies that pay and "slow lanes" for the rest.Now is not the time to let giant ISPs censor what we see and do online.Censorship by ISPs is a serious problem. Comcast has throttled Netflix, AT&T blocked FaceTime, Time Warner Cable throttled the popular game League of Legends, and Verizon admitted it will introduce fast lanes for sites that pay-and slow lanes for everyone else-if the FCC lifts the rules. This hurts consumers and businesses large and small.Courts have made clear that if the FCC ends Title II classification, the FCC must let ISPs offer "fast lanes" to websites for a fee.Chairman Pai has made clear that he intends to do exactly this.But if some companies can pay our ISPs to have their content load faster, startups and small businesses that can't pay those fees won't be able to compete. You will kill the open marketplace that has enabled millions of small businesses and created the 5 most valuable companies in America-just to further enrich a few much less valuable cable giants famous for sky-high prices and abysmal customer service. Internet providers will be able to impose a private tax on every sector of the American economy. Moreover, under Chairman Pai's plan, ISPs will be able to make it more difficult to access political speech that they don't like. They'll be able to charge fees for website delivery that would make it harder for blogs, nonprofits, artists, and others who can't pay up to have their voices heard. I'm sending this to the FCC's open proceeding, but I worry that Chairman Pai, a former Verizon lawyer, has made his plans and will ignore me and millions of other Americans. So I'm also sending this to my members of Congress. Please publicly support the FCC's existing net neutrality rules based on Title II, and denounce Chairman Pai's plans. Do whatever you can to dissuade him. Thank you for listening. Justin Penkalski

882. Kevin Fellion, Racine, WI, 53403

The internet was and is something that should be 100% open and free to all.

883. Kyle, Janesville, WI, 53545

Dear whoever gets this, My previous letter got cleared so I'm gonna sum it up. Giving corporations power to charge us extra for what we do free now is extremely corrupt. Since when did the internet become a prison? And when did money become more important than consumer satisfaction? If you give them the ability to charge extra for what we do for free now, they will. And problems are imminent. Riots, protests, all that fun stuff. Even with what's going on in the world now? Especially living in a time period where everyone and everything relies on internet. We shouldn't be punished because some big CEO wants more money. Think about what you're getting into. -thanks (if someone read this) Kyle

884. Aidan T., Mukwonago, WI, 53149

When I first heard about the Net Neutrality controversy, it made me think about North Korea and all the freedom they don't have. Please don't let the states become the opposite of what we die for. Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves. - Abraham Lincoln Aidan T.

885. AJ Kenth, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

If you allow Net Neutrality to be repealed you will lose your seat in your next election. The ISP's will gouge the internet sites we love, those sites will pass the bill to us, and everyone will know it was you who allowed this private tax to be levied. You will lose your seat and be replaced by a liberal. Choose your battles wisely. AJ Kenth

886. Donald B. Moore, Kenosha, WI, 53143

Up to now, the free access internet has helped me stay in business and enjoy contact with family and friends. To lose this would mean that I, a semi-invalid, will be forced to rely on snail mail and other less accessible means.

887. IORRIE SAYLOR, KENOSHA, WI, 53144
I am strongly for Net neutrality!!! The cable companies are more prone to fall in line with government desires than to do what's right for the people. Free speech will be limited or blocked. I do not want cable companies involved with the internet!!!
888. Daniel, MUKWONAGO, WI, 53149
Free speech is one of the most important things in the world and without net neutrality companies and governments will be able to censor the people.
889. NVM, Kenosha, WI, 53142
No set of companies should be able to determine what we do online. Freedom for individuals and small businesses should not be limited to use or speeds.
890. Steve Koszalka, OakCreek, WI, 53154
We live in a free country. To control the information we need and or may want is a freedom that should not be regulated. Especially by some of the big company's that now control most of our ability to use the internet.
891. James Van Vonderen, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Net Neutrality is a necessity. If you don't believe that is true there is no reasoning with you.
892. Steven J. Doelder, Genoa City, WI, 53128
Please do not destroy network neutrality. We need to maintain the current system that allows uncontrolled and unlimited access to the internet.
893. James McCormack, Muskego, WI, 53150
We need to keep an open and neutral internet. There is nothing wrong with what we have today. We users don't have much say in what goes with our goes on in Washington outside of the ballot box. But we do have a voice when something we use every day is threaten by this gov agency. Hands off PLEASE!
894. Jane Brozoski, Hales Corners, WI, 53130
Do not hand over the internet to big cable companies as the net needs to stay neutral. We don't need big business taking over our internet.
895. keith king, williams bay , WI, 53191
We need to keep the net neutrality. We do not need any agency or company regulating the net
896. calvin sell, Burlington, WI, 53105
The internet is now the largest source of information, if that is governed by companies whose interests are first to mind. This would mean they control what we see and how we get information and how fast I could do my job researching new technologies.

897. James Tracy, Genoa City, WI, 53128
Our bill for internet, cable, and phone can be outrageous at times. The ending of Net Neutrality will make us unable to afford access and keep us informed.
898. Jonathan Alfonso, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
I believe the internet should not be allowed to be modified by service providers, because if I own a website and run it on my hardware, what right does the service provider have to choose to throttle my service? It's like if it cost more per gallon to run your sink vs your shower --- it's all water, so why would we pay different for different speeds?
899. Joel Anderson, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Net neutrality is essential for the free dissemination of information and democracy. From a conservative viewpoint, imagine a Liberal internet network shutting down bandwidth to conservative sites. That will happen without net neutrality.
900. Dan Gomoll, Muskego, WI, 53150
I am very disturbed that net neutrality is once again under attack. Net neutrality is crucial to maintain a level playing field for both private individuals and companies.
901. Marty Czosnyka, Williams Bay, WI, 53191
Net Neutrality protects the people, what they do, see, and hear while they are online. Any powers given to Commercial companies will hurt that, as history has shown. The Net needs to remain neutral, so ideas can't be throttled or banned because it's better for a company's bottom line. Keep the net neutral, keep the power in the people's hands not in the hands of those looking to make even more money off of people.
902. Jonah Klebba, Janesville, WI, 53545
Net neutrality ensures that no organization, person or entity has any more power over information than others. In a time when more and more, citizens must search for their news and information online, it is of the utmost importance to ensure that no one voice is allowed to carry more weight than others.
903. Johnny Bags, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
Dont let the liberals control the internet like they do the media!
904. Jim Wagner, Waukesha, WI, 53189
Cable companies have pushed to hurt consumers at every turn. Until very recently with some competition from streaming, they were monopolistic in behavior making customers suffer with horrendous customer support and extremely high prices with almost no competition in many markets. They are in a similar situation with control over the lines and airwaves that carry the packets of data which bring us information from the internet. Allowing internet fast lanes pass on costs to things like streaming services so that internet companies, which are also video delivery companies can make their products look more attractive at lower prices while directly increasing the cost of their competitors products in separate business category.

905. Diane Hagen, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Please protect net neutrality so the average American can continue using the internet without issue.
906. Steve, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Do the right thing for the people. Save net neutrality. The telecommunication companies are already too big and powerful.
907. Mike Richmond, Waukesha, WI, 53189
Stop legislating in favor of corporate profits! Net neutrality has been called the "First Amendment of the Internet" for good reason.
908. Ariel, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Keep net neutrality! For sake of human mind, individuality, and spirit!
909. Mari Zimmerman, Dousman, WI, 53118
My vote is to maintain free speech on the internet. I want to be able to access the websites of my choice and I want to have access to both voice my opinions and to read and hear the opinions of others, if I so choose.
910. Michael, Racine, WI, 53402
I'm a graphic and web designer in my mid twenties. I use the internet every single day to do my job. Removing net neutrality would almost certainly result in higher overhead costs for me, hurting my already precarious financial situation. Net neutrality must be preserved at all costs.
911. Jennifer, Kenosha, WI, 53143
Haven't we been striving for equality in every way, shape and form over the last 100 years? And yet again, here we are fighting for our freedom to listen, watch, read or order whatever we want. This is OUR right as Americans! It's bad enough everything else in the world is out of our control, and now you wanna take away the little bit of control we have left from the privacy of our own homes, or personal cell phones? This is America and these are "OUR" rights! Stop trying to take everything away from everyone, and concentrate more on how we can REUNITE this beautiful country!
912. James Wright, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53406
the Internet is the last truly free asset of American culture. let's not scuff it up.
913. zach, pleasant prairie, WI, 53158
please dont let greedy ISP like time warner cable take control of my internet

914. Charlotte Thompson, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Beware big money is taking away our freedom a little at a time so that most will not notice until it is too late. How many countries in the world do not have free speech or are able to search the web freely. Beware we could become one of those countries!!! Stop taking our freedoms and rights in this country that was once a thriving democracy, and a great place to live for all people of every race and background. I fear for my grandchildren, what will be left for them. Stop the big corporate, big money, from controlling everything. I say NO!!
915. Enzo Y, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Since the days of dial up, I have used the internet to search and learn information quickly with many different perspectives. It was within these conflicting perspectives that I learned the difference between what could be considered good and what could be considered evil. Consequently I learned that it was important to see all ideas equally and balance each of them since life is never black and white but rather a mix of ideas. What will happen when a singular entity chooses to show only a certain idea/perspective...? Almost without doubt, this entity will do everything to abuse this power to benefit itself. Without net neutrality, I can almost say for certain that I wouldn't have learned as much as I would have been at mercy at the singular perspective forced onto me.
916. dave, racine, WI, 53405 preserve neutrality, we already have enough tainted (fake) news shoved down our throats.
917. David Kangas, Kenosha, WI, 53140
I served in the military for eighteen years to ensure that we have freedom of speech and an open democracy. Net neutrality is the living result of my, and millions of others, efforts. It must be protected.
918. Lance David , Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Net neutrality MUST be protected because it has become a life necessity. It isn't just a convenience, it is required these days.
919. David Harrison, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Net Neutrality allows my website (northstarjewelry.com) to compete on a level playing field with Amazon.com.
920. Kurt Lois, Burlington, WI, 53105
Please don't take away consumer choice and online freedom of speech.
921. Carole Daly, Delavan, WI, 53115
Net Neutrality is crucial to FREEDOM of SPEECH. Other than personal greed, there is NO reason for corporate takeover!!!!!!!!!!
922. Matthew James, Franklin, WI, 53132

Net neutrality is a must. In no way can this technically free service become any more monetized that it already is.

923. Jack Enders, Waukesha, WI, 53188
The Government cannot change what it does not own
924. Stephen J. Smith, Racine, WI, 53405
I am in favor of net neutrality. I oppose letting the big carriers charge more for favored service to some. Steve Smith Stephen J. Smith
925. Mark E Kidd, Racine, WI, 53402
The name of this filing is disturbingly deceiving. We need to maintain REAL net neutrality at all costs and not get fooled by the creative sneaks that are lining their pockets. The idea that large companies like AT&T and Verizon actually support real net neutrality is outrageous and Ajit Pai should be removed just for saying that he doesn't care about the volume of our comments. Obviously, he has his own agenda and doesn't care about the public, period.
926. Micah Rivers, Racine, WI, 53402
I don't like the way you're treating the internet as some means to make money. The internet isn't a thing; it's me, you, and everyone else. Being a networking guy myself, I strongly disagree on what actions you are taking.
927. Jordan Taylor, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Please keep net neutrality the way it is. This administration is doing everything backwards instead of moving progressively forward. Thank you
928. Andrew Tennyson, Kenosha, WI, 53142
I am concerned about removing internet regulations regarding Title II as it currently exists. ISPs should beholden to Title II regulations and not be able to abuse net neutrality that we currently enjoy. Keep the internet free.
929. Mike Olexa Sr., Kenosha, WI, 53142
We're already Paying for the goddamm internet, why should we have to pay more to have fast speed! It's asinine. Mike Olexa Sr.
930. Nicolette Goodrich, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
For the love of God, could this please stop being an issue. No one, No company or corporate entity should have control over the internet, ever!
931. Paul Heberlein, Milton, WI, 53563
Leave the internet alone. Corporate interests be damned, the interests of the people are far more important. You are servants of the people, not of money.
932. Carol Arinder, Fontana, WI, 53125
Keep the net neutrality this way it would be fair to all people. If you change the rules then anybody can rule against you for no reason.

933. Eliot K Dinger, Racine, WI, 53405

"Restoring Internet Freedom Act"...Seriously? Allowing companies to Monopolize the internet isn't in the interest of freedom. In reality it only benefits large ISP's and threatens to make the internet more expensive and less friendly to both casual users, small businesses, you know, the ones this country desperately needs to thrive. I'm sure I don't need to say that to the people at the FCC, I'm assuming you all are, in fact, not stupid or greedy enough to allow this to happen, but I wanted to express, in some way, that the American people do appreciate net neutrality, and do know what's going on, even with the horrendously deceptive title of this bill. Please do what is in the best interest of the people.

934. Kevin Moore Jr, Burlington, WI, 53105

please stop the greed. this is getting out of control taking away our freedomKevin Moore Jr

935. natasha milosavljevic, Oak Creek, WI, 53154

I am in support of strong internet neutrality backed by title 2 oversight of ISPs.

936. Wesley C Kranitz, Franklin, WI, 53132

As is usual when things are run by republicans, only money interests matter. Why don't you just hang a sign out saying your rulings are for the highest bidder. We already pay for different levels of service from our ISP's and now you want to extend that to the main Internet. That way ISP's and Backbone providers can milk service providers (such as Netflix's) for as much as they want. Of course, that raises what I pay, but I'm sure your Chairman, who worked for Verizon as an Associate General Counsel, wants to help out his previous employer so he can go back to work for them with a large increase in pay. So much for watching out for us citizens and voters. To bad we don't have the money to pay him off, like the billionaires and big business do.

937. Jared, Racine, WI, 53403

Dear FCC,Please do not take on the role of parenting through censorship in this net neutrality case. Parents of America are lazy enough the way things are, w/out you helping them do their duties.Freedom of choice is important in the development and evolution of a culture.Keep America great by allowing us to continue pushing boundaries and making breakthroughs because we are allowed these great freedoms.Non censorship allows the things and people that you want to censor to instead have a light shined upon them, which allows WE the PEOPLE, a chance to assess and deal with a person or situation that could otherwise remain hidden until something very bad happens exposing it. I say letting people be themselves is best for everyone.If the individual needs some guidance or something of that matter, perhaps your agency can deal w/ the INDIVIDUAL in question in some measured way; as opposed to forcing immeasurable discontent by stifling the will of many who don't deserve it. The professionals can cut out the cancer much easier when it's not hidden.

938. Mitchell Pezanoski, Racine, WI, 53405

Dear Chairman Pai, I do not agree with Mozilla's position on Title II, or the governments intrusion into a free and open internet, deceptively referred to as "Net Neutrality". I oppose subjecting the internet to an archaic regulatory structure from the 1930's which would regulate the internet like a public utility, stifling innovation, competition, investment and consumer choice. Thank you for your efforts to repeal the federal government's Title II internet regulations. I support removing these regulations so that the internet is once again free and open. Repealing Title II will increase broadband deployment and competition, and expand consumer choice.

939. Haley Studrawa, Kenosha, WI, 53140

Please protect free speech and individual consumers by protecting net neutrality. Getting rid of net neutrality would ruin the internet as we know it and replace it with a much worse, corporate-controlled environment. Keep the internet a consumer-controlled environment.

940. Jennifer Bartholomew, Greendale, WI, 53129

As a librarian and American citizen, dedicated to the principles of open and fair access for all, I believe net neutrality to be essential. Protect Net Neutrality!

941. Abdul Ismail, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Net neutrality is important to me as it helps create everlasting bonds with friends.

942. Karen Hartwell, Muskego, WI, 53150

We have enough interference in our lives by big bucks advertisers. We need to have an internet that is neutral and unrestricted. Net neutrality MUST be protected.

943. Seth Yarger, Bristol, WI, 53104

Net neutrality allows the people a freedom to express themselves. To remove it would violate the right to free speech.

944. Liz Nass, Mount Pleasant, WI, 53406

Do not let those with money control the internet. The internet was to be a level playing field. Money already controls way too much. The line needs to be drawn. Net neutrality is critical.

945. Christopher Peck, Kenosh, WI, 53142

Non-net neutrality will lead to censorship of what ISP's want and do not want us to see. They don't get to make those choices.

946. William Glaser, Franklin, WI, 53132

The 1st Amendment Rights of Americans is NOT FOR SALE !

947. Elmer Scott, Janesville, WI, 53546
I believe that freedom of speech is a most important freedom and allowing corporations to control the internet is detrimental to maintaining that freedom. Please protect Net Neutrality.
948. Geister, Darien, WI, 53114
there are more important issues facing the Nation.
949. Art, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
There is nothing wrong with the internet in it's current state. Removing Net Neutrality and expecting ISPs to act according to consumer's best interests is an insane notion, that only a corporate toady like Ajit Pai would advocate. Stop trying to break the one single thing in America that isn't broken. Stop trying to repeal Net Neutrality. The government has enough to govern. The internet belongs to the people.
950. Jim Van Vonderen, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
Keep Net Neutrality! Don't let ISP's call the shots. Seriously ,why does this even need to be said?
951. Shaun, Delavan, WI, 53115
We want net neutrality. We want freedom
952. Scott Cassell, Trevor, WI, 53179
Corporations are people. Historically they have only severed their own means and end. Why would we hand over control of any public item, space, forum, or tools to a few private citizens who will use it without due stewardship of the people.
953. Josh Zagorski, Franklin, WI, 53132
Why are we trying to give a nearly already monopoly more power? Please preserve Net Neutrality.
954. Colleen Burns, Kenosha, WI, 53142
I use streaming to watch many things-including the Spectrum app on Roku, and the internet to go to many websites. The cable company charges way too much as it is for the internet they don't need to charge websites and make even more money!
955. Chris Mitchell, kenosha, WI, 53144
I would like to be on record that I believe in net neutrality. The same laws that where put in place in 2010 and 2015 are fine and do not need to be changed. We do not need more government regulations.
956. Sue Costoff, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

These sorry ass excuses for human beings will do anything they can to disrupt our lives and make them harder! They want their thumb on us at all times shame on them !!!

957. Russell Reimann, Mt. Pleasant, WI, 53126

I oppose removal of net neutrality rules given the current closed market of internet access. Without a large number of ISP options, the free market cannot self-regulate the actions of ISPs who may put their profits over the public good. Since internet access is required to function productively in society, it is indeed a matter of public good. Therefore, a government working for the public good needs to regulate internet providers in this case, until technology changes bring forth more market options. Given previous clandestine attempts by large ISPs to alter traffic based on type or destination, that market can not be trusted.

958. Nicholas Strong, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

The internet is the most important tool for democracy and free speech that the world has. If the United States repeals net neutrality, it will unavoidably allow corporations to control what people can and cannot see on the internet, as well as allow ISPs to influence what companies that individuals do business with. And once they are given that power, it would be foolish to assume that they would not use it to their own benefit and agendas, at the cost of their consumers and to the detriment of the principles that our first amendment embodies. Here in the US, we shame other countries for taking actions that limit free speech, but now here we are, with the elected representatives that were forced upon us, choosing the state over citizens. Please, do not kill net neutrality.

959. David Solnok, Muskego, WI, 53150

This is an unacceptable breach of our liberties. Please do not allow greed to influence your decision, if you think that this won't affect you, just wait it will. Do not accept this, please fight for freedom in our information networks this is bad for all people who use the internet.

960. Susan Klement, Greendale, WI, 53129

PLEASE spare us the "Freedom" to be exploited by our ISP's!!! Our internet NEEDS to be protected from their greedy interest! Thank you, Susan Klement

961. Paul Fennema, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

Freedom of speech is a given in our society. Opposition to various issues is part of that given. For any entity to control what can and cannot be presented in the media would jeopardize that freedom. If anything to be gotten rid of and controlled, please get rid of the endless popups on the internet - they are invasive, irritating, and pathetic. Thank you.

962. Peg Esposito, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

It is vital to the growth of commerce, the education and entertainment of our kids and the protection of democracy that you protect Net Neutrality. Please do not make decisions that will decrease our access to high quality internet service. As a small business owner for 25 years, I was able to access my clients in large metropolitan areas while raising my family in a small community in Wisconsin. The actions you are threatening to take would have prevented my ability to make a living in that manner, and raise my kids with the one on one attention to their schooling and entertainment that is the base of the great American dream. Thank you!

963. Steven Hubbard, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

I will do everything possible to make sure all who vote to end net neutrality will be voted out of the congress and senate.

964. Gary Lyons, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

Are ISP's customers subject to rebates if the ISP intentionally slows down the service that their customers pay for? I pay them for high speed internet access. If they intentionally slow down my feed, they are not fulfilling their end of the bargain. It doesn't matter what I'm downloading, I pay my ISP for high speed internet that they are refusing to deliver.

965. R Gilbert, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Net neutrality is a must. Why must we feed the wishes of big businesses who are trying to protect profits and make the Internet smaller rather than inclusive? Stop the nonsense. Protect net neutrality.

966. G Toslek, Racine, WI, 53402

The concept that "someone always has to make money" off of public things is wrong. All things common should be FREE

967. Colleen Stoneburner, Racine, WI, 53402

Please don't destroy my access to the net. I can't afford to pay the charges of the giant telecom industry.

968. G Toslek, Racine, WI, 53402

Stop stealing the commons for profit

969. Chris Finch, Mukwonago, WI, 53149

We need an open internet in order to thrive as a nation. We should not be subject to censorship at the ISP level. This will create a significant drain on innovation, and will push technology firms to other countries. Regards, Chris Finch

970. Mike S, Mukwonago, WI, 53149

Maybe if the head of the FCC appointed by the obviously corrupt Trump admin wasn't a former Verizon lawyer he wouldn't be acting like a corporate lobbyist and would start representing the majority of the people and not the greed soaked

.01%

971. Karen Peterson, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Net neutrality is a protection of free speech and fights against monopolies. Let it be. Karen
972. John & Jeanne O'Connell, Big Bend, WI, 53103
DO NOT END NET NEUTRALITY!! No one individual or entity should have a special/unique/exclusive right to use this tool!!
973. Bernadette Borchert, Racine, WI, 53403
American citizens do not need more expense or more control. Keep our Internet neutral!
974. Thomas Bottoms, Oak Creek, WI, 53154
The internet has become a necessity for daily life and a pipeline for innovation. Please preserve net neutrality to keep a free and open internet.
975. Sue Koprowski, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
What are you thinking. You reveal who you work for and you are mixed up as you are hired to represent and protect the people who you represent. I urge you to protect them. Do not use government power to put your hand in in manipulating the system for where the money trail leads you. My gosh, do the right thing and protect your people, which is your primary job. I, my family and my friends are watching you and don't try to turn the table. We are too smart. I want less tax and as you know, we will likely be taxed more. What we do online is my/our business. I value my privacy. Will you publish what you do online? I think not. I don't want ISPs to have the power to block websites, slow them down, give some sites an advantage over others, or split the Internet into "fast lanes" for companies that pay and "slow lanes" for the rest. Censorship by ISPs is a serious problem. Comcast has throttled Netflix, AT&T blocked FaceTime, Time Warner Cable throttled the popular game League of Legends, and Verizon admitted it will introduce fast lanes for sites that pay and slow lanes for everyone else-if the FCC lifts the rules. This hurts consumers and businesses large and small. Courts have made clear that if the FCC ends Title II classification, the FCC must let ISPs offer "fast lanes" to websites for a fee. Please do the right thing and protect the people who elected you! If some companies can pay our ISPs to have their content load faster, startups and small businesses that can't pay those fees won't be able to compete. You will kill the open marketplace that has enabled millions of small businesses and created the 5 most valuable companies in America-just to further enrich a few much less valuable cable giants famous for sky-high prices and abysmal customer service. Internet providers will be able to impose a private tax on every sector of the American economy. Moreover, under Chairman Pai's plan, ISPs will be able to make it more difficult to access political speech that they don't like. They'll be able to charge fees for website delivery that would make it harder for blogs, nonprofits, artists, and others who can't pay up to have their voices heard. I'm sending this to the FCC's open proceeding, but I worry that Chairman Pai, a former Verizon lawyer, has made his plans and will ignore me and millions of other Americans. So I'm also sending this to my members of Congress. Please publicly support the FCC's existing net neutrality rules based on Title II, and denounce Chairman Pai's plans. Do whatever you can to dissuade him. Thank you!

976. Israel Willoughby, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
SAVE NET NEUTRALITY! SAVE THE INTERNET!
977. Matthias Nelson, Waukesha, WI, 53189
Net Neutrality protects the users of the internet from exploits from their ISPs. Net Neutrality needs to stay in action.
978. Jessica Peterson, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
Freedom of information!!
979. Louis Pearson, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
There are no ISP's that are competing with others to provide good service. They are monopolies, and as such they need regulation, such as net neutrality. We cannot let greed prevail.
980. Amanda Lewis, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
I do not want the government controlling what I am allowed to see and do on the internet. That is what China does and we are not a communistic country. Stop trying to push this through! NO ONE WANTS THIS except businesses to make a shit ton of money.
981. Pam Hauke, Kenosha, WI, 53142
America is founded on freedom - Changing the internet laws, as proposed in May, destroys freedom. Keep Net Neutrality!
982. Joyce Riphagen, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Net Neutrality is important to me for several reasons, the first being that equal opportunity is a core concept in the founding principles of our nation. The United States has made a name for itself as a country where everyone, no matter their original standing in life, has a chance to improve their situation with hard work. Institutions like public education establish this and also provide another key reason for Net Neutrality. Many, if not most schools in this day utilize the web as a tool to teach children and encourage learning. I myself frequently use the internet to study, learn new information, complete assignments, and much more. If Net Neutrality is abolished, the quality of my education will drastically decrease. Furthermore, if you take away Net Neutrality, you decrease the quality of my future. I am 16, and passionate about learning and establishing a career in STEM fields. Net Neutrality is a large part of that future due to its impact on Internet use and research. Leave Net Neutrality alone. It is incredibly important to myself, my peers, and my educators. It is a key part of keeping our nation free. It is crucial.

983. Seth Hopkins, Racine, WI, 53403

I don't want to pay extra for everything on the internet.

984. Calvin DeLabio, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158

Net Neutrality is important to me because the internet has been a place that allows ideas and communication flow. If we lose Net Neutrality we are basically going into a corner cafe and monitoring what the people say. The internet is just a very large cafe or city park. Stifling one of the best means of creativity and communication is stifling the hope and dreams of a very large number of humans.

985. Paul Tabili, Racine, WI, 53406

The Internet is a public resource, not a private business, and it should remain open and neutral to all users. LEAVE NET NEUTRALITY ALONE. It's good for American citizens, and the Internet is not yours to sell off to corporations. IT BELONGS TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

986. Cassidy Williams, Kenosha, WI, 53144

Internet Access has become an utility most jobs require it in some form or another just to apply. To allow a site to have preferred access or to slow another would give them a business advantage. If a restaurant owner coned off a competitor's entrance so more would come in to their store would we consider it legal? No, why would we consider an online business any differently? Everyone (clients and servers) should have equal access and the equal access should be enforced.

987. Mitch Kayser, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Competition is the foundation of what our economy was based off of. If you take that away, and allow the big corps. to take control of what the internet, it could be similar to what happened back in the early 1900's with what Rockefeller did to the oil industry. Not to mention that Trump stated throughout the presidential race to put "America first" and if his administration is attacking one of the most basic aspects of American life, then that's just one more mark on the hypocrisy charts of Mr. Trump, and his team. Bottom line: please don't ruin the internet, it's truly a special place that affects us all. Don't screw it up like you did to the world with the Paris agreement.

988. Christopher Bernotat, Racine, WI, 53406

The internet is an incredibly important tool for millions of people, and allowing companies to arbitrarily restrict it is by far the best way to kill all the creativity, freedom, and expression that the internet has brought.

989. Maggie Pepple, Racine, WI, 53402

I can't afford more on bills and don't want to pay more for a different internet provider because they feel the need to throttle how I watch my entertainment.

990. Seth Yarger, Bristol, WI, 53104

The net is an important tool to express opinions and ideals. To restrict this medium is a breach to the right to free speech.

991. Brianna Miller, Milton, WI, 53563

The internet is something that is known for its equality and freedom. It is established through the free organizations and independent. To do this is to change the basis of what it was made and functions primarily for.

992. Cody , Kenosha, WI, 53140

The internet has become a basic communication tool for millions, and granting corporations the ability to control the speed and access in which users can access sites is awful. It's an a abusable power that will cost consumers much more money. Net neutrality can and actively does stop this. To do away with net neutrality is to destroy the internet

993. Emily Chitwood, Racine, WI, 53405

Because I won't have access to the sites I love without it. I do not want to pay more money to a big business just to watch a YouTube video.

994. Madeliene Patnou, Genoa City, WI, 53128

Net Neutrality is crucial--not only to me, but it's integral to the infrastructure of our society. We have had almost thirty years to use the internet as we see fit. This has resulted in a whole new economy--small businesses can reach audiences they never could have without it. One can buy organic soap from Australia or gorgeous textiles from a shepherd on the Madagascar peninsula. One can try food from around the world, no matter what keeps them from visiting these places on their own. Families can stay in touch without the burden that travel can sometimes be. We can get information on caring for our bodies that we might not have had access to--we can learn more about medications that we might be using, from people who have used them. We can learn about genealogy and history. We can learn things our parents might have been too embarrassed to teach us. We can learn things about life that our parents might never have known. The internet has given us the opportunity to live our lives in a way that puts the invaluable knowledge of the ages to great use. With the internet as it exists today, people can connect with others who might change their lives--people they never would have met without the internet. We can share ideas and express our opinions and delve into such opinions with those who might have other opinions. We can find unique and beautiful items to enrich our lives, or maybe just save a couple bucks over what we might at the store. The lives of not only every internet denizen in the US, but every internet denizen world wide has been enriched by the freedom that we have on the internet. To take that away would be to topple our country when Trump claims to want to Make America Great Again. But who does he want to make our country great for?

995. Elisabeth Wilson, Kenosha, WI, 53140
Having a free internet gives me a way to enjoy half of my life.
996. Lucie Wegener, Rochester, WI, 53167
It is important for small businesses and artists who use the internet to display their content.
997. Ian , Racine, WI, 53404
I shouldn't have to pay more money to get the same access to the internet.
998. Henry Moran, Greendale, WI, 53129
Dog please, the internet is the realest freedom we have in this great country of ours, and removing Net Nuetrality would make it suck for millions of Americans.
999. Jack Zimmerman, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
I think net neutrality should be ended. What right does the government have to enforce regulations on private business, in this case ISPs. Hopefully this email will be some light among the spam of the others. Thanks!Jack Zimmerman
1000. Scott Pagliaroni, Franklin, WI, 53132
The internet is a very important part of almost everyone's daily lives in the 21st century. It is the modern embodiment of 1st Amendment, and not only a public good, but an essential tool for modern living. Any hampering, privatization, or assault on the freedom of the internet is not only wrong, it's very un-American. Please keep Net Neutrality.
1001. Josh , Kenosha, WI, 53143
the reason this is really important for me to take action in this is because the internet so for us and everyone to use the net however we want, whenever we want.
1002. Paris Barker, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
Net Neutrality is important to me because I use the internet to connect to some of my friends and talk to my relatives who I don't see very often. I would have to work everyday if I wanted to use the internet as I want. I also play the sims 4, which was very expensive and I don't care to pay more to continue playing it.
1003. Jaylen Coker, Kenosha, WI, 53142
I understand this happens nearly to every thing that is invented and let loose for free to the masses, soon it will be owned and purchased and it becomes very messy. If this is passed, who's to say you'd even read this? Not to mention I don't think we, as a nation, can afford it. It will devastate many, many across the country. Keep it free.

1004. JUSTIN Smith, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147
After any modicum of research it is clear to a sane and reasonable person that Net Neutrality is fight for the regular American against corporate profits. If you truly claim to represent the American people then I implore to vote in favor of Net Neutrality and against corporate interests.
1005. Brandon Jones, Racine, WI, 53406
I am a direct beneficiary of a free and open internet. It has molded my career and lifestyle and I owe this open system for that. I am fighting for freedom of access and speed for any site or server. It is NOT RIGHT for ISPs to control the transmission of the web, To prioritize traffic, or to determine the winners on the internet. Without Net Neutrality rules the Web will be a much worse place. The FCC should be coming up with a plan to secure an open internet that serves our nation and leads the world in speed, openness and fairness. Massive companies like Twitter and Google admired the world over were created in the US for a reason because of fair rules for startups and protection of their equality. I want the US to continue to lead in that respect.I demand my government act on behalf of its citizens and not its corporate conglomerates which have been awarded thousands of local monopolies.Sincerely your taxpaying citizen,Brandon Jones
1006. Laura Mason, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Preserve net neutrality. Do not allow the internet to become the new cable television, by creating monopolies where companies can fix prices and push out people in lower income groups. Market-based utilities are never good for the consumer. (Paid prioritization - paragraph 84) Corporations are responsible to their shareholders not to the publics they serve. The only people who think Net Neutrality needs to change are companies like Verizon, AT&T, Time Warner, Spectrum, etc. The net is a utility - most people today are required to use it for simple transactions such as filling out insurance forms, banking (if they don't want to incur a fee), school, etc. We need to maintain the transparency rule (#88) and the additional reporting obligations (#89). Net Neutrality is working it doesn't need to change.
1007. Thomas Scurek, East Troy, WI, 53120
I, as an internet user, am heavily in favor of net neutrality and would appreciate the FCC protecting the existing net neutrality laws.
1008. William Mason, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
The Restoring Internet Freedom proposal is anything but what the name implies. In it's current state, the internet is a tool anyone can use to express anything their heart desires. Ajit Pai, however, feels that this tool is being held back by government interference. The presented reasoning behind the Restoring Internet Freedom proposal is to allow for a competitive environment in order to help the internet grow; consumers would choose companies that provide a better service. This could work in theory, however there needs to be competition to create a mutual relationship between the consumers and companies. Remove the factor of choice and the relationship becomes purely parasitic. It isn't rare when Internet Service Providers don't compete in a certain area. As a result, the company doesn't try to improve their service. Instead, they charge more for the same, or worse, service. The residents can't just move to choose a different ISP, so they're stuck with what's available. If net neutrality is removed, similar behavior would ensue. There wouldn't be competition, so ISP's would charge more for their current service in the form of, "fast lanes." In addition, the power for ISP's to name their price allows them to stifle businesses that rely on the internet for profit. Net neutrality is what prevents the formation of monopolies on the internet. It is what lets the people to decide what to use the internet for, and not what ISP's allow it to be used for.

1009. Thomas Scurek, East Troy, WI, 53120

I am strongly in favor of the FCC preserving Net Neutrality under Title 2.

1010. dakota kane, kenosha, WI, 53143

I bleeping despise paying $50.00 for internet services that in most other industrial countries cost less than $5.00. I fear having information slowed down by companies or government's that want me ignorant to their follies. That's some of many reasons I demand strong net neutrality. Preserve net neutrality AND TITLE 2!!!

1011. Joy Kemnitz, Williams Bay, WI, 53191

I support net neutrality. Service providers have no business deciding what I should do with the internet access I pay for. Leave our protections in place!

1012. Jeffrey Thilmany, Trevor, WI, 53179

I specifically support Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs. This cannot be allowed to be changed under the false claims of "Restoring internet freedom".

1013. Alton Zenon III, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181

Preserve Net Neutrality backed by Title II oversight of ISPs.

1014. R. Roubique, New Berlin, WI, 53151

I am in favor of Net Neutrality. Where I live, I only have 1 option for internet providers if I want high speed internet. This corporation is already using this fact to raise my cost, year after year, with no recourse. I do not want to lose net neutrality and risk this money-hungry corporation having the option to charge me fees for using Netflix, or throttling my service if my husband streams on videogames. Thank you for considering the logical financial repercussions for the majority of internet purchasers if you give corporations the opportunity by eliminating net neutrality.

1015. Graham Andrews, Salem, WI, 53168

I strongly support Net Neutrality so ISPs do not have the power to discriminate between websites at will.

1016. Tiffany Baker, Racine, WI, 53404

The laws as they currently stand under title 2, protect net neutrality. I believe net neutrality is an important thing in conserving our freedom in this digital age.

1017. Courtney McNeal, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Do not eliminate the current protections that make free expression and innovation on the internet possible. Keep the internet free and open to all.

1018. Kyle Lindquist, Kenosha, WI, 53140

Please keep the internet open and fair for everyone, it's vital to our growth as a people and nation.

1019. Jeremy Wyrowski, Muskego, WI, 53150

I cannot overstate the importance of protecting Net Neutrality backed by strong Title II oversight. Anything less is simply unacceptable.

1020. Lindsey Spoden, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

I support net neutrality, and wish to oppose any changes that would allow corporations to bias internet resources.

1021. Ruth Hackman, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

Spectrum just raise my price on Internet another $5.00. It may not seem like much, but they do this without notice and frequently through the years. Last time and why I left them before was they got my bill up to $110 for just simple phone and simple Internet connection. This is NOT a business but my personal account. I am a senior on a fixed Social Security of $711. This should NOT be allowed!!!!Thank you and please help.Ruth Hackman

1022. Sharon McBride, Kenosha, WI, 53143

Net neutrality is fundamental to free speech. Net neutrality protects small business and innovators who are just getting started. Net neutrality allows consumers-not big companies-to choose what they watch & do online. The Constitution guarantees the right to free speech.

1023. Martin Plecki, Mt. Pleasant, WI, 53406

I support neutrality on the internet in order to encourage a range of options, opinions, dialogue and opportunity. Government could promulgate guidelines without becoming heavy handed with rules or overbearing with oversight.

1024. Greg Klema, Racine, WI, 53406

Access to and dissemination of Information should not be restricted by private industry nor the government.

1025. Gregory Hansen, Waukesha, WI, 53189
We need all our 1st amendment Rights without everyone pecking away at them and then giving them to the highest bidder.
1026. mark gruetsmacher, janesville, WI, 53545
Do not take away my freedom to get free access to the internet . I live on a fixed income and if you would put in place more restriction on it i would not be able to afford to get access to the things i need to do for my lively hood. I would be very difficult to get things done. So, please leave it alone for my sake in order to have the freedom to do the things i need to do in order to live without having more costs.
1027. Daniel Madore, Kenosha, WI, 53140
I think all users should have the same access to the internet, it does not matter what they are using it for.
1028. Daniel Guenther, Waukesha, WI, 53188
My business model depends on net neutrality to compete with big corporations. We need net neutrality for small businesses everywhere to flourish.
1029. David Willing, Racine, WI, 53402
Preserve net neutrality protections!
1030. Kenneth Jenks, Kenosha, WI, 53140
The Internet was developed at taxpayersâ€™ expense to benefit the public interest. It belongs to all of us. The FCC should be working to sustain competition and consumer benefits, not creating unnecessary tolls for businesses and consumers.
1031. Steven Mui, Kenosha, WI, 53143
The Internet is one wonderful example of a truly global society. The information shared online has a transformative ability to link people who, without access to the Internet, would never have interacted. As our world moves closer and closer to a fully-realized global entity, it is important to have open and equal access to information. Americans cannot and should not have a filtered view of reality, where certain sites and providers run at a faster speed. This necessarily becomes a breeding ground for corruption. An ill-informed or misinformed people will be unable to fully participate in society. I am no legal expert. But while looking at reforming laws, we cannot purely look at the economic impact. We must also look at the moral impact on society. Baha'u'llah, the Prophet founder of the Baha'i Faith, in no uncertain terms, taught that each individual has the responsibility to search after the truth, free of superstitions, traditions, or prejudice. Allowing certain websites to operate at faster speeds or bandwidth would necessarily be biased or prejudiced against websites that may not have the financial resources of others. Lack of resources has little, if nothing, to do with the quality or information presented. I urge you all to consider the moral ramifications of applying any law or change to law that you are consulting about. Putting restrictions or priorities on access and speed of websites would be a hindrance to the American people in relation to the global society.

1032. Augustin Chenault, Bristol, WI, 53104

Net neutrality is essential to keep the internet 100% open and free to all people.

1033. James Kofron, Bristol, WI, 53104

I am a huge proponent of net neutrality. Where I live, in rural Wisconsin, we're underserved by the large carriers and need to have true innovators provide services to reach the internet. I use the net for email, web hosting, working from home, and entertainment---and my ISP doesn't host any of that---I'm allowed to buy my own services and not have to rely on high priced bundles from major providers. In my area, we've had to give up our ATT land line because the company has failed to do routine maintenance to the copper wires---it's what I imagine phone service was like in the 40's. Please classify ISPs under utility/telecommunication rules. Rural users will suffer without these protections.

1034. Ian Mesa, Kenosha, WI, 53143

Expressing upon the behalf of 12 million disappointed citizens that supported net neutrality before it got shot down by a few companies. Net neutrality is related to freedom of speech in a few ways. The biggest example is that with net neutrality, anyone with the similar same speed of internet in America can express any concern they have with America. Without net neutrality, everyone across the country has to pay nickel and dime to express any concern right away if they don't want to be stuck with laughably slow internet speeds, this isn't even getting into how many people in America live below the poverty line. Another example is that without net neutrality, major internet service providers can sell and give away your personal data to anyone they want at a high price, completely destroying anyone's online privacy and leading into who knows what territory for freedom of speech. This isn't the only time American companies tried to censor the internet. One of the more notable examples was SOPA, a flat out internet censorship bill that came near close to being passed being supported by every single American company giant imaginable. i.e. Viacom, BMG, Disney, Time Warner and Universal.

1035. Ceilidh Fellows, Kenosha, WI, 53142

We support net neutrality and are against its removal. We believe that removing net neutrality will hurt small businesses and create a means to implement censorship (paying for quicker access means the voices of those with less money could be stifled). The internet is an amazing resource that should be regulated like a utility to protect it.

1036. Daniel Hirsch, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Please preserve Net Neutrality. The country loves the internet, and I love it too. I don't want it to be slow and throttled because I haven't paid the right fees.

1037. Nicholas Strong, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

Enforcing Net Neutrality with ISPs is the only way to ensure free communication and democracy across the entire world. Without it, ISPs will get to pick and choose what we see, by either limiting speeds to the websites they do not like, or even outright blocking them. Please do not sell us out. The citizens of this country, and the people of the world, NEED net neutrality. It is the good and right thing to do, and you know it. I know that getting payoffs from large corporations, and the idea of being vaulted into higher positions of power and influence, is a very strong motivator to sell out us "little people". But you can be a better person than that. The world needs heroes like you to have strong moral convictions, and to ensure equality for all. Please be that hero.

1038. Aaron Gray, Eagle, WI, 53119

The FCC should reject the proposal to roll back Title II protections. They are crucial to a free and open internet, in direct opposition to the tiered, monopolistic internet that companies like Comcast, AT&T, and Verizon want to create.

1039. Page Benkowski, Caledonia, WI, 53108

Net neutrality encourages innovation, prevents censorship, and protects free speech. Voting to end it is not only unacceptable, it's un-American.

1040. Ian Fiebig, Elkhorn, WI, 53121

This is my second comment, I've been disheartened by the FCC's response to overwhelming support for net neutrality and the classification of internet providers as public utilities that Americans are displaying. The evidence is clear, given the option many internet providers will hinder customers use of the internet. The internet is an incredible tool that will foster all future developments. Just like water service, electricity, and the phone. Do not make the mistake of stunting development for the benefit of one industry!

1041. Matt Hadley, Franklin, WI, 53132

Please, for once, can you think about the general well being of our country and not about you and your friends getting paid off by the ISPs? Don't screw the public of what is now considered an essential right by limiting what we can see. Follow the steps of Tom Wheeler and do the right thing, don't limit our Internet freedom.

1042. Danielle Bessette, Waterford, WI, 53185

I am in support of net neutrality and I feel that the destruction of it will be disastrous for our country and the world's views and access to what I think is one of the most important and relevant tools of modern times. Allowing telecommunication monopolies to control what should be considered a basic human right - access to an uncensored global network that allows for unprecedented communication and information accessibility that does not discriminate by class, etc. - would directly impact the advancement of our civilization. This would allow these companies to control the populations access to uncensored or biased information, allowing them the ability to control what is accessible, and thus, what is learned. They would also be allowed to bleed people dry of their hard earned money. The Internet is no longer just a source of entertainment, workplaces and schools are heavily dependant on it. To allow these companies to interfere with that goes against the core beliefs that the US stands for. These rules must stay intact for the betterment of our people, instead of broken for the betterment of a few corporations.

1043. Seth D. Meyers, Janesville, WI, 53548
The restoring internet freedom act is a ploy to destroy our valuable net neutrality. UPHOLD net neutrality and keep the internet open! I will do whatever is in my power as a citizen to ensure that net neutrality stays put.
1044. Matthew Mouras, Janesville, WI, 53545
I'm a web entrepreneur. An open internet is vital to my family's well being and to the American economy as a whole. Web based businesses must operate on a level playing ground. Everyone's access should be able to remain competitive with larger businesses, regardless of whether they pair with ISPs. I'm sorely disappointed that Pai is about to tear down the protections that were put in place in 2015. Let the record show: I object to this. It isn't right. It's un-American. - Matthew Mouras
1045. Jeff Barnes, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Keep the internet NEUTRAL, fair for all to use. Thanks
1046. Brad Burrigh, Kenosha, WI, 53142
Usage and access to a service that is becoming more and more a "public utility" with regards to being needed for current every-day life should not be restricted by any schemes for extracting extra money from users. I pay a service to provide an open lane. I should not have my lane slowed/narrowed because a company wants me to find a friendly/paying site easier than a different site.
1047. Mary Jo Armstrong, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
Please keep net neutrality. Don't let the large ISPs take over how and what we view on the internet!!
1048. Dean Rosko, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Keep access to the internet open. Retracting net neutrality rules only benefits the already-rich providers and allows them to take advantage of the average consumer. We have plenty of more important things to concentrate on than lining the pockets of AT&T and Verizon.

1049. Robert Nunez, Racine, WI, 53405
I am writing to express my support to keep the Title II classification on ISPs. With this law in place, we have seen some extra competition in the marketplace and rates lowering. Without it, we might as well just kill every other tech company out there. Live in a rural area, too bad, the major ISPs will not connection you to high speed internet. Trying to lay you own community internet, well, cannot do that either. Without Title II this country will just be under the thumb of the major corporations that do not feel the need to update their infrastructure.
1050. Peter Bosch, Waukesha, WI, 53189
Do NOT revoke net neutrality. It will not bolster competition, serve the consumer or improve pricing. It will only enrich the cable/access companies, at our expense. We know it, they know it, you know it. Do the right thing.
1051. Sheila Webber, Burlington, WI, 53105
Please keep us safe. Do not allow big business to invade our privacy. Continue with net neutrality!
1052. Grant Testa, Fontana, WI, 53125
I don't want to pay for something that should be free
1053. Alberto Gomez, Kenosha, WI, 53142
A form of freedom of speech should not be restricted. This is our medium, you wouldn't take down newspapers and make "exclusive papers"
1054. Tiffany Kramer, Racine, WI, 53403
The fact that people have to pay to use websites is ridiculous. It is going to have a huge impact on artists who do business on the internet.
1055. Casey Simonsen, Twin Lakes, WI, 53181
Net Neutrality is important to me because we shouldn't have to change a system that already works just because Donald Trump is a greedy fuckhead
1056. Dale Hanson, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
The internet is a world all on it's own. It is governed by the people who choose to frequent it and we make the rules. It gives us an outlet some of us desperately need to escape from the stresses of life. To allow ISP's to make the rules and give special treatment to some websites over others and block content they don't like as well as ruin the open access everyone deserves, it will no longer make it a world that we control. There is enough proof from past decisions made by ISP's to show that this will be used to their benefit, not to ours. Leave Net Neutrality alone.
1057. Sue Costoff, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
What more wrong can this administration let happen to our country!!! Nothing is safe, virtually everything is up for grabs!! Jeeze will you people ever get enough???

1058. Jeff Gillette, Franksville wi, WI, 53126

My bussiness is bussiness not the chump adminastration.

1059. John Cozad, Sturtevant, WI, 53177

Why can't we do what is right for once?

1060. Daniel Bowser, Waterford, WI, 53185

I think we all realize that the Internet and computer technologies are impacting and even controlling an increasing amount of our lives. It is important for this critical piece of infrastructure to be accessible to all and free from manipulation by corporations and others. I don't believe anyone should have the power to manage the flow of data based on the content of that data, other than in specific crises situations. These situations should be few and far in between and require a judge order or an emergency declaration by an appropriate public official. The terms for these engagements should be clearly spelled out and have full public disclosure. Any official declaration or emergency should also require full public disclosure. If an Internet provider has a need to provide a lower level of service than the contractual level with its' customers, due to a high level of user demand or equipment malfunctions, etc., the impact to consumers should be spread among all users and not targeted to specific individuals or groups of individuals or types of data usage. These exceptions should be tracked by an independent 3rd party and be made available to the public. This would help consumers make informed decisions about the true quality of service a provider offers and not just the stated rates. Another element that needs to be considered is the use of people's data, including an individual's personal information, browsing history, location, time and other usage specifics. We need to shift more toward the European model, where an individual's information belongs to them and not the companies that run web sites or services (including providers). An individual should be able to view, at any time, the data that is being collected on him or her. He or she should also be able to make choices about if & when that data should be collected, how it is to be used and to verify the accuracy and integrity of the data collected. I think most people would be shocked if they knew how much information about them exists. Anyone who has had their credit stolen knows how difficult and time consuming it is to fix the situation. With the rapid growth of these technologies, the potential for errors and misinformation that could negatively impact any of us is growing exponentially. Thank you for your time and consideration.

1061. Yamin Masalkhi, Greendale, WI, 53129

I am writing in opposition to the proposed repealing of Title II regulations. The idea of net neutrality is the single-most central concept of the internet itself. It's absurd that we have to defend the public sphere that is the internet against a slew of private interests, and in so broad a manner. We, the citizens of the US and the world, oppose your attempt to regulate our right to unrestricted neutral access to the internet.

1062. Rick Schill, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I'am paying for access already to the internet. No one should be allowed to block my access to certain websites or services or require me to pay over and over again for the same service I have already paid for. Current net neutrality rules should be left in place to provide real openness and free speech opportunities for all Americans.
1063. Thomas Reest, Kenosha, WI, 53144
Net neutrality is vital to every Americans freedom on the web. The internet is the new platform for free speech and expression. Giving ISP's the power to govern speed and connection Is a gross overreach of my rights, and the promise that they wouldn't is ridiculous and empty. For example, If one ISP were to take a political stance, they could easily drown out any opposing positions or if there was anything that would be detriment to their position. The failure to see the overreaching repercussions of this is unbelievable.
1064. Jonathan Patlak, Silver Lake, WI, 53170
Please reject the Orwellian entitled "Restore Internet Freedom" Rule proposed by FCC Chairman Ajit Pai. I support and want you to keep true freedom of the internet through strong net neutrality backed by Title 2 Oversight of ISP's.
1065. Meagan, Pleasant Prairie, WI, 53158
Please preserve net neutrality and title two. Not doing so can lead to big companies screwing over consumers and smaller companies before they can get off the ground. There have been so many instances of big companies like Verison and T-Mobile slowing down costumer's internet just because they are using a competitor's search engine or something. Please protect the american people and not these big companies.
1066. Jim Spicka, Waukesha, WI, 53189
I support net neutrality. Don't let big money corporations decide what I get to look at. Leave it free and accessible to everyone.
1067. Anthony Zilius, Elkhorn, WI, 53121
Please preserve net neutrality and Title 2 oversite of ISP's. Free WIFI in city centers has better connection speeds and reliability than what we pay for here. The US is well down the list compared to the rest of the world. The internet should be unrestricted and free flowing. Throttling should not be permitted.
1068. Scott Kerber, Mukwonago, WI, 53149
I am in favor of strong net neutrality rules and title two oversight of ISPs.
1069. Scott Laybourn, Kenosha, WI, 53142

Please leave in place the present net neutrality rules. Internet providers should not be allowed to set prices and regulate themselves because history shows they will maximize profit with no concern for consumers. The FCC should fight for individuals, like myself rather than huge ISP's. So leave the net neutrality regulations in place for the little people.

1070. Jon Paulsen, Racine, WI, 53405

Net neutrality needs to remain the way it is: A free non-blocked internet for all. This proposal should not be approved, as it is pro big-business, but anti-citizens of America. If Ajit Pai goes forward with this proposal, he does it against the wishes of Americans.

1071. nick, janesville, WI, 53545

Do no go through with this bill it is bullshit! Leave are internet alone before you piss off more people and they get fet up with all this greed! Stop! No to this bill!

1072. Karl Wollaeger, Lake Geneva, WI, 53147

I strongly advocate strong net neutrality backed by title 2 oversight of ISP's. Thank you.

1073. David Meyran, Sturtevant, WI, 53177

Don't impede on my liberty, keep the internet free.

1074. net neutrality, Glen st, WI, 53545

I completely support net neutrality and want you to preserve it under title 2. Please listen.

This analysis builds on the work of several data scientists who analyzed the more than 22 million comments submitted to the FCC in the 2017 proceeding. Jeff Kao used national language processing to group comments into ~60 form letters submissions and then separated out approximately 800,000 unique comments. He then analyzed the unique comments by pulling out 1,000 at random and found that "It's highly likely that more than 99% of the truly unique comments were in favor of keeping net neutrality."

Kao's work on these comments was covered extensively in the press, including by the Washington Post. <https://hackernoon.com/more-than-a-million-pro-repeal-net-neutrality-comments-were-likely-faked-e9f0e3ed36a6>.

This analysis used Kao's data set of unique comments (available via the above web page), and then grouped them by House District by their addresses. This was done using a combination of zip code matching and the US Census Bureau's API that matches physical addresses to Congressional Districts. Commenters that submitted unique comments without addresses were excluded from this analysis.
